CALLED EATON LUNATIC

Daughter of Mrs. Eaton, Says Mother Often Spoke of Having Admiral Committed to Asylum

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—A hint at evidence not yet revealed was given by the state today at the continuation of the trial for murder of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton. This had to do with a typewritten document alleged to have disappeared from the Eaton home after the death of the defendant's husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, who died. It is charged from poison administered by his wife.

Melvin Master, inspector of milk, reports that the quality of the milk in this city has greatly improved this month, this being due to the fact that the cows have been taken from the pastures and are now being fed in barns on grain and hay. Mr. Master says from Oct. to April the quality of the milk always improves, especially in the winter months.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

Huerta Plans to Assemble Foreign Diplomats in Mexico City and Make a Statement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Gen. Huerta plans to assemble the foreign diplomats in Mexico City today or tomorrow, according to latest state department advice, and make a statement on the present situation. No inkling of the purpose of Huerta's statement was contained in the dispatches. It will be received here with the keenest interest though administration officials doubt that it will alter the situation.

High Court of Impeachment Decided on Removal by Vote of Forty-Three to Twelve ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—William Sulzer no longer is governor of the state of New York. A few minutes before noon today the high court of impeachment, by a vote of 43 to 12, removed him from office. Senator Wende and Judge Cullen excused themselves from voting.

THE SATURDAY FEATURES

THREE SPECIAL WRITERS WILL OFFER ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO ALL CLASSES OF READERS

The Saturday features included in the articles by three special writers under the titles "Lady Lookabout," "The Man in the Moon" and "The Spellbinder," have some excellent things to offer this week. "Lady Lookabout" has found new ideas that will interest the ladies, while "The Man in the Moon" talks on a great variety of subjects from meteorology to the "hog" fisherman and the reckless huntsman who will fire into a wood if he hears but a rustle among the trees.

STEPHEN HARALOMPOS, IN THIS COUNTRY BUT NINE DAYS, BLEW OUT GAS IN BED ROOM

BROCKTON, Oct. 17.—One man is dead and another will probably die as a result of retiring Thursday night and blowing out the gas in their room. The dead man is Stephen Haralompos, aged 23 and the other is Kostas Minas. Both have been in America only nine days and but two days in Brockton. Quick application of the pulmonary this morning when the men were found, partially revived Minas. The men have relatives at Laconia, N. H.

WAR EXPENSIVE

Reports of Amounts of Money Used for Navy and Army

It may be illuminating to taxpayers to learn how much of their money is used to build dreadnoughts and to equip armies which might yield better results if applied to better ends. The figures are taken from Mr. Arthur W. Allen's "The Drain of Armaments" and may be found in the Statesman's Year-Book, official reports of the United States, and other reliable sources. In the fiscal year 1911-12 the United States spent over 244 million dollars for maintaining its army and navy. This represents a charge of $2.65 per unit of its population. The cost of the naval and military force constituted nearly 27.1 per cent. of the total expenditures of the country. Each man in the army of the United States costs the government $1,314 per year. What this enormous outlay for a hypothetical war means to the taxpayer is obvious. There is no reason for surprise at the high cost of living in this country when we learn that during the year 1911-12 this country, with less than 14 per cent. as many men in its army as France spent 60 per cent. as much money on it; with less than 13 per cent. as many as Germany, it spent almost 64 per cent. as much. The army cost us last year an average of more than $1,200 for each man in it as against less than $400 paid by any nation in Europe. Where does the money come from? Do the tax-payers get what they pay for? Are the men who work for their livings willing to agree to this extravagance? "We make no comment further than to say that if the mutual suspicion and distrust which prompts the present huge armaments of Europe, with their galling financial burdens, are justified by the facts, civilization is a thin veneer and we are still savages at heart. But it is easier to believe that there is a universal and unjustifiable panic, and that if the great nations would be governed by their reason instead of by their fears, show sincerity themselves and credit some degree of sincerity to others, the tension would be relieved." Such is the expense of peace under arms. The expense of an actual war in money and in human life is frightful. In the first Balkan war Bulgaria lost 80,000 out of 350,000 men with an expenditure of 240 million dollars. Greece lost 10,000 out of 150,000 men and the expenses were 55 million dollars. Serbia sent 250,000 men to war and 30,000 were killed; she spent 124 million dollars. Montenegro furnished 30,000 soldiers of whom 8,000 were sacrificed with 3 million dollars spent. Turkey lost 100,000 men out of 450,000 and the loss in money amounted to 322 million dollars. The figures are taken from a letter of Mr. Eugene S. Lucas to the New York Times. 745 million dollars spent in order that 228,000 men might be killed.

MEN'S LEAGUE MEETING

MEN OF THE FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH MET AT THE AMERICAN HOUSE LAST EVENING

There was an important meeting of the Men's league of the First Universalist church at the American House last evening, including a reception and banquet. Following the feast, President Herbert L. Chameau introduced Dr. William Jones as toastmaster of the evening, and the latter in turn, after a few brief remarks, introduced Rev. Dr. C. E. Fisher as the first speaker. Dr. Fisher urged an increased interest in the affairs of the church on the part of the men and took occasion to praise the spirit manifested by the women. He emphasized the good work accomplished in the past and exhorted all to added endeavor in the future. Dr. Fisher was followed by Superintendent A. S. McLeod of the Sunday school, and he referred in glowing terms to the power of the Universalist organization. He urged an increase of the attendance at the church services as an object of the work of the league. Other speakers were Harry Thompson, chairman of the church board of assessors, and Rev. Charles Conklin, superintendent of the Universalist churches of Massachusetts.

Officers were chosen for the coming year as follows: President, Dr. William M. Jones; vice-presidents, Harry A. Thompson and Dr. A. S. McLeod; secretary and treasurer, Arthur D. Gilchrist; executive committee, Rev. Dr. Fisher, W. O. Dickinson, H. L. Chapman, Eugene Dunbar, Josiah Butler.

ANNUAL DANCING PARTY

The annual dancing party of the Bachelor Girls' club was held last evening in Associate hall and was a social and financial success, there being several hundred present. Miner's orchestra furnished music for the dancing, and there were 29 numbers. The dance orders were as follows: General manager, Mary T. Gallagher; assistant general manager, Lena V. Sheehan; floor director, Julia Bolan; assistant floor director, Mae King; chief aid, Mae Boyle; aids, Mae C. Gallagher, Lillian McPherson, Marion Nolan, Ella Finnegan, Rose Nicholson, Agnes Nichols, Genevieve Wynn, Anna McHale, Adell Gagnon, Estelle Connolly, Etta Brown, Mae Riley, Ethel Dockett, Mary Doughty, Elizabeth Latham; Catherine G. Malone, secretary; Kathryn King, treasurer.

WALSH RALLIES

Democratic Candidate
for Governor Discusses Leading Issues

Speaking at rallies in Athol, Winchendon and Gardner, last evening, Hon. David J. Walsh, democratic candidate for governor, said:

I am more than ever convinced as the campaign progresses, that the time has arrived for holding a constitutional convention in Massachusetts. No such convention has been held in this state for 60 years. Important questions of a constitutional character are demanding immediate attention.

One of the principal reasons for holding a constitutional convention is in order that we may change our system of taxation. The burden of excessive and inequitable taxation is unquestionably leading to an earnest cry for relief in every part of the Commonwealth.

No question of an immediate practical hearing is more vital to the interests of the people than this one. Our present system of taxation is antiquated. It has been in vogue for generations. It was adopted when nearly all property was tangible, when conditions were entirely different from what they are today.

Many questions of future progress must necessarily await the radical modifications of our methods of raising revenues. To increase our outlays, even for worthy enterprises, is to increase the robbery of the poor while protecting the more prosperous class of the state.

But when we look to see how our taxation system may be changed, we find ourselves up against a constitutional question. No radical reform can be made in it until the state adopts a constitutional amendment.

Several plans have been suggested to do away with the possibility of double taxation and to equalize the existing burden of public contribution and distribute it more equitably than has been done in the past.

Commission after commission has been appointed by the legislature to investigate our taxation system and suggest improvements. Splendid work has been done by these commissions and excellent reports have been made, but nothing of importance could be accomplished because the changes recommended would be violations of the constitution as it stands today; therefore without a constitutional amendment costly investigations and very valuable suggestions will be practically lost to the people.

The legislature during the time of its session, with the many various problems before it, and with the different schemes and propositions suggested, has therefore not been able to make any headway. Not only do the constitutional objections to any radical change in the taxation system have to be met, but the great financial forces of the state bring their influence to bear on successive legislatures to block any changes whatever, which may seem unfriendly to large financial interests. The subject must be dealt with, therefore, by a body chosen in great part for the special work of treating this question.

A constitutional convention would give the voters an opportunity to discuss and settle this question at once. It would cut off much debate in our legislature, which to date has resulted in little being accomplished towards this much needed reform, and would bring about shorter sessions.

To end the failure of the system devised many years is in itself a sufficient reason for immediate and vigorous action. Another sufficient reason is that we may become able to reach holdings of all kinds with a just and equal hand, now that the growth of intangible and invisible property has so far outstripped that of real and other property. The valuable results of the research and study given the subject by various important and able commissions should not be lost.

The convention should be made up of the wisest and best men that can be found. They should be elected on a non-partisan ballot, no party designation being allowed.

EXPLOSION KILLS 26

300 feet, its blazing canvas and twisted aluminum frame blocking the public highway.

It was impossible for some time to approach the flaming dirigible, beneath which the members of the crew had been crushed and burned.

Naval Constructors Neumann and Pictler and Naval Chief Engineer Busch were among those on board. Lieut. Commander Endlich was a personal friend of the emperor. He was formerly commanding officer of the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern and later commander of the cruiser Panther.

Lieut. Freyer, formerly personal adjutant of Prince Adalbert, one of the sons of the emperor. He served with the prince on board a torpedo boat after studying with him at the naval academy.

Seven Zeppelins Destroyed

The Zeppelin airships have been singularly unfortunate ever since their invention by the aged soldier-count. No fewer than seven of them have been destroyed by fire, explosion or wreck. Zeppelin's I, II, and VI, met with disaster in this way; also the Deutschland I, and II, and now the L 1 and L 2, the first airships attached to the German navy, having gone the same way.

Many minor accidents have happened to other air vessels of the same system and a number of soldiers have been killed or injured.

Blown Away to Sea

On the occasion of the last catastrophe on Sept. 9, the German emperor is said to have wept on hearing the news. He had been in command of the naval maneuvers during the day and the dirigible, the L 1, considered the pride of the German navy, had been engaged in reconnaissance work. In the evening she was blown away to sea by a violent gale and when she struck the water broke in halves, many of the members of the crew being inside her cabin.

Startled by Explosion

A director of one of the aviation companies at the Johannisthal aerodrome was an eye witness of the disaster.

He was working in my office about 500 yards from the scene of the accident," he said, "when I was startled by an explosion of extraordinary violence. I rushed to a window and saw the new dirigible in flames and plunging toward the earth. The outer covering of the aircraft had been already burned off and the inner balloons containing the gas had disappeared."

"The naked aluminum framework with its long centerpieces, its interlaced ribs and its tapering ends and with the gondolas containing the motors beneath, fell rapidly bowforemost. When the skeleton of the immense craft struck the earth the heavy gondolas buried themselves in the ground."

Dozen Aeroplanes in Air

The dirigible before she left the balloon hall took on board her regular naval crew and several officers. She headed for Berlin, a short distance off, in a light wind. About a dozen aeroplanes were circling the aerodrome at the time.

Everything was apparently in good order on the airship when she started. Then suddenly an explosion was heard by those on the ground, evidently in one of the motors in the center gondola. A flash shot out and in an instant the whole ship was on fire and plunging downward. Every inch of the canvas covering and the balloons disappeared in a moment.

Two Distinct Explosions

A second and more violent explosion was then heard, the fire having reached the gasoline tank filled with about a ton of fuel and in another instant the wreck of the newest and most modern of Germany's dirigibles lay a flaming mass on the ground.

The fire departments of all the neighboring suburbs with detachments of balloon corps, the pioneers and other troops were soon on the spot, but there was nothing left to save.

Killed By First Explosion

The six inmates of the center gondola had been blown through the sides of the car by the first explosion and their bodies fell four hundred yards away from the wreck of the balloon which was traveling at 40 miles an hour when the accident happened. All but two of the others were, it is believed, killed by the explosion of the gasoline tank and probably were dead before the wreckage reached the earth.

The commander and the officers of the admiralty trial board were seated in a gondola and after the fire broke out were caged inside a network of red hot aluminum girders and fragments of canvas that blazed like so many torches.

Suffering Asked to be Killed

Two of the crew were still alive

when dragged from the wreckage. One of them, however, died a few minutes later. The other, Lieut. Baron Von Bleul, was found to have both of his eyes burned out and was otherwise desperately injured. He was taken to a hospital moaning "Kill me."

Beside the officers already mentioned Lieut. Trenk, who was second in command, Chief Engineer Hausmann and three engineer secretaries from the admiralty were on board.

The Pilot, Captain Glind, was the only citizen aboard the airship. He was the commander of the Zeppelin balloon which landed in France in April this year.

The engineers of the Zeppelin company expressed their confidence when the L 2 was completed that she would be able to cross the Atlantic.

GERMAN ARMY LOST THREE MEN

ACCIDENTS

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Not only the German navy but the army as well suffered from aviation accidents today as three army officers belonging to the flying corps were killed this morning in aeroplane accidents.

You Want The Best Clothes Your Money Can Get

FIT—STYLE—QUALITY OF FABRIC—TAILORING. You can't tell much about it until you see the clothes. Even then, the most important things are those you can't see.

Expert cutting—careful shaping and fitting—good inside materials and tailoring that will give permanent shape and fit to the garment.

Your eyes don't tell you about these important details, but they are the underlying facts. They depend on the makers' skill, ability and purpose.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx

Put all these things into the clothes for you. You'll get better value in them, we believe, than in any other goods. There's a splendid selection to choose from this season, very moderately priced, considering what you get for it.

NAVAL ACADEMY

Examination for Ap-
at Lowell High School

An examination for the appointment to the United States Naval Academy will be held at the Lowell high school next Wednesday, October 22, and Congressman Rogers says it is not yet too late to notify him of an intention to compete. The examination is purely preliminary and is not for the purpose of final appointment. It is proposed by Mr. Rogers to select the four highest in this examination and have them examined physically by the official medical examiner, in order to make sure that when they have ultimately passed the federal examination next February for mental equipment they may also be fitted to pass the physical test.

Relative to this examination, Congressman Rogers has addressed, the following communication, to The Sun:

October 16, 1913.

Editor Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:

On Aug. 13th last, in response to my request, the Lowell Sun was good enough to publish the contents of a circular relative to the examinations to be held by me to determine whom I shall designate to take the official examinations for the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. To refresh your memory I enclose herewith another copy of that circular. You will observe that the examination occurs next Wednesday, Oct. 22, at the Lowell High school.

I gave my plan the widest publicity I know how to effect throughout the entire Fifth district by means of newspaper notices such as yours, and the posting of circulars in young men's clubs, the post offices, and the town and city halls. Although the task within which I requested young men to notify me of their intention to take the examination expires today, I have had a total of but seven applications. Only one of these is from Lowell. Of course if there are only seven young men out of the entire 210,000 people in the Fifth district, and but one out of the 100,000 people in Lowell, who desire to take the examination I have not a word of complaint to utter.

But it seems hardly possible that with an opportunity like this such can be the case. In any event I am anxious to have the attention of our young men again called to this matter. Would you be willing to write a suitable story to bring about this result. Please state if you can do so that it is not too late to apply but that young men should write or telegraph me at once here in Washington.

Sincerely yours,

John Jacob Rogers.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES— RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1913.—"When I received the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment my face was covered with pimples which defied other creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers as I do, as a business woman."

"By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it, for the transformation was simply wonderful."

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 284 South Pryor St.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal eczema, and other skin humors, dandruff, sores, burns and piles. Sold by every druggist. For free trial, write to Dept. 17-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

RESUMED TRIAL

Of $10,000 and $6,000
Accident Cases at Superior Court

The trial of the suits of Miss Jennie E. Goddard and Mrs. Melissa F. Ellis of this city vs. John E. Horne of Lawrence, was resumed in superior court this morning. As was stated in the account in yesterday's Sun, this case is one in which plaintiffs sue for alleged damages, namely $10,000 and $6,000 respectively, resulting from a collision between Mr. Horne's auto and the carriage containing Mrs. Ellis, Miss Goddard and the former's son. The accident is said to have taken place at the intersection of the Pawtucket boulevard and Fowler road, on Oct. 27 of last year.

The first witness to be examined this morning was Mr. Huntington, a civil engineer, who testified as to certain measurements made by himself at the scene of the alleged accident, and as to the general aspect of the locality as regards fences, lights, trees, houses, etc.

Dr. James Cassidy was next called to the stand and said that he attended the Ellis family. He said he had been called to the house after the accident and found Miss Goddard on the couch. She had, he said, bruises on her right shoulder and elbow—both knee caps; calf of her left leg was bruised and swollen. There was, moreover, an abrasion over her left eye and her nose was bruised. He also found two broken ribs and other bruises. Mrs. Ellis, he testified, displayed general weakness and required considerable treatment. Dr. Cassidy was cross-examined at length concerning the injuries mentioned.

Mrs. Ellis was again on the stand for a brief period after which the case of the plaintiff was closed in the latter part of the morning session. The case of the defense was then opened.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. James McKeek-in Warwick of Worcester, and Miss Winnifred G. Hoy, formerly of this city and now of Worcester, was solemnized in the latter place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hills, 78 Dewey street by Rev. John C. Breaker, pastor of the Dewey Street Baptist church.

The bride was attended by Miss Eva Hills, as matron of honor, and Miss Jennie R. Shaw, Lowell, as maid. Miss Shaw was a schoolmate of the bride in the Lowell schools. Mr. Warwick had Leonard J. Hoy, brother of the bride, as best man. The ushers were Forest H. Stickney and Albert T. Shaw of Lowell.

Mr. and Mrs. Warwick left Worcester last night for a trip to Maine and on their return will live at 33 Stone-land road, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

GANLEY—ROWEN.
At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. John Francis Ganley and Miss Rose Etta Rowen were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at the Immaculate Conception church by Rev. Fr. Tighe, O. M. I. The couple were attended by Miss Katherine Rowen and Mr. Chas. A. Ganley, who acted as bridesmaid and best man respectively. At the close of the ceremony a reception and dinner was held at the home of the bride's aunt, 158 Concord street. After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ganley will make their home at 158 Concord street.

YOU HAVE AN IDEA

I have an idea. We all have ideas and ideals, and that is today without a doubt the main reason for the great demand of variety. Now to meet and satisfy all these different ideas and ideals in footwear we must also be able to carry them through on lines that fit the feet and yet satisfy the fastidious cry of fashion and pocketbook. You are, of course, open to conviction; therefore keep right on reading.

Have you ever seen a larger variety of perfectly modelled shoes than in the Traveler Shoe Show Windows? No, of course not. Why? Every season we get together the managers of our 28 different stores in the different cities of New England, and the ideas of proper footwear of these different men that have from 10 to 25 years shoe experience are taken up and put in the makeup of "TRAVELER SHOES." Now add to this our great facilities for a large output and controlling interest in tanneries of best leathers and you have the reasons why Travelers have that bold effort of $5.00 and $6.00 and yet do not offend the pocketbook for more than $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00.

SOCIAL ROOMS DEDICATED AT SWEDISH METHODIST—HARVEST
SUPPER AT HIGHLAND M. E.

The new basement social rooms in the Swedish Methodist church, in Moore street, were formally dedicated last night.

Rev. Frank Broman, of Boston, district superintendent, made the very excellent work accomplished by the church members in recent months. He told of the added enjoyment to be derived from the new rooms and how they should constitute the center of social activity among the members. The uses to which they should be put he dwelt upon.

Rev. Edwin Stromberg, pastor of the church, spoke briefly during the evening, after which a brief entertainment was given. George Laurin, gave organ selections, and Miss Mathilda Schonborn gave a reading. The choir, under the direction of George Laurin, gave several numbers, and there was singing by the congregation.

The supper was prepared under the direction of the Dorcas society, of which Mrs. E. Stromberg is chairman. The other members of the committee were: Mrs. Gustafson, Mrs. Laurin, Mrs. Svanstrom, Mrs. Schonborn and the members of the standing committee.

Harvest Supper
The annual harvest supper of the Highland M. E. church was held last night under the direction of the Ladies' Aid society of the church, with a large crowd present, despite the adverse weather conditions.

The church vestry was attractively decorated for the occasion. On the general committee were: Mrs. J. P. Slater, chairman; Mrs. W. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Whitcomb, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Mrs. S. E. Clark, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. A. B. Cameron, Mrs. Mitchell. The supper committee included: Mrs. W. D. Large, Mrs. Fred Timmons, Mrs. H. J. Maguire, Mrs. Mooney, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Wesley M. Wilder, Mrs. George Raine, Mrs. Herbert Yocumans, Miss Carrie Philbrick, Miss Eva Large. A pleasing entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. H. J. Maguire. Piano solos by Miss Bertha Chapman were enjoyed, after which a pantomime entitled "Wanted, a Wife," was given by the "T. M." club of St. Paul's M. E. church. In the cast were: Walter A. Boynton, Mrs. Garfield W. Horne, Miss Laura Marshall, Miss Grace Morrison, Mrs. Lawrence Jordan, Mrs. Edwin Kent, Mrs. Abel R. Campbell and Mrs. Walter W. Cleworth.

The entertainment feature found abundant appreciation, and the contributors were warmly congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

First Parish Supper
The first parish supper, given by the Beneficial society of St. Anne's church last night, brought out a crowd that taxed the capacity of the parish rooms almost beyond the limit. As usual, the supper served was excellent, and following it, an impromptu entertainment program was given, under the direction of the organist, Mr. Charles E. Brown, the following people assisting: Miss Amy Williams, piano; Miss Bertha Knight, violin, with Miss Bernice Knight accompanying; Master Archibald Campbell, soprano, and members of the Men's Glee club. In closing, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by all.

The ladies who had charge of the supper were: Mrs. Fred A. Buttrick, Mrs. T. G. McGannon, Mrs. H. R. Rice, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. C. B. Redway, Mrs. Arthur D. Prince and Misses Cushing, Carleton and Cummings.

INNOVATION AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 17.—A distinct innovation in the training of a Yale varsity crew has been introduced this fall in preparation for the Princeton race on Oct. 25. For the past two weeks the men who make up the "varsity" eight have been going down to the harbor at 6.30 in the morning and rowing about four miles. They eat oranges and crackers on the way down and get back to the campus in time for breakfast. They will continue this each morning up to the time of the race.

man of Committee

Edward F. Flanagan, delegate-at-large at the police convention held at Cambridge Wednesday and Thursday of this week, received one of the highest honors possible for a representative at the convention to have bestowed upon him when he was selected out of the total number of delegates as a committee to choose the presiding officer for the ensuing year. Mr. Flanagan's choice reflects the esteem with which the local police department is held as well as upon his own individual merit.

PATROLMAN EDW. F. FLANAGAN

Mr. Flanagan's choice for president for the ensuing year was Captain Henry T. Ryan of Haverhill, the present incumbent of the office. Mr. Ryan was elected for the term of one year.

Mr. Flanagan was also elected to the chairmanship of the legislative committee, probably the most important of all the committees selected during the two days' convention. This committee has control of the legislative policy of the Massachusetts police.

Edward J. Flanagan is a very well known member of the local police having been in the department since 1899. His beat at present is along East Main street where he has been for the defense, with Judge Aiken. The conference ended, the prosecutor asked Dorothy what she knew of such a paper. The defense objected; thereupon the district attorneys called upon the attorneys to produce the document in question. Mr. Morse replied that he had learned of its existence only early this morning. The matter was not pressed but Mr. Barker said he hoped to admit the paper later.

Will Was Not Found

Following the admiral's death, a search was made for a will alleged to have been made by the admiral after the date borne by the will filled for probate which left his property to the widow and his stepdaughter, but so far as known a second will was not found.

The continued testimony of the 16-year-old girl was a story of a house divided against itself. Her mother and stepfather quarreled frequently, she said, a particular bone of contention being the attentions paid to the witness' sister, June, by a man 70 years old.

Before the testimony was begun the court asked the witness to remove her hat and the veil. The girl crossed the room to her mother and the latter assisted her, at the same time smiling and patting her daughter's cheeks. Then the girl told of the friction in the home and of Mrs. Eaton's attempts to have her husband committed to an insane asylum. Mrs. Eaton questioned the admiral's sanity because she alleged he dabbled in dangerous drugs.

The admiral, the witness said, always treated his wife well, even when he was "somewhat intoxicated."

She told of the visits to the home by Daniel H. Ainsworth of Chicago, from whom her mother was divorced a few months before she married the admiral, and of trips made by the defendant to Chicago and Washington.

According to the witness, June sided with her mother in the family quarrels and had much influence over Mrs. Eaton. Mrs. Eaton, she said, at times lauded the admiral with being a lunatic and he jokingly referred to their home as the "lunatic asylum." He sometimes used this address in letters on post cards addressed to his wife.

The state asked several questions intended to establish the improbability that the admiral committed suicide and drew from Dorothy the statement that he had planned to go to a "smoker" at Rockland on the Tuesday of his death.

MRS. EATON'S DAUGHTER DOROTHY
GIVES DETAILS SURROUNDING
ADMIRAL'S DEATH

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—Further details surrounding the death of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton were heard today from the lips of Dorothy Ainsworth, the 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. M. Eaton, on trial charged with the murder of her husband. When the defendant's daughter was excused from the stand yesterday after a long examination she had brought her testimony up to the moment when she said her mother awakened her and told her of the admiral's death.

It was a small audience, made up mostly of women, when the girl resumed her testimony under the questioning of District Attorney Barker. Before taking the stand Dorothy was asked to remove her hat and veil. The request was made by Judge Aiken. Dorothy crossed the room to obtain assistance of her mother. Mrs. Eaton smiled upon the young girl and stroked her face affectionately.

A moment later Dorothy was called upon to tell of visits to the Eaton home by Mrs. Eaton's divorced husband, Daniel Ainsworth of Chicago, and the visits made by Mrs. Eaton in Chicago and Washington.

Call for Paper

Then there was a conference between the court, the district attorney and William A. Morse, attorney for the defendant, after which the prosecutor tried to obtain from the witness information regarding a typewritten paper alleged to have been taken from the house after the admiral's death. The district attorney called upon the defense to produce the paper and Mr. Morse replied that he did not know of its existence until this morning. Mr. Barker said he hoped to introduce it later. Nothing to indicate the nature of the document was revealed.

The defense objected to questions which followed regarding Mrs. Eaton's opinion of her husband's sanity, but was overruled.

Not Always Sane

"Mother did not think the admiral was always sane," said the witness. Dorothy said that the admiral had always treated her mother well, even when he was "somewhat intoxicated." Mrs. Eaton had often spoken of having the admiral committed to an insane asylum and had brought Miss Annie Rooney, a nurse, of Boston, to the Eaton home in furtherance of her purpose to have her husband committed. The witness was questioned about the admiral's alleged use of drugs, but nothing new was brought out. Dorothy said that her father and mother frequently differed concerning June, the elder daughter of Mrs. Eaton by her first marriage. A particular cause of friction, she said, were the attentions paid June by a man 70 years of age.

CRIPPLED DAUGHTER OF MRS.
EATON GIVES DRAMATIC
TESTIMONY

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—A crippled child, sweet-faced and apparently unaware of the gravity of her story, told the Eaton murder jury at Plymouth county courthouse yesterday afternoon that her mother harbored an unusual jealousy toward the late Admiral Joseph G. Eaton.

This child was 16-year-old Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth, the mother of whom is Mrs. Jonnie May Eaton, the wife of the late admiral, and who is charged with having murdered him. Nor did the girl stop with her state-

We Announce the Opening OF OUR Workshop

A large size performance for a popular priced tailor to lay out, but that is exactly what we are going to do—And we believe we are able to successfully swing it.

Here is Our Story---Read it!

We are practical tailors, not men who have learned only one single branch of the business. We worked as men and boys on the tailors' bench and took a hand in all the details, from the fine sewing to swinging a 25-pound pressing iron. Our success was made only through our ability to produce just a little better garment than the other fellow. We were always able to fulfill the wants of our customers because we knew the business from A to Z.

There is not now and there never has been in Lowell a man who would attempt such an undertaking, who is selling clothing at the prices we quote. He intend to build up the largest tailoring business in this city, and if we can get you to leave your first order we will be assured of our success, for you are going to get better values in clothing than you ever dreamed of.

You Will See

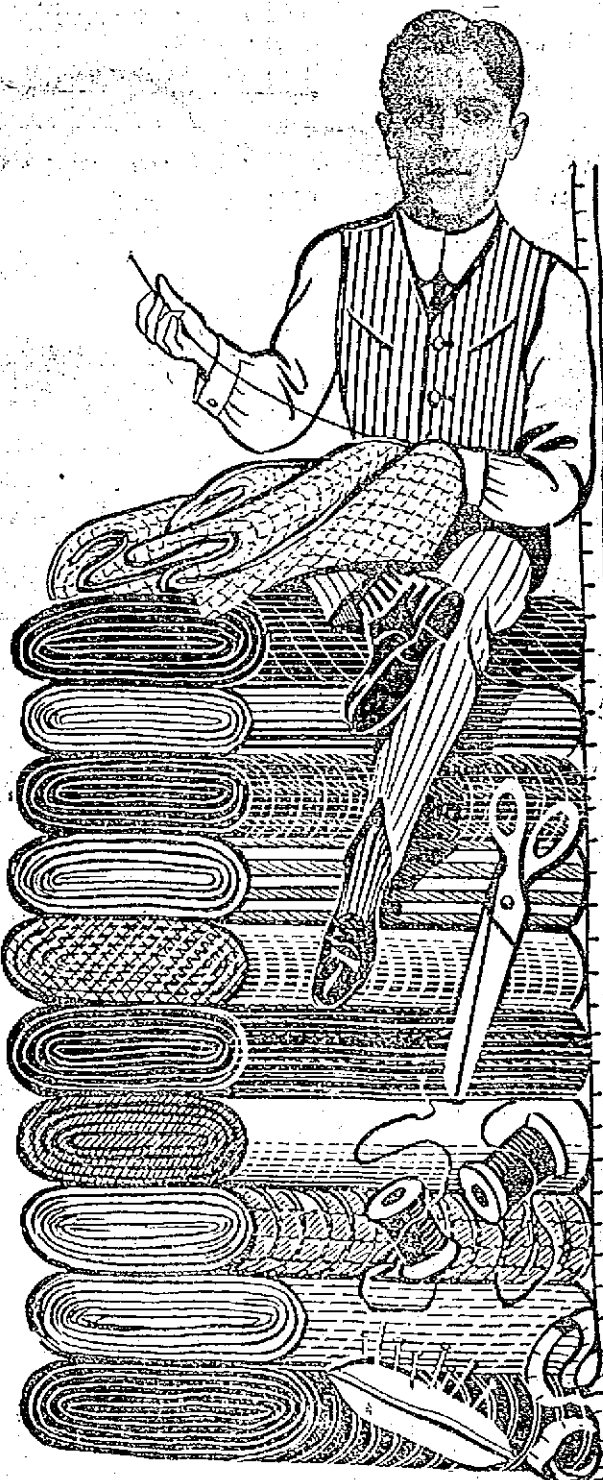

Your garments made by competent tailors in our own shop directly above the store. You will know that they are made in a clean, airy, up-to-date shop, and not carled through the streets of some large city and made up in dirty, dingy, sweat-shops, where they are liable to become saturated with disease. Come in and see our workrooms. Look our shop over, and that will convince you more than anything we can write.

We Want 200 Orders Saturday

And in order to get them I will make to your order any $25.00 SUIT or OVER. COAT and the price will be for Saturday only,

ment concerning her mother's alleged jealousy. She re-enacted the death scene. She told of having been sent to bed by her mother immediately after the meal at which white arsenic is said to have been first administered to the admiral. She testified to having been forbidden by her mother to go to the admiral's room during his fatal illness and told of the lonely visits made to the dying man by her mother.

Dorothy's testimony followed the outlining of the government's case by Assistant District Attorney Frederick G. Katzmann, who has worked hard and earnestly in securing evidence, and the testimony of Medical Examiner Gilman Osgood concerning Mrs. Eaton's mental condition and the nature and amount of poison administered to the late admiral.

Lonely Visits to Dying Man

This outlining of the government's case developed the contention that Mrs. Eaton killed her husband while she was laboring under an abnormal mental condition. Through the medical examiner's statement it further developed that the government will endeavor to prove that quantities of white arsenic were administered to the admiral even after he had been fatally stricken by an early dose of the poison.

The testimony of both the medical examiner and Dorothy Ainsworth was advanced to bear out the claim concerning Mrs. Eaton's mental condition, while Dorothy's statements concerning the lonely visits of her mother to the dying man's room will be held to indicate the occasions when the additional doses of poison were administered, to Admiral Eaton.

Threw Arms Around Mother

That both sides attach great importance to the testimony of Dorothy Ainsworth was shown by an incident which took place immediately after court adjourned. The jurors had retired in charge of the deputies; Judge Aiken had left the bench and the court room was almost empty when Dorothy, who had left her witness stand, and seemingly awaited her opportunity, ran over to her mother, and throwing her arms around her kissed her repeatedly. After a short time spent in talking and more demonstrations of affection, Mrs. Eaton and Dorothy started for the room in the rear of the court room allotted to the defense, as they stepped out clear from the court room allotted to the defense, a deputy sheriff, acting apparently under orders, and was led away from her mother weeping and protesting violently. There was no further opportunity for conference, as the mother was taken back to the jail.

Escaped Across Court Room

Not in the history of the local court house has there been enacted a more dramatic scene than that which confronted the Eaton jurors when the crippled daughter of the woman accused of Admiral Eaton's death limped across the court room to take her place upon the witness stand.

Timidly she gazed around the well-filled room as she entered the door. The beautiful coloring of her face paled for a minute and she grasped the railing for support. Then, summoning her courage and smiling pleasantly to the officers who offered her assistance, she took her place before the bench to be sworn. Stepping to the stand she first gazed upon her accused mother and smiled a little.

She was dressed wholly in black, save for a trace of white in the maline bow which was about her neck. She had left her jacket in the witness room adjoining the court and appeared in a black skirt, black shirt-waist cut to the base of the neck, and wore a fetching low-brimmed velvet hat with a wide ribbon tied beneath her chin.

Her voice was low and indistinct when she first took the stand, and repeatedly her counsel and the judge requested that she raise her tones. Even when exhorting additional effort in complying with these requests, her voice was hardly distinguishable beyond the jury box.

After testimony was most striking. Virginia Ainsworth, she was asked if that were her legal name and replied "No, my legal name is Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth."

Girl Smiled at Mother

Concerning her age, she said she did not know whether she was 16 or 17 years old. Then she told the various homes which she had known and the schools which she had attended, and from time to time during the early part of her occupancy of the stand smiles passed between the diminutive witness and her accused mother.

She then traced the life of her sister June through various cities, finally to Washington, where it is alleged June's baby was born. Dorothy said she did not know why June and her mother went to Washington, and that the reason for going was only implied to her.

EDWARD LLOYD, ONE OF THE REAL HEROES OF VOLTURNO DISASTER

THIRD OFFICER DUSSELMANN and SECOND OFFICER LLOYD

In the catalog of the real heroes of the Volturno disaster the name of Edward Lloyd, second officer of the Volturno, is written with that of Captain Inch. Here is what this tall, quiet spoken, modest young Englishman did: On Thursday night when it seemed that another explosion would break the ship's back, Lloyd, with a volunteer crew of four, fought his way through the storm to the Grosier Kurfuerst just to prove that a lifeboat could be handled in the gale. He says he never expected to live through the night. But his captain asked him to make the attempt. He saluted and went over the side. Within a few hours the brave sailors of the Kurfuerst had matched Lloyd's daring, had conquered the sea and had taken off thirty-three men. Lloyd was bruised and burned and hurt by falling twenty feet while trying to repair the wireless. This picture was taken aboard the Kurfuerst on the way to New York. Lloyd was provided with civilian's clothes. With him in Third Officer Walter Dussekmann of the Volturno in uniform, who also played a heroic part.

STRUCK BY AUTO WAS FORCED OUT

Story of Accident on the Edward P. Ryan Says Boulevard Was Told in Superior Court That He Did Not Resign from T. & S. Mills

The suits of Melissa F. Ellis and Jennie E. Goddard vs. John B. Horne were tried as one, the case being called upon the conclusion of the Pearson vs. Courier-Citizen Co. libel suit in the superior court yesterday afternoon. H. A. Varum for the plaintiffs, Sweeney and Cox of Lawrence for the defense; ad damnum, in Goddard case $10,000, in Ellis case $5,000.

The circumstances of the case, which grew out of an alleged collision of an auto with the carriage of the plaintiff's on October 27, 1912, are according to the declaration, as follows:

The two women together with Mrs. Ellis' son occupied the carriage, young Mr. Ellis holding the reins, and they were proceeding along the Pawtucket boulevard and when they came to the Fowler road, turned up that road. Just as they did so, the defendant's automobile coming along the boulevard collided with the carriage. Jennie E. Goddard, it is said, was thrown out and injured, Mrs. Ellis was injured and the carriage damaged.

Mrs. Ellis' son was on the stand this afternoon and replying to the questions of Mr. Varum, told the details of the accident. Miss Goddard, he said, is his aunt. He testified that she was thrown from the carriage; also that when taken home, his mother summoned a doctor and the latter continued his visits to the patient at intervals for several weeks.

Under cross-examination by lawyer Sweeney, he said that the carriage was owned by his mother. He also told of the size of the buggy, giving a brief description. He said that Dr. J. J. Cassidy had visited his mother previous to the accident. At the time of the alleged accident, he said, he and his mother were taking an outing at the latter's camp, for his mother's health; moreover that they were accustomed quite frequently to take outings at the camp previous to the accident.

A diagram of the location was used during the testimony.

Cross Examination
In the course of the cross examination, which was conducted at length by lawyer Sweeney, Mr. Ellis said that he had put out his left hand as he was about to turn into Fowler road.

There was, he declared in answer to questions, another automobile coming toward his carriage along the boulevard and he was looking out to avoid this machine. As far as he could tell, the latter did not stop when the accident occurred but this he could not state positively. The various positions of the vehicles in their course at the intersection of the road were indicated by witness by means of the diagram of the locality.

After the accident, said witness, the horse proceeded along a short distance and was finally stopped and turned around. His aunt, he testified, was on her hands and knees and being helped to her feet by members of Mr. Horne's party. Mr. Horne asked his aunt, Miss Goddard, whether or not he was hurt, and she replied, said witness, that her knees were sore. In the collision, Mr. Ellis said, he was thrown to the bottom of the buggy but not injured enough to complain about.

The trial of this case continued throughout the afternoon with Mr. Ellis on the stand the greater portion of the time.

There have been a number of changes at the Tremont & Suffolk mills under what is called "the new management," meaning the coming of a new agent. John J. Connell resigned several months ago and Mr. Connell was succeeded by M. A. Rawlinson.

Since that time resignations have been coming in thick and fast. Among those who resigned were Gen. Supt. C. R. Blake, Herbert Woods, overseer of carding; Fred O'Brien, who had charge of the dressing room, and John Vieira, yardmaster.

Edward P. Ryan, overseer of the yarn department, got through last Saturday night, but Mr. Ryan says he didn't resign. He called at The Sun office this forenoon and asked to have made public the following statement: "It is reported that I resigned my position as overseer of the yarn department at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, on Saturday, and that is not so. I did not resign. I was forced out and I want the 200 or more hands that were under me to know the truth in the matter."

GREEK CHURCH

Episcopal Deputies Decide to Support the Priests of That Faith

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church decided yesterday that the church should extend to immigrants and their children. Several of the leaders characterized this action as the greatest advance the church had ever made toward a broad realization of its mission.

A joint committee of clergy and laymen, appointed in 1910 to investigate this subject corresponded with immigration authorities, governors and secretaries of state and various immigration specialists. In its report the committee found that the foreign population is at present apparently confined to the north. South of a line drawn across the continent in continuation of the Ohio river, it says, the people are "scarcely aware of the presence and influence of the immigrant."

Nevertheless, the committee says, figures indicate a southward setting of the tide of immigration and the foreign problem is national rather than sectional.

"The prejudice with which the foreigner is usually regarded," says the report "must be broken down." The committee pointed out the need of procuring ministers from foreign people here. It was suggested that the board of missions offer to undertake, partly at least, the support of priests of the Greek church in the work here. Finally the committee recommended that the rules of the church be amended so as to allow congregations of the Russian church and kindred communions under their own bishops and pastors to come into corporate relations with the Episcopal church.

MAN, TOLD BY HIS WIFE THAT
WAITED AND SHOT HIM

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—William Keith, according to the police, was told by his wife that Walter Paul, a grocery clerk, had attacked her. Keith lay in wait for Paul yesterday and shot and killed him. Keith telephoned the police of his act and was arrested.

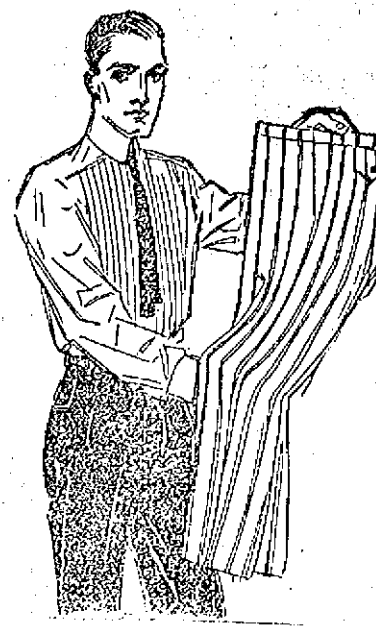

In his pocket was found a written statement by his wife, Mrs. Rosebud Keith, whom he married at Brookwood, Ala., 18 years ago. In the statement Mrs. Keith, the mother of three children, said that Paul first attacked her a year ago when he delivered groceries at her home. She said she feared to tell her husband, but when Paul made another attack recently her secret became too burdensome to bear.

J. M. LACHANCE—RESIDENT MANAGER

$50,000 SUIT

Miss Britt, Harpist, Asks for Heart Balm From Arnold Heath

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The facts in an international romance will become known, it is expected, as a result of the filing of a bill in equity at East Cambridge against Arnold C. Heath, son of a wealthy Newton family, by Miss Gaetane Britt, a harpist in the orchestra of a New York theatre.

Until a year ago Miss Britt, who asks for $50,000 for alleged breach of promise, lived in Paris and Belgium. In bringing the legal action she gives Paris as her residence.

Every attempt was made by the lawyers on both sides of the case to keep all facts except those contained in the papers on file from becoming public.

Heath, who is about 30 years old and receives an annual income of between $5000 and $10,000 from the estate of his father, Daniel C. Heath, the founder of the publishing house of D. C. Heath & Co., Inc., is a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1907.

For a time he was an instructor in the Bridgewater normal school, but, owing of this, he has spent his entire time in travel, doing considerable writing of verse and prose at the same time.

It is understood that it was in the course of these rambles that he met the attractive young Parisienne. Some little time ago rumblings of trouble were heard by members of the Heath family. It is stated that overtures were made in favor of a settlement, but the Heaths were adamant and declined to give up a dollar. This was followed by the bill in equity just filed.

When Heath's father died he left an estate variously estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000. The greater part of this was left in trust for the widow, Mrs. Nellie L. Heath, and three sons, including Arnold C. Heath. Only the interest on this fund is available at present, and this will continue until the death of the boy's mother.

KILLS NEIGHBOR

Vermont Farmer Then Gives Himself to the Police

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 17.—L. A. Foster, a farmer, shot and killed his neighbor, Oddie Prouty, last night and then gave himself up to Constable G. L. Worden of Marlboro. Foster claimed self-defence.

Officers found Prouty's body in the road in front of Foster's house with a bullet hole through the head. Foster was locked up for the night in the Newfane jail. He had one eye closed as the result of a blow which he said Prouty had struck.

According to the story Foster told, he was working in his yard when Prouty drove by. Prouty got out of his wagon a little way beyond the house and, coming back, said to Foster:

"Now, I have you where I want you. I have been planning to kill you for two or three years and I am going to do it now."

Foster said he backed away from Prouty, fearing that his neighbor would carry out the threat, which he had made two or three times before. Foster carried a revolver, as he was a game warden and had a permit to do so. When Prouty struck him over the eye, knocking him down, Foster said, he drew his revolver and fired three times. Prouty fell over backward.

Foster then ran into the house and asked his housekeeper, Mrs. Cummings, to go out and see how Prouty was. When she told him that the man was dead Foster went to Constable Worden and gave himself up.

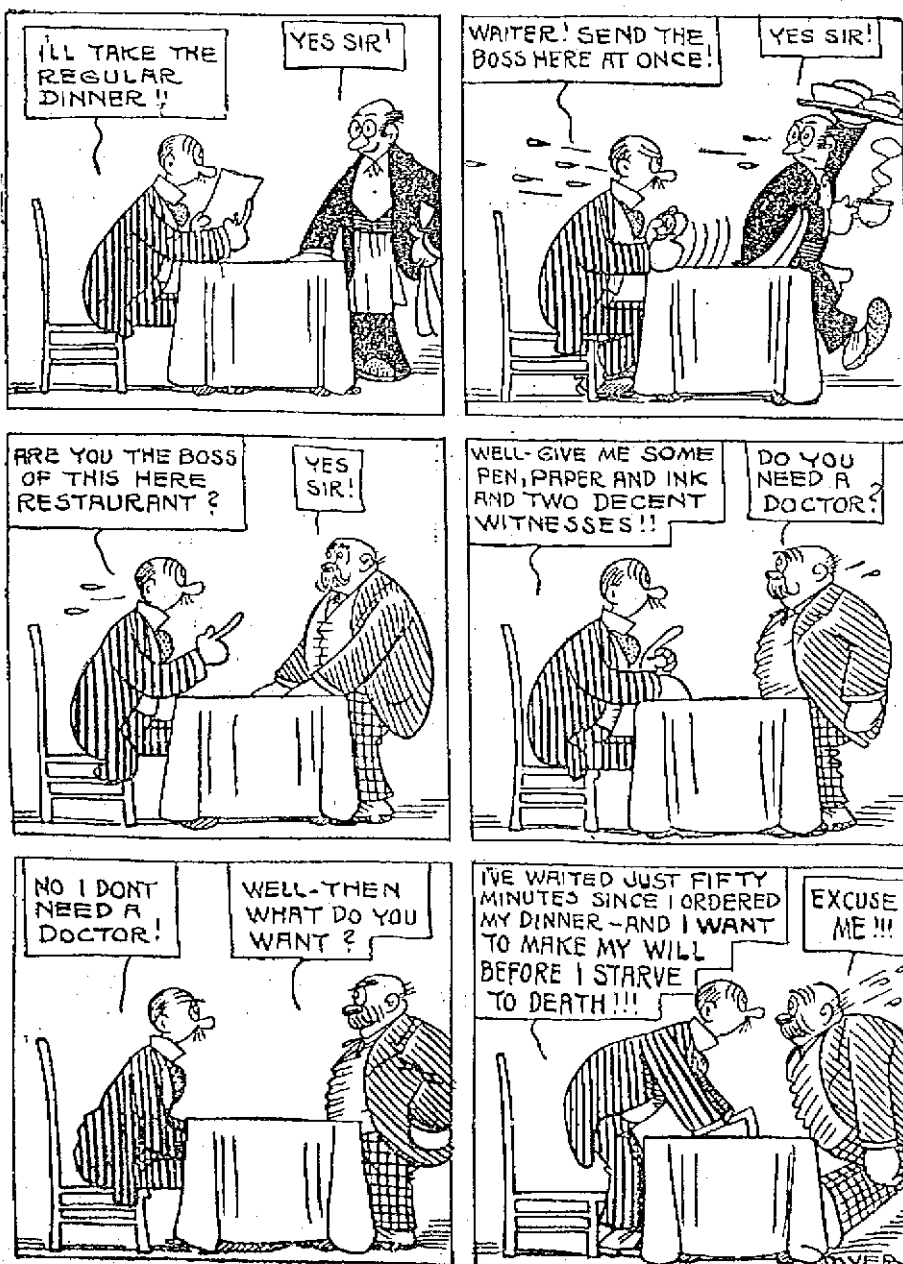

The prisoner was at one time a minister and later a book agent. Since he became a farmer he said he has had frequent trouble with his neighbor Prouty.

The scene of the shooting last night is a mile from where Irving Wristley killed Walter Nichols with a hammer recently murdered Mrs. Nichols by shooting and then killed himself with a bullet through his head.

The damage is estimated at about $40.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

TROUBLE IN MILL

Ironed Out in Court—
Mohamed Kadda Was Roughly Handled

A North Chelmsford mill fracas in which four Arabians played the leading roles was straightened out this morning before Judge Enright in the local police court. Alle Mahniud, Mohamed Alle and Hassan Charutz were charged with assault and battery upon Mohamed Kadda.

Through an interpreter the complainant and two companions told their tale of woe. The three defendants, it appeared from the testimony, set out to put the complainant in the hospital if possible. And the whole affair started from one of the three defendants deluging the complainant with a mouthful of water.

Kadda said that he resented the insult as well as the water and asked for an explanation. Instead of receiving it he got a slap in the face and the battle was on. The two companions of the spitter, however, jumped into the fray and started to beat up Kadda.

One of them had an umbrella and judging from the appearance of the complainant he used it with great success.

The defendants swore that the complainant's statements were false and that he, in reality started the fight. The battered features of Kadda, they said, were obtained under false pretences. In other words a cousin of Kadda, while trying to pound one of the defendants, hit his kinsman in the mouth and later in the eye.

Judge Enright believed the tale of the complainant and found all of the defendants guilty. He ordered each of them to pay a fine of $7 and promised them more next time if he ever heard of their brawling again. Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., appeared for the prosecution.

Sent to State Farm

The remainder of the docket was soon disposed of. William H. Dever was ordered committed to the state farm at Bridgewater for continual drunkenness. John Cadden, John H. Hart and Michael O'Brien were all fined $6 for their second appearance for the same misdemeanor. There was only one $2 drunk this morning.

WANT MORE PAY

Employees of Messenger's Department are After Aid. Cummings

Four employees of the messenger's department recently presented a request to Commissioner Cummings, who is at the head of this department, for an increase in wages, but they will have to wait some time before their request is granted, for the commissioner says he will have hardly enough money to carry his department through the year.

Two of these men are employed as firemen and their request was for 25 cents a day increase, while the others did not stipulate in their demand just how much was wanted, this presumably being left to the commissioner in charge.

Mr. Cummings in conversation with the writer this forenoon stated that the total appropriation for his department this year was $18,000. Of this amount $14,254 was used up for salaries to Oct. 1, while the amount paid for other expenses is $4702.10. The total amount, including expenditures to Oct. 1 and the total amount estimated to carry the department to the end of the year, including fuel for the balance of the year and the heavy lighting bill is $17,517.95, which leaves a balance of $52.05.

Out of the balance of $52.05 repairs have to be completed in the mayor's office, and that will practically eat up every red penny appropriated for this particular department. Mr. Cummings said repairs have been asked for by superintendent of schools and the assessors' offices, but this will be put over to next year on account of lack of funds.

The employees of the public building department are now at work on repairing school houses and as soon as they have completed this job, they will be returned to city hall, where they will do considerable repairs in the mayor's office and other offices on that floor.

New Band Stand

Commissioner Lawrence Cummings and Supt. Francis A. Connor of the public buildings department, as well as Park Commissioner Henry F. Carr and Supt. J. W. Kernan of the park department, held a conference in Mr. Kernan's office at city hall last night relative to the acceptance of the plans for the new cement band stand to be erected on the South common, and for which the city council recently voted an appropriation of $2000.

Harry Prescott Graves, the architect who prepared plans, was present and gave a full explanation of his designs. The parties interested decided to request the city solicitor to draw a contract for plans between the city of Lowell and Architects Stickney & Graves, and as soon as this is done, bids will be called, the same to be submitted Thursday of next week, and the contract for the work will be awarded. A section of the contract will be that the work must be finished on Dec. 1.

OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 17.—When play was resumed this morning in the third round of the American open golf championship John J. McDermott of New Jersey was leading.

Mr. McDermott, whose 146 yesterday for 36 holes was the low score of the day, had a two stroke advantage over Alex Smith, present title holder. Michael Brady of Boston was next with 149.

If either of the first three turns in as good cards as they did yesterday, a new 53 hole record for the Memphis Country club course will be established today. The present low mark is 200.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

working at different trades are afforded a splendid opportunity to overcome any deficiency that they have, while the girls are taught industries that will be a great help to them both in their homes and at their work. The enrollment at the girls' school is greater this year than last and at the present time the number registered is much greater than the teachers will be able to care for.

The girls' work will be carried on different this year than in the past. Formerly a girl could furnish the material for a dress, coat or other garment and the teachers at the school, who are experienced dressmakers, would do the greater part of the cutting and fitting but this year the girls will be obliged to do all the work and the teacher will be present and furnish any information or instruction while the work is being done. This has been made clear to all the pupils and teachers and it is believed that the scheme will prove advantageous to all.

Get a Move On

Principal Fisher requests that all men and boys who intend to register at the school do so either tonight or some school evening next week as the course must be started at an early date. At the end of the period that is required to furnish the course each pupil who has been a regular attendant and has acquired satisfactory knowledge of the subject which he took will be awarded a certificate. The courses will vary from five to ten weeks.

The schedule of classes is as follows:

Girls' School

Monday evenings: Dress and shirt-making, cooking and millinery.

Tuesday evenings: Cooking and millinery, dress and suit making.

Thursday evenings: Cooking and millinery, dress, suit and skirt making.

Boys' School

Wednesday and Friday evenings: Loomfixing classes.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings: Weaving, picking and carding, ring spinning, carpentry, automobile repairing, electrical work.

Tuesday and Friday evenings: Steam engineering.

Monday and Thursday evenings: Electrical theory.

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings: Plumbing, machine work.

Of the 750 women and girls who are enrolled at the girls' school 250 were present last night. This small number is probably due to the weather and the misunderstanding some of the girls had as to the nights they are to attend.

Two Additional Rooms

There is no doubt but the attendance at the girls' department this year will average in the vicinity of 500 and this number is all that can be properly cared for. The two additional rooms at the Merrill school are a great help to the teachers and they will be used each school evening.

Loomfixing Class

The loomfixing class started in last Wednesday night at the Old Moody school on East Merrimack street and the pupils were busy working on the different looms and machines. Mr. Charles Thibault, who has charge of this class is a first class loomfixer and was chosen by the loomfixers' union to head this class. The younger members will be given plain looms to work on, while those more experienced will labor on fancy looms and machines. The prospects for a good class in this line are very bright and at the present time all show plenty of interest and enthusiasm.

Ringspinning Class

The ringspinning class is in charge of Henry Fortier and he also was selected by the union. This work will be started next Tuesday evening and men and boys have already signified their intention of joining.

Electrical Class

There is a splendid opportunity for young men and those more experienced to join the electrical class where both practice and theory will be taken up. Any young man employed in electrical work has a chance to advance himself by attending these classes and benefiting by the instruction. Small rooms have been constructed in the Mann school and beginners are given practical work in wiring for bells and lights and instructed on motor work and generators.

Carpenters' Class

Young men who wish to join the carpenters' class must not know how a jack-saw is cut, how a roof is pitched or laid out or how stairs are figured and built. This work will be in charge of Mr. Wiggins and the members of the class will be taught drawing and estimating as well as practical work. Several more may be registered in this class by applying at the Industrial school office.

Class in Plumbing

The classes in plumbing, automobile repairing and machine work are practically filled and many have been turned away because they do not qualify with the requirements of the state law. However, the work will be carried on with large classes and the instructors are all men who have had wide experience in the different trade lines.

Other Classes

But eight men or boys have applied for enrollment in the engineering for firemen class and if this number is not at least doubled the class cannot be formed.

Any man working at cabinet making or in any woodworking establishment may register at the school and he will be instructed in whatever line he is employed during the day. In order to attend the evening schools a boy or man must be employed at a trade and he must study along the same lines as he works during the day. Principal Fisher stated this morning that the school was for trade extension and to help those who are working at trades at the present time.

The equipment at the school is better and more conveniently arranged than in previous years and the pupils can be taught more thoroughly. Any information regarding the evening work can be received by a visit to the office of the school principal located in the Mann school on Broadway.

Carl G. Pihl was today granted a permit for the erection of a cottage house in the rear of 1221 Graham street. The house will contain six rooms with pantry and bath and will cost approximately $1500.

and the superintendent says if he finds that posters are again placed on public trees, the guilty party will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

The rules, which were adopted this month are as follows:

1. No root or branch of any tree shall be cut, broken or otherwise disturbed or interfered with in any way by any individual or employee of a public or private corporation until the same shall have been examined and a permit issued from this board.

2. It shall not be lawful to attach any guy rope, cross-bar, cable or other contrivance to any tree, or to use the same in connection with any banner, transparency or any business purpose whatever, except under a permit from this board.

3. Requests for removal or trimming of trees must be made upon blanks furnished by the board of park commissioners, and must state the size of the lot in front of which the work

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE

Need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to Keep Their Blood in Good Order

Girls in their teens are often troubled with thin blood, making the complexion pale, sometimes greenish, the cheeks thin, the lips colorless. There is shortness of breath after the slightest exertion, a general feeling of weariness and a disinclination to study or work. Sometimes a slight cough causes a feeling of alarm that the lungs may be affected.

There is one remedy that will surely correct this form of anemia in growing girls and that is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The action of these pills in such cases is as direct and certain as that of quinine in malaria, as sure as anything known to the science of remedial medicine.

Every mother whose daughter is pale and thin owes it to her child's future to at once give her a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Neglect at this time may result in a lifetime of misery.

is to be done, the kind of trees to be trimmed or removed, and the kind and condition of the nearest tree upon the adjoining property.

4. Trees planted in the streets of the city of Lowell shall be only on permission of the superintendent of parks, and shall not be less than 25 feet apart; and as much farther apart as may be directed by the superintendent for the different varieties of trees.

5. No person shall put on or affix in any manner any placard, notice or bill, either written or printed, upon any tree in any street or public place without the consent of this board.

6. No person shall fasten any horse or other animal to any tree or tree guard in any street or public place.

7. Any person violating the foregoing rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding $25 for each offence.

Norway Maples

The employees of the park department are now busy clearing a certain portion of Port Hill park of the rocks and small trees, in order to make the room for 200 Norway maples, which will be planted there in the latter part of this month.

Attendance Officers

Nearly 2000 age and school certificates have been exchanged for old ones at the office of the attendance officers, since the new law went into effect. The rush to this office was so great, that the attendance officers decided on some system and accordingly this week they are issuing certificates of the Lawrence history only. Next week the minor employees of the Tremont & Suffolk mills will be given an opportunity to exchange their old certificates.

Fire Department

Employees of the fire department have just completed changing the number plates on the alarm boxes all over the city, preparatory to the installing of the new alarm system. The same will be put in by the Gamewell Co. and it is hoped everything will be in shape some time this month.

WAS FOUND DEAD

Charles Sweeney, a well known bricklayer residing at 4 Hale street, was found dead at his home this morning, death being due to accidental asphyxiation by illuminating gas. Deceased was 57 years of age and his last employment had been at the remodeling of the old Boston & Maine depot in Central street.

Mr. Sweeney, who last night was not feeling well, retired shortly after eight o'clock. Soon after 11 o'clock his daughter heard him walking about the room, but paid little attention to him. This morning at 6.10 o'clock she went to his room and found him lying on his bed. There was a strong odor of gas in the room and the young woman immediately summoned help. Her brothers rushed up stairs and opened the windows, but after examination it was found that he man was dead.

It is presumed that when Mr. Sweeney arose during the night he clothed himself and turned on the gas, and it is believed later he turned off the gas with the intention probably of sleeping again, for he did not divest himself of his clothing. The gas jet was examined this morning and found to be in good working order, although it was half opened. Dr. Meigs, medical examiner, was notified of the death and after viewing the body, signed the death certificate "Accidental death by gas poisoning."

Mr. Sweeney is survived by seven children: William F., Mrs. Irving Wedgewood, Charles A., Walter H., Era M., Ralph A. and Royal N. Sweeney.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the Edson cemetery chapel, at 2 o'clock. Friends and relatives invited to attend. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker William H. Saunders.

Funeral of the late Patrick J. Riley will take place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from his home, No. 292 Fairmount street, solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church at 10 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery under the direction of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Feel Buggy! No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Constipation

Get a 10-cent box now. Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

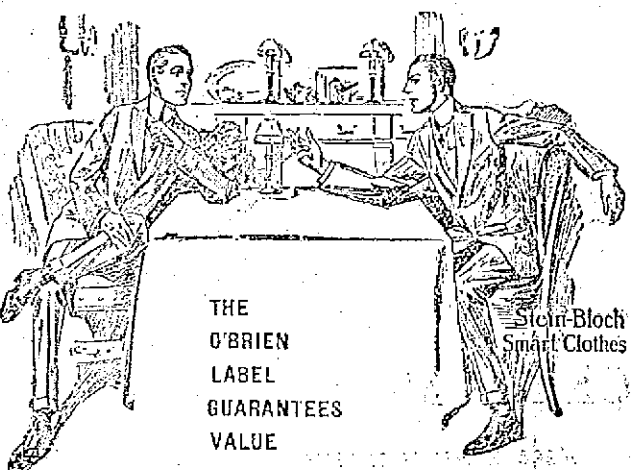

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach, sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children; their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes

The Economy of Good Clothes

The man who wears a Stein-Bloch $20 Suit a year gets more out of it than is possible with two ten-dollar suits.

The difference is the satisfaction a man experiences in being smartly and correctly attired in clothes that hold their shape.

We believe in Good Clothes for the customers' sake as well as our own. Good Clothes are economical. The suit you like you'll wear twice as long as one that doesn't quite please and which cost nearly as much.

Stein-Bloch Suits sell at $20, $22.50 and up to $30. There's full value in every suit at each price. The Stein-Bloch label and our own label guarantee your complete satisfaction.

This season we feature O'Brien Special Suits at $12.50, $15 and $17.50, that we can honestly term Good Clothes. The fabrics are all wool, and the tailoring is honest and dependable. You can buy them in safety, backed by our guarantee of satisfactory service.

EXPERT WATCHMAKER

DANIEL J. DUANE, EXPERT IN JEWELRY REPAIRING, LOCATED IN SUN BUILDING

Daniel J. Duane, expert in watch-making, and in watch and jewelry repairing, has located in Room 305 of The Sun building, which he has fitted up in a most thorough and modern manner for the carrying on of his business. From the very first day of his location in this building, the number of his patrons has been large, and his business has continued to grow rapidly.

Few men, perhaps, are as well qualified to give expert service in the line of watch and jewelry repairing, and in fact in every branch of the work, as is Mr. Duane, who has been in the watch business in the factory of the Waltham Watch Company at Waltham. In addition to this, he has been connected with some of the best shops in Massachusetts.

Mr. Duane has a complete set of instruments of the trade of every description, some of them being so delicate of construction as to defy perception by the naked eye. These are of the latest and most modern design and best calculated to perform excellent work. His work is rapid, and certain, and he is familiar with the movement of every watch made, and guarantees entire satisfaction to everyone.

There can be no better proof of his ability in this line than the statements of those who have benefited by his services, and his patrons in every case, have been warm in their praise of the young man. He may be found in room 305 in The Sun building, where he will be glad to greet his many friends and patrons, both old and new.

THEIR COUNTRY'S CALL

GREEK YOUNG MEN RETURN TO THEIR HOMELAND IN ANSWER TO CALL TO ARMS

Christos Papadopoulos, a well known Greek merchant of Market street, a member of the firm of Valles & Papadopoulos, left a few days ago for Sparta, Greece, where he is to enlist in the Greek army in the event of another war with Turkey.

The young man left with five of his compatriots, four of whom will also enlist, while the other is going direct to his home, where he will take care of his younger brothers and sisters, while his two older brothers are serving in the Greek army.

The departure of these men is the result of a recent call from the Greek government for soldiers, but which only applies to those who have not served their regular time in the Greek army. Under the rules of Greece, every young man is obliged to serve his country a certain number of years, but there were instances where there were several boys in one family, the oldest boy was not called upon, and those are the ones the government is now calling back.

Christos Papadopoulos, who is 33 years of age, was one of the lucky ones, and last June he received a summons from his country, ordering him to return to Greece. However, he was given 120 days to comply with the order and a few days ago he sailed from Providence. With him were Anastas Spadithos and four other countrymen. The latter, who was employed at the Barry Shoe Co. in Blackpole street, returns to his home, where he will look after his brothers and sisters.

Papadopoulos has been in this country 15 years and upon his arrival in Lowell he secured employment in a local mill. Nine years ago he went into the grocery business with Louis Valles and ever since the two energetic young men have conducted a flourishing business. Louis Valles will take care of the business while his partner is away.

A telegram was received in this city a few days ago to the effect that the steamship "Athena" sailed from Patras,

THE COUNTY RING

Rapped by Progressives at Rallies Held Last Evening

Two rallies were held last night by the city committee of the progressive party one at Highland hall and the other at Odd Fellows' hall in Centralville. Each hall was the scene of an enthusiastic crowd which waxed demonstrative over the speakers.

Charles H. McIntire, Esq., candidate for county commissioner, Philip M. Clark of Cambridge, candidate for district attorney, Cecil P. Dodge, candidate for representative in the fourteenth district and Dr. C. B. Livingstone, candidate for senator were among those who spoke.

Mr. McIntire and Mr. Clark both mentioned the county "ring" and pleaded with the voters to help clean up the politics of Middlesex county. Mr. Dodge spoke briefly of his candidacy, mentioning the fact that Mr. Hubbard, the republican nominee, evidently considered that he had a monopoly on any office in the fourteenth district.

WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY
WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 17.—Large galleries followed the semi-finalists today in the competition of the women's national golf championship over the course of the Wilmington Country Club. In one match Miss Marion Hollins of New York, the Metropolitan champion, met Miss Harriet Curtis of Boston, former national title holder and in the other Miss Muriel Dodd and Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the foremost women golfer of Great Britain, were the contestants. The first named this year won both the British and Canadian championships while the latter is a former English title holder.

Most of the experts expected Miss Dodd to win from Miss Ravenscroft. Miss Ravenscroft, however, was not without followers as she has played as good golf as any of the other survivors. Whichever wins she will have to play well to carry off the honors in tomorrow's final match.

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN

ALDRICH ON THE CURRENCY BILL

Ex-Senator Aldrich as the representative of the banking interests of the country and particularly of the money trust, has come out with all his force of eloquence and invective against the currency bill now before congress and against Mr. Bryan and President Wilson as its authors or sponsors, although the measure is known as the Glass-Owen bill. Mr. Aldrich had framed a measure for taking the control of the currency out of the hands of the United States government and placing it more firmly than ever under the power of Wall street, the financial oligarchy of the country. Were all the evils of the Payne-Aldrich tariff multiplied tenfold they would not be as dangerous to the business people of the country as the financial autocracy planned by Aldrich. It is to be expected that a man who fathered such a barefaced attempt to place the currency of the country in control of the Morgans and the Rockefeller, should come out against a measure whose chief aim is to protect the people against the money kings by giving them an elastic currency with provisions to meet business emergencies such as those under which in the past they have been forced to the wall by thousands despite the fact that they were solvent if they could only use their legitimate credit.

The men who control the currency of the country control also the credit and even the business of its people. It is this power that Mr. Aldrich would place in the hands of bankers whose power and "business integrity" is seen in Wall street. But the bankers have been unhinged and the present administration is in the saddle for the overthrow of the money trust and the restoration of equal opportunity for all business men so far as the system of banking is concerned. The government of the nation, not any system of banks, will issue the currency and see that it is neither inflated nor contracted, but adapted so far as possible to meet the requirements of all the people.

For a man who claims to know all about banking and finance some of the ex-senator's statements are peculiarly absurd. For example, one of his strongest criticisms is against the issuance of government notes which he holds to be revolutionary and at variance with all the accepted canons of economic law. Aldrich knows better. The economic law of which he speaks is that which prevails in Wall street as applied by the money trust in swindling the people. As for government notes all the paper money of the country is but the notes of the government for the face value of the bills. It is true that there is a vast amount of curfew wheel dollars that nobody wants hoarded in the treasury against silver certificates; but without this unnecessary provision, nobody will ever question the solvency of the government or its ability to redeem all the notes it is likely to issue. The notes of John D. Rockefeller would be accepted without question for very large amounts; but yet Rockefeller's wealth is not a circumstance to that of Uncle Sam. Fully 55 per cent. of the circulating medium of the United States is made up of United States promises to pay and whether the notes are redeemable in gold, silver, copper or aluminum, the fact that the government is behind them stamps them as genuine. The safeguards provided in the currency bill will overthrow the power of the money trust, will defeat the banking oligarchy, its combinations and its interlocking directorates, so that the limit of a merchant's credit will not depend upon the whim or the selfish schemes of the money power. The new currency law will correct most of the evils of the present law and will go far to solve the problem of credit. Aldrich stood for centralization of power in the hands of the money kings, the new currency law while giving the government control, will at the same time provide a system of decentralization that will enable the farmer, the manufacturer, and the merchant to avail themselves of the credit to which they are entitled but which they cannot command under the present system.

Aldrich dubs it a partisan measure. Perhaps it is in the sense that it emanates from the democratic party; but it is not framed as was the republican bill to rob the people for the benefit of the few. This attack by Aldrich will have no effect. The leaders in congress understand full well that Aldrich is now as he had been while in the United States senate, the mouth-piece and the tool of the money trust. It was largely to overcome such men as Aldrich that so many of the states have favored the popular election of senators.

It is hoped the administration will push this bill with all possible haste. The honest opinion of business men is that it is decidedly the best currency bill ever framed to meet the needs of this country. Aldrich's sneer that it embodies the ideas of finance rejected when Bryan was defeated and that it is socialistic and populist is sheer buncombe. The principles for which

Aldrich and his party stood have been repudiated by the people and President Wilson and the present congress bear the mandate of the people to remedy the crying evils of the republican tariff and the currency law. They have completed the former and will very soon complete the latter and in both they will have rendered an incalculable service to the country.

OUR APPROACHES

One of the new propositions made a few evenings ago at the meeting of the board of trade directors was the placing of a large electric sign with the message "Lowell, the City of Opportunity" thereon, beside the railroad tracks as an effective method of civic advertising. This has been done in Worcester and many other cities and the gentleman who advocated it felt that the scheme would be advantageous to Lowell. His proposition gives rise to a few reflections which may not be to the point, strictly speaking, but which are as important, as an unquestioning acquiescence with the proposed innovation—or vastly more so.

The value of such a sign as an advertisement would undoubtedly be very great did the prospects from the trains which pass in and out of our city bear it out. Unfortunately they do not. Instead of looking like a "city of opportunity" to the casual tourist who surveys it from a train window, Lowell looks very much like a city that has missed its opportunity of making its external aspect suit its vaunted prosperity. Would it not be somewhat paradoxical to have a fine electrical sign telling all who pass that we have a fine city when he can see for himself that externally we have a city of dilapidated property, broken fences, billboards, and everything unsightly? If the traveller were gifted with a sense of humor he would have something to reflect over and smile inwardly for many railroad miles. Let us put no "City of Opportunity" sign up until we make Lowell look like one, unless we put it at a sufficient distance at either side for the passerby to read it without coupling it with the terrible view from the tracks that run into and out of the city.

To be fair to Lowell in this respect, it must be admitted that nearly all American cities suffer from the same condition; the railroads run through their most unlovely sections. But there is a concerted movement afoot to remedy this condition. In England and France the people are fully awake to the value of having their railroad stations and civic prospects look attractive, and to one used to their arrangements, the Lowell vista would be unbearable. We cannot hope just yet to erect palaces at the Bleachery or have hanging gardens at the School street crossing, but we may reasonably expect a better depot and a very much improved setting for it. One who has heard of the fine industrial history of Lowell and its wonderful mills, must be keenly disappointed when he peers from a train that is obstructing traffic on Middlesex street and surveys the dazzling beauties of that classic neighborhood. It is doubtful if a "City of Opportunity" sign would do much to recompense him for his fallen ideal of industrial America.

Lowell is indeed a city of opportunity and we ought to send the fact broadcast so that outsiders may know what too many of our own people seem to forget. For this purpose all forms of legitimate and consistent advertising should be availed of. The electric sign idea is legitimate and effective. It is not, however, consistent—at least at present. When the surroundings will not contradict its message we would do well to set it up. Meantime let us improve our approaches, remove the grade crossings, and give us a new depot with creditable surroundings.

MUDDY STREETS

It takes a rainy spell to show up the bad spots in the streets or sidewalks and the damp period we have been experiencing for many days has revealed some places in the downtown district that badly need attention. Of these the worst seems to be at the junction of Middlesex and Central streets, where repairs made by the railroad and the city have left the streets and sidewalks in a deplorably poor condition. For the past few days the mud has been several inches deep and over a large area, which has imposed a great deal of inconvenience on pedestrians. This place ought to be attended to before the next rainy period sets in.

It is well that the Bay State company should extend its lines wherever public necessity demands; and well also that the company shall provide decent service on all the lines now in operation. On some it is exceedingly poor.

Seen and Heard

An editor, who started about 20 years ago with only 55 cents, is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, good habits, strict attention to business, and the fact that an uncle died and left him $25,000.—Winthrop Tribune.

"When visiting a certain town in Massachusetts," says a Bostonian, "I was told of an extraordinary incident wherein the main figure, an economical housewife, exhibited, under trying circumstances, a trait so characteristic of New England women."

"It seemed that an elderly lady of the place had by mistake taken a quantity of poison—mercurial poison, the antidote for which, as everybody knows, completes the whites of eggs."

"When this antidote was being administered, the order for which the unfortunate lady had overheard, she managed to murmur, although almost unconscious—"

"Mary! Mary! Save the folks for the pudding!"—Harper's Magazine.

Secretary David Franklin Houston of the department of agriculture is a member of the Alfalfa club, whose members assemble in the dining room of the Oriental hotel, Washington, at 12.30 o'clock every week day.

Mr. Houston, although reserved ordinarily, is a jolly story teller when the Alfalfa members meet. When Walter H. Page, ambassador to Great Britain, Secretary Lane and other members got together for lunch the other day, Mr. Houston told them a neat story.

"It was at the old Southern hotel in St. Louis," said Mr. Houston. "The colored waiter told a new guest that his handkerchief served anything. 'No difference what you ask for, you kin get it,' said the negro."

"Well, said the guest, 'bring me a piece of elephant steak.'"

"The negro looked puzzled a minute and passed out to the kitchen, but soon he returned and reported: 'Boss, we don't serve dem except whole. We ain't got no pieces.'"—New York American.

I shall not readily forget, says J. Henry Hiss, the well known Crystal palace conductor, in the October Strand, many of the experiences which we encountered when I took the ladies of the firm on its tour of the world a few years back. It is very curious how literally the title of a band is sometimes taken by members of the public. In France, where everything to do with the ladies may be expected to tickle the fancy of Frenchmen, it was really good fun to see the pleasant grin on the faces of those present, and to hear the about "Vive l'Angletterre. Vive les Besses!" When one saw the change on so many countenances upon the appearance of the band on the platform, one realized that many of those present had come expecting to see and hear an organization of women.

Even in England, the idea that the "Besses" were girls was once quite prevalent. On one occasion a man, in a state of indecision, was standing outside the hall where they were giving a concert, when the band suddenly struck up. Some of the chords which reached him were so inspiring that he at once put his hand in his pocket and made for the entrance.

"By rum," says he, "if a bunch of girls can play like they must be worth looking at. Here goes for a bob's worth."

It is told, also, of a certain American that, on being invited to go to a concert given by the "Black-Dike" band, he said:

"Well, I guess that's going some! I'd like a dollar to hear a crowd of 'niggers'!"

He went, however, after explanation and didn't he shout when "Dike" struck up "Dixie!"

The following squib, and it's a bit worth while, is from the Congressional Record:

Mr. Tillman. Mr. President, I ask the secretary to read the paper I send to the desk.

The Vice President. Is there objection?

Pinklets Will Really

Correct Constipation

Pinklets are a most valuable laxative in the treatment of obstinate constipation. They correct this unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single cramp. Unlike harsh, strong purgatives, they do not upset the stomach nor irritate and overstimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To properly regulate the bowels or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Get a bottle today and start trying them. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle.

old spinning wheel; and respectfully dedicated to that devoted friend of protected machinery and high taxes, the senator from Rhode Island.")

It is so appropriate to reproduce it at this time, when we have enacted another tariff law, that I ask for its republication.

With free wool, "Mary" will have to forego the 55 per cent. and let her women friends wear stockings on both legs instead of only one—something that 20 years ago I read it year ago, and clipped it for my scrap book. I have recently had it looked up in the Record, and find it appeared Jan. 21, 1889.

Our Mary had a little lamb. And her heart was most intent To make its wool beyond its worth. Bring 55 per cent.

But a pauper girl across the sea Had one small lamb also, Whose wool for less than half that sum She'd willingly let go.

Another girl who had no sheep, No stockings—wool for flax—But money enough just to buy A pair without the tax.

Went to the pauper girl to get Some wool to mend her feet, And make her stockings, not of flax But of wool complete.

When Mary saw the girl's design She straight began to swear That she'd make her buy both wool and flax Or let one leg go bare.

So she cried out: "Protect Reform! Let pauper sheep wool free! If it will keep both her legs warm What will encourage me?"

So it was done, and people said Wherever that poor girl went One leg was warmed with wool and one With 55 per cent.

Now praise to Mary and her lamb, Who did that scheme invent, To clothe one-half a girl in wool And one-half in per cent.

All honor, too, to Mary's friend, And all protective acts, That clothe the rich in wool And wrap the poor in tax.

The correspondent of the Chicago Herald of that date, in sending the account of it to his paper, commented as follows:

The reading of this piece of doggerel was received with shouts of laughter, even republicans, senators and members of the house, giving unrestrained way to their mirth. As for the people in the galleries, they screamed and yelled frantically, and when Senator Vance sat down they kept up their uproarious applause until the North Carolina orator gravely inclined his head in acknowledgment.

SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT HIM

Pick out the folks you like the least

And watch 'em for a while.

They never waste a kind word, they never waste a smile;

They criticize their fellow men at every chance they get;

They never found a human just to suit their fancy yet.

From them I guess you learn some things, if they were pointed out.

Some things that every one of us should know a lot about.

When some one "knocks" a brother, pass around the loving cup.

Say something good about him, if you have to make it up.

It's safe to say that every man God made holds trace of good.

That he would find exhibit to his fellows if he could;

The kindly deeds in many a soul are hibernating there.

Awaiting the encouragement of other souls that dare

To show the best that's in them, and a universal rose

Would start the whole world moving in a hopeful, helpful groove;

Say something sweet to paralyze the "knocker" on the spot.

Speak kindly of his victim if you know the man or not.

The eyes that peer and peer to find the worst a brother holds;

The tongue that speaks in bitterness, that frets and fumes and scolds;

The hands that bruise the fallen, though their strength was made to raise

The weaklings who have stumbled at the parting of the ways.

All these would be, forever, for "they know not what they do."

Their hindrance makes a greater work for wiser ones like you.

So when they scourge a wretched one who's drained and bitter out,

Say something good about him if you have to make it up.

TO MEET REBELS

Wilson is Through With

Huerta—To Deal With

Constitutionalists

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—President Wilson indicated yesterday to those who discussed the Mexican situation with him that he was irrevocably determined to deal no longer with the Huerta regime, but that further steps toward bringing peace to Mexico were being considered.

No move is expected, however, until after Oct. 26, the date set for the Mexican election.

Just what the Washington government will do is yet a matter of speculation among the high officials, but the trend of events, they say, is unmistakably toward conducting negotiations in some form or other with the constitutionalists.

The policy of the United States has been to make a complete record of having attempted to handle the problem by peaceful means. Up to the present parleys have been carried on with the Huerta administration, who have rejected the good offices of the United States.

Strong pressure now is being brought to bear upon the president and Secretary Bryan to give the constitutionalists an opportunity to compose the situation through the support of this country.

Reports that the president was preparing to recognize the belligerency of the constitutionalists are based chiefly upon the friendly disposition toward them that has arisen among administration officials since Huerta's proclamation of dictatorship. The suggestion has been carried to President Wilson by those upon whose judgment he and Secretary Bryan have in the past been guided to some extent, and while their attitude is one of waiting until Oct. 28 arrives it appeared yesterday that a move indicating support for the constitutionalists was not at all improbable.

P. J. Riley, Well Known Merchant, Passed Away Last Night

The many friends of Patrick J. Riley, a well known business man of this city, will be grieved to learn of his sudden death which occurred last night at his home, 202 Fairmount street.

Deceased had lived in Lowell nearly a lifetime. He was born in Ireland, where he attended the national schools and at the age of 10 years he immigrated to this country with his family. He secured employment at the Massachusetts cotton mill, where he labored for two years.

Later he entered the employ of the Lowell Mfg. Co. and in 1881 he went into the paper business, which he conducted very successfully up to the time of his death. For several years he conducted a paper shop at 70 Gorham street and later removed to Summer street, where he occupied a large building.

Mr. Riley was a man of happy disposition and during his long business career he made a host of friends who will deeply feel his sudden departure. He is survived by five children and three brothers, Peter of Manchester; Hugh and Michael of Lowell.

LAWRENCE VISITORS

ENTERTAINED BY CATHOLIC YOUNG MEN'S LYCEUM—TOURNAMENT OF GAMES

Members of the Catholic Young Men's Association of Lawrence together with their lady friends came to this city last evening as guests of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, who observed "Lawrence Night" at their rooms. Amusement and entertainment of every description was provided and an interesting tournament of games held, in which Lowell was victorious. A delightful evening was spent by all. The trip to Lowell was to have been made by special electric, but at a late moment there was some obstacle in the way of this arrangement, so that the delegation from the down-river city came here by train. They were met at the Middlesex street depot by the Lyceum members, who turned out in a large body with St. Patrick's flag and drum corps. Lawrence also had a large life and drum corps and the two organizations attracted widespread attention as they made things lively on the march from the depot to the rooms in Suffolk street.

The evening's program consisted of a tournament of various games, including pool, billiards and cards, and general dancing. The tournament was won by Lowell as follows: Whist, Lowell 3, Lawrence 2; forty-fives, Lowell 6, Lawrence 2; pitch, Lowell 2, Lawrence 3; checkers, Lowell 1, Lawrence 0; billiards, Lowell 1, Lawrence 0; pool, Lowell 2, Lowell 1; total, Lowell 10, Lawrence 8.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone and the Lawrence delegation went home with a high opinion of the Lyceum's hospitality. The committee in charge was as follows: Chas. Smith, chairman; John F. Murphy, John McDermott, John J. Givnan and Timothy Rohan.

INTERESTING ADDRESS

FIELD SECRETARY OF MASSACHUSETTS SAVINGS INSURANCE LEAGUE GIVES TALK

The members of the Men's Fraternity of the First Congregational church held their regular meeting last night, and the affair was largely attended. A feature of the evening was an interesting talk by Harry W. Kimball, field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Bank life insurance. In part he said:

Massachusetts Savings bank life insurance is a unique cooperative movement. Its purpose is to furnish insurance protection to residents of Massachusetts at the lowest possible cost. Savings bank life insurance is now five years old and the experience of these years has proved that under this plan the very best insurance can be furnished at the lowest possible cost. Since insurance today is one of the necessities of life, and there are few wage earners' homes in which insurance policies are not found, this movement is of supreme interest to every wage earner in the commonwealth. The movement offers unique and distinct benefits to all policy-holders—low cost of premiums, large dividends returned yearly. Now how have these results been accomplished through cooperation.

There are four parties which have cooperated in this movement: The state, the savings banks, the employers and the people.

The cooperation of the state is secured by an appropriation of $15,000 yearly, which secures expert supervision and provides for certain necessary expenses of the insurance departments of the savings banks.

The movement is also watched over by special trustees appointed by the governor, who have charge of the general insurance guaranty fund, which is a special safeguard for all policies issued by the insurance departments of the banks.

The savings banks cooperate by establishing insurance departments or by becoming public agencies. There are four savings banks now which have insurance departments—Whitman Savings bank, Whitman; People's Savings bank, Brockton; Berkshire county Savings bank, Pittsfield; City Savings bank of Pittsfield—and 14 others which have become public agencies. The savings banks of Massachusetts are public welfare institutions established solely to aid the people to safely and profitably save money, and the opening of an insurance department is simply an extension of the natural function of the savings bank; it enables the banks to serve the people in a larger and better way.

The law provides that agencies may be established in mills, shops and factories and under this provision more than 200 agencies have been established in the leading industries of Massachusetts.

TO LECTURE IN U. S.

PROMINENT GERMAN SCHOLARS TO SPEAK AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY IN NEAR FUTURE

Prof. Rudolf Tombo, Jr., director of the Deutsches Haus of Columbia university, has just returned from Germany after making arrangements for a series of lectures to be given in America by Ludwig Fulda and Dr. Otto Ernst. The lecturers will come as guests of the Germanistic society. Dr. Fulda will arrive in this month and will speak in New York, Boston, New Haven, Rochester, Buffalo, Albany, Chicago, Madison, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Swarthmore. Dr. Otto Ernst will not come until the autumn of 1914.

While in Hamburg Professor Tombo also arranged for the series of lectures which are now being conducted by the Kaiser Wilhelm professor, Dr. Karl Rathgen on "German Colonial Policy" at Columbia university. Dr. Tombo himself at the earnest request of Senator von Melle, the minister of education at Hamburg, gave a lecture on American city universities. He will probably conduct a series of lectures on the same subject next June.

This was awarded him as a result of a fight on the West river some years ago, when he helped fight and capture a lot of pirates who were about to seize a river steambot, says the New York Times.

Mr. Rule has lived in southern China 17 years, and a good part of that time he spent in the Chinese customs service. He speaks Chinese fluently. He says he would feel as safe in the interior of China, even during a revolution, as anywhere else in the world, because a foreigner who speaks the language and knows Chinese customs is secure when traveling in the country away from the seaboard.

"I left Canton the latter part of May," said Mr. Rule yesterday. "That was, of course, before the latest troubles came up. Business at that time was about normal, considering the state of affairs that then existed."

"Pirates on the Pearl river? Well, they call them pirates, but they are hardly pirates of the old school, such as used to prowl about the coast of China. You see, a gang of them gets some inside information that a certain steamer is carrying treasure, and it gets on the boat as passengers at some port; and then, after overpowering the crew and beaching the craft, the pirates take to the shore and scatter all over the province. It is next to impossible to run them down collectively.

"I had to come into contact with some of those fellows when I was in the Chinese customs service. I was on duty up the West river for five years, and then for a year and a half I was on the frontier back of Macao. That is where most of the smuggling is done, and we had to keep a sharp lookout for opium coming in and also rice for junks going out loaded with contraband grain. We had a mixed guard of Indians and Chinamen at first and they used to say that one nationally was employed to keep the other awake. But since the dispute with Portugal over the boundary of Macao I understand they have come to employ only Chinese.

"I like Canton better as a place of residence, than Hongkong, because from it it is easy to get into the country. We have only eight or nine Americans in Shanghai, the foreign concession. I was in Canton through the other revolution. In fact, I was senior lieutenant of the Shamen defense corps, but things soon got beyond us and British and Indian troops were sent to protect the settlement."

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap Dries Your Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanser." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men, Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

NO PANIC ON THE VOLTURNO

Captain Inch Says That All Stories to the Contrary are Wicked Lies—Says Members of Crew Did Their Duty

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Capt. Francis Inch of the burned Voltorno received about 90 reporters in the smoking room of the Kronland as the North German Lloyd liner slowly made her way up the bay yesterday evening with 90 survivors. The rush of news gatherers did not faze the little captain a particle. He bowed all around, smiled quizzically and said:

"Here I am, gentlemen, fire away." Capt. Inch is under the average height. He is slightly built. Twenty-two years at sea out of his 35 years of life have made him look a bit older than he is.

"I want to say first off," said the captain, "that the Carmania of the Cunard line behaved splendidly. Apparently there has been some criticism of Capt. Barr and the tactics he used. These criticisms were not justified. Capt. Barr did everything that could be expected of him. He had a big ship, hard to handle in such a sea, but he came close to us once or twice and he made every effort to lower boats when he first came to the sea, but it had to quit after a hard fight."

"Again, I want to emphasize that there was not the vestige of a panic. Any man with common sense must realize that 500 immigrants unused to the sea, to storms and fire, were frightened."

Stories Are Wicked Lies

"The women cried a good deal. After some of the explosions they screamed. The men were nervous and prowled about the after decks but at no time did they make wild rushes for the boats nor did they knock down women or injure children. Those stories are lies, wicked lies."

"What caused the fire I do not know. I doubt if it will ever be known. I was asleep in my quarters at 6:50 a. m. last Thursday, when Chief Officer Miller, poor fellow, I fear he is dead, came running to my cabin and said: 'Captain, there's a fire in hold 1. It seems to be pretty bad.'"

"I jumped at once, threw on part of my clothes, stepping outside I gave orders to slow the ship down. I had the Voltorno turned before the wind so as to keep the fire from backing aft."

Says Men Did Their Duty

"I directed that all hands assemble at their fire stations. They did so. My men, bless 'em, did their duty. They were under discipline at all times. Later on when I ordered some of them to jump into the sea to show the way to women afraid to jump, these men obeyed me, although they knew they might never be saved."

"By the time I had gotten outside my officers had directed the passengers to go on the after deck and to put on life preservers and life belts that had been distributed. The preservers and belts were in good condition. There was no trouble on our ship from rotten belts, let me tell you."

"At 8:50 a. m. Mr. Miller said to me: 'Captain, she's adrift forward. I then went to the forward deck and saw that the flames were jumping as high as the foremast light, 40 feet at least. It was a solid wall of flame. The life rafts were catching fire, and so were the wooden deck fittings. As I stood there one man jumped from the fore-castle. He was all scorched, poor chap. But he got better, and will live. This was Oiler, the quartermaster."

Ship Like a Furnace

"I thought the ship was doomed then. She was a furnace forward and it didn't look as if she could live half an hour. It was then that I gave orders to provision the boats and lower them. The passengers were very quiet. They obeyed orders like sheep. The cabin passengers were on the boat deck and the steerage passengers were on the lower deck aft. The first boats swung out—were the three lifeboats on the starboard side. Chief Officer Miller went into the first boat with 20 cabin passengers and 10 members of the crew, the 10 who belonged to the boat's crew and who belonged there. That boat wasn't smashed. The trouble was that in lowering it, it caught in the tackle and was lowered over under the gunwale. Everybody on it was spilled out. But the boat righted itself and I saw Mr. Miller and five or six others climb back into it. I am afraid the rest were drowned."

Boats Lost in Storm

"The second boat that was put off was Number 6, in charge of Fourth Officer Langelet, an Austrian. This boat contained 10 steerage passengers and a crew of about 10. It got away safely. It seems now, though, that both this boat and the boat containing the first officer and a few more were later lost in the storm."

"The third boat was in charge of Boatswain Soderstrom. It was No. 7. The boat struck the sea all right but the wash carried it under the quarter and the ship literally ate it up. It was crunched into a mass of splinters. About 50 steerage passengers and members of the crew were all lost except the boatswain himself who managed to cling to the tackle by a spring from the stern sheets. He climbed back on the ship and later worked at my side when we were fighting these devilish flames."

"I stopped lowering boats then because all of the trained men were gone and because it seemed hopeless to try to fight such a sea."

Series of Explosions

"Then came a series of explosions. The third explosion was terrific. It wrecked the saloon, the walls fell in. I had asked the Marconi man, Pennington, to call for help. He informed me that he had got a reply from the Carmania which wanted to know our position. While the boats were being put out I took the ship's position to the Marconi house."

"The third explosion happened about this time. It wrecked the wheel and compass, ruined the midships hospital and smashed the rooms amidships altogether. There were no passengers killed or hurt by the explosion, but the steam steering gear was crippled and Chief Engineer Desvar had to rig up hand gear, assisted by four men."

"I at once organized my fire fighting crew and was assisted by the chief engineer. He got the steam extinguishers to work in the hold. One hose was already connected and we got two men down into the hold carrying hose."

Heard From Carmania

"We played the water first on the deck fittings and put the fire out there. Sailors Gunderson and Saraton did fine work and helped us beat the fire on deck. The Marconi man told me at that moment that he had heard again from the Carmania, and that she was coming up to us at 15 knots an hour."

"The fire by then was so hot down No. 1 hatch that it burned off the brass nozzles of the hose. We kept playing water into the fore-castle, trying to keep the smoke down. We had beaten the flames below deck. I determined to make a trip into the fore-castle. I got underneath in the fore-castle, crawling through smoke and wreckage, and was nearly overcome by the terrific heat."

Charred Body in Alleyway

"I saw one charred body lying in the alleyway at the fore-castle door. Inside the fore-castle I saw two men lying together. One man was prone upon the table. The watch below had been at breakfast. The first explosion and rush of flame had caught these poor fellows and burned them to death where they sat, or while they were trying to struggle toward the open. But they did not have a chance on earth."

"I got back on deck, and said to the chief engineer: 'Chief, I believe we'll win out after all.' He shook his head. 'There ain't a chance, captain,' he said. 'This ship's gone.' I didn't think so. I made up my mind then to fight as long as we had an ounce of steam to work the pumps."

"I realized, too, that the passengers were hungry, and I figured out that a little food would go a long way toward reconciling them and keeping them quiet. I ordered the cooks to give them whatever was available."

Bunkers Were Blazing

"The pumps were working well. The fire was working down into the hold, but I kept hoping that we could douse it out. But the second engineer, Malcolmson, came along and reported to the chief and myself that the bunkers were blazing. That was bad. Gas formed and made it impossible to get close to the burning coal. The chief ordered the coal taken out and the men worked like slaves in relays carrying it out bag by bag and putting it in the stokehold plate. We closed the water-tight door. But the wooden deck kept catching fire, and I told the chief engineer to cut through the wood sheath of the deck and through the steel deck under it. We ran hot lines down and did the best we could, but we didn't make much progress, I'm afraid."

Uniforms Wet Through

"The deck by that time was well

ablaze and the smoke and flames were bad. I rigged up screens on the after-deck to keep smoke and heat from passengers as much as possible, so that they wouldn't be alarmed by seeing the fire. Then I got some men to relieve us while I changed my clothes. I changed clothes three times in 24 hours. My uniforms were wet through and blackened. I wouldn't give up the fight."

"About 11 o'clock the third officer reported that the Carmania was in sight. Pretty soon, standing at the No. 1 hatch, I saw her steaming up in a mass of foam."

"She was making great speed and it was a wonderful sight. It plucked up our passengers wonderfully. The Carmania did its best, the same as the others," he said. "There is none but praise for everyone. I didn't expect a boat could live in those seas when the Carmania and the other first few ships came up."

"The Carmania did drop a boat, Inch declared, but it couldn't get near, for the Voltorno drifted faster than the crew could row. Later the Carmania sent forth six rafts, but they drifted across the Voltorno's bow and disappeared. More than that the Carmania could not do, said Inch."

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone

If you are bothered with backache or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon.

It is a positive fact that Croxone promptly overcomes such diseases. It seizes right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism, soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate, long standing cases. You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results, the very first time.

all citizens of the United States whether they reside at home or abroad; every person residing in the United States, whether he is a citizen or not, and every person residing abroad if he has a sufficiently large net income liable to the tax derived from property owned or from any business, trade or profession carried on in the United States.

The exemption of income allowed to each individual (upon which he is not required to pay) is $3000 at least. If he is a married man, and his wife is living with him, he has a further exemption of $1000, making $4000 in all. Likewise, a married woman, who is living with her husband, is entitled to an exemption of $1000. It is to be noted, however, that only one deduction of $4000 is to be made from the aggregate income of both husband and wife when living together, and in no case may both husband and wife deduct the additional $1000.

What is called in the statute the "normal rate of taxation" is a tax of 1 per cent. This is the rate on all incomes not in excess of $20,000; and the amount of this normal tax is fixed by taking 1 per cent. of the net income minus the specific exemptions allowed to the taxpayer. In addition to this normal tax there is a further or additional tax of 1 per cent. upon amounts from $20,000 to $50,000; an addition of 2 per cent. on incomes of $50,000 to $75,000; an addition of 3 per cent. on incomes from $75,000 to $100,000; an addition of 4 per cent. on incomes from $100,000 to $250,000; an addition of 5 per cent. on amounts from $250,000 to $500,000; an addition of 6 per cent. on all incomes above $500,000. These additional taxes are levied only on net incomes in excess of $20,000, and they are graded according to the rates given above.

The law includes a device for collecting the normal tax (but none of the additional rates) "at the source," that is, from the person or corporation indebted upon an account or another, to the taxpayer.

The persons, firms and corporations are required to make returns and pay the normal tax for those to whom they are indebted, are those described in the law: "All persons, firms, corporations, ships, companies, corporations, joint-stock companies or associations and insured companies, in whatever capacity acting, including lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, trustees acting in any trust capacity, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators, employers, and officers and employees of the United States having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable annual gains, profits and income of another person, exceeding $2000 for any taxable year, other than dividends on capital stock, or from the net earnings of corporations and joint-stock companies or associations subject to like tax." These are to make returns, pay the normal tax and charge it up against the individual who would otherwise be liable for it. They are personally liable to the government for the amount of the tax.

A person liable for the normal tax only, and no more, either on his own account or on behalf of another, need not make any return of the income derived from dividends or from the net earnings of corporations; and if there is no other source of income no return at all need be made. Any person for whom a return has been made for payment "at the source" need not make a return in his own behalf unless he has some other taxable income.

The return of income by any taxable person shall include "gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wages or compensation for personal services of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, business, trade, commerce, or sales or dealings in property, whether real or personal, also income growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in real or personal property and from interest, rents, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any lawful business carried on for gain or profit"—except as hereafter noted. Income derived from corporations, in the form of dividends, need not be returned if the person is subject to the normal tax only; but these must be returned for the purpose of assessing any additional tax. Property acquired by gift, bequest, devise or descent is not to be returned as income; but any income derived from such property is to be returned. Partners are required to make return of the share of partnership profits to which they would be entitled if such profits were divided, whether they are, in fact, divided or not; this for both normal and additional taxes. Proceeds of life insurance policies whether paid upon the death of the insured or paid to the insured upon the maturity of the policy, are free from tax and need not be included in the return. Interest upon the obligations of a state or any of its subdivisions, and interest upon the obligations of the United States or any of their possessions, should be included. Persons receiving fees for professional services should include all actual receipt together with all unpaid accounts which are considered collectible. If such an account afterward turns out to be bad, the amount may be deducted from the income for the year in which this fact is ascertained. Interest accrued during the year, if good and collectible at the end of the year, should be returned as income, whether it has actually been collected or not.

NURSE GRAHAM ADVISES COMFORT POWDER FOR ANY SKIN SORENESS

Ida M. Graham, trained nurse, Grand Rapids, Mich., says: "I never used any powder I liked as well in every way as Comfort Powder for healing all skin soreness. The deductions to be allowed in addition to those already mentioned are these: (1) Necessary expenses actually paid in carrying on any business, not including personal, living or family expenses. (2) All interest paid within the year by a taxable person on indebtedness. (3) All national, state, county, school and municipal taxes paid within one year, not including those assessed against local benefits. (4) Losses actually sustained during the year incurred in trade, or arising from fires, storms or shipwreck, and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. (5) Debts due to the taxpayer actually ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the year. (6) A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property arising out of its use during the year. (7) The amount received as dividends upon the stock of a corporation, which is taxable upon its net income at one per cent. is to be deducted for the purpose of ascertaining the normal tax, but must be reported for the purpose of ascertaining the additional tax. (8) The income, the tax upon which has been paid or withheld for payment at the source is to be deducted from gross income for purposes of the normal tax. (9) Interest upon the obligations of a state or any of its subdivisions and upon the obligations of the United States or their possessions.

Incomes are to be computed for the calendar year, except that those for the first year will be levied only from March 1, 1913, to the close of the year. The first return must be filed by March 1, 1914.

OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY
VICTORIA LODGE HELD CONCERT AND DANCE LAST NIGHT—LARGE CLASS INITIATED

Grafton hall was the scene of great activity last evening, the occasion being the 15th anniversary of Victoria lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U. The observance being in the form of a concert and dance. The affair was largely attended and a pleasant evening was spent, a feature of the gathering being the initiation of a class of 40 members, which was conducted by Chief of Staff Mrs. Jennie Seoble.

Among those who took part in the entertainment program were Master Arthur Hiley, Miss Greta Pickering and Miss Alice Seoble. Remarks were made by Past Provincial Grand Master George Emsley of Lowell, who instituted the lodge 15 years ago; Geo. Haskell of Wallham, grand master of the Massachusetts district and many others. At the conclusion of the speeches refreshments were served and dancing was started in the upper hall.

TANGO IN COURT

Cleveland Judge Sees Nothing Objectionable to the Dance

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—The Tango dance has been vindicated in Cleveland and hereafter, by court recognition, it will be perfectly regular and permissible.

Following the completion of evidence in the case of Asa Anderson, a dancing teacher, against City Dance Hall Inspector Myers, Judge Willis Vickery of common pleas court yesterday ruled that the Tango as taught by Anderson is perfectly moral and legally unobjectionable in his jurisdiction.

The Anderson-Myers case came to court when Myers forbade Anderson to teach the Tango, which had been barred throughout the city. Anderson sued for an injunction restraining Myers from interference. Judge Vickery granted no injunction, but ordered Myers not to interfere with Anderson.

The most important evidence produced in the case came when Anderson said a girl partner danced the Tango before Judge Vickery in a room below the court.

In giving his opinion yesterday Judge Vickery said: "Every beautiful thing may be vulgarized, but because some dancing is vulgar we need not bar all dancing."

MILK INSPECTOR

during the months of December, January and February, but in the spring the percentage again drops.

The milk inspector has now four cases on hand, but the same have been hanging fire for some time, and he does not know when he will dispose of them. Two of these are where the dealer purchased their milk from certain producers, and instead of going to the producers' stable for their milk, they hired the producers to deliver it to cross roads, making it more convenient for the dealers. However, in order to get the milk delivered the producers pay so much on each can, and in this manner the producer is considered as a hired man for the dealer. In the event that adulterated milk is found in the possession of the producer while on his way to deliver the milk, he is not held liable, but on the other hand the dealer is responsible, while in not a few cases the producer has been known to water his milk before delivering it.

Another case where the dealer is held responsible for the producer's actions is when the dealer's cans are filled with the producer's place of business. The producer may water the milk and if the same is found in the dealer's cans on the producer's premises, it is immaterial whether the dealer has been near the place or not, he is held liable, and the producer gets away with it.

The cases, which Inspector Master has now on hand are similar to those two mentioned above, and it is sort of a puzzle for him to prosecute the guilty party. He feels that the dealers are not guilty of watering the milk, but he cannot get at the producer, for the latter is protected by the law.

City Election Dope

The filing of nomination papers for the city primaries, which will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 18, will close at 5 p. m. Nov. 6, or four days after the state election. The requirements for the filing of nomination papers are that a petition with statement of the position desired, whether mayor or commissioner, containing 25 bona fide signatures, be filed with the city clerk. Any petition not containing the required number of names will be declared worthless, and thrown into the waste basket. Application forms are now in the possession of the city clerk and may be secured any time upon application.

Registration for preliminary election will be held on Nov. 5, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 11. There will be one day more for registration for city election and that will be Dec. 19, for registration must cease on that date on account of the law which states that registration must not be made later than 20 days before election.

SULZER REMOVED

Martin H. Glynn of Albany, the acting governor, became governor. Robert Wagner of New York and majority leader of the senate, became lieutenant governor.

No official notice of removal was given Sulzer. A record of the decision of the court was filed with the secretary of state thus complying with all the legal requirements to remove the governor.

On the question of the removal of the governor, Presiding Judge Cullen and Senator Wendt of Buffalo were excused from voting at their own request. Every other judge of the court of appeals voted in the affirmative.

IMPEACHMENT COURT RECONVENED TODAY TO LEGALLY REMOVE SULZER FROM OFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—A pale, thin man sat in the executive mansion today awaiting impatiently a vote of the high court of impeachment which would strip from him the robes of his office of governor and make him William Sulzer, private citizen. It was common knowledge that before nightfall this fate for him would be announced. That he should be removed from office was decided by an informal vote in the high court of impeachment yesterday but the vote that would remove him legally was not taken then and the court reconvened this morning to perform that solemn action.

A vote on whether he should be disqualified from ever holding office again in the state also was to be cast. It was informally voted yesterday, however, that no such penalty should be meted out to him, so this vote, too, was largely a matter of form.

Four articles under which the governor was impeached remained to be voted on but the result really mattered little except for the purpose of record.

The four articles that remained were five, six, seven and eight.

Article five charged that the governor dissuaded Frederick Colwell from testifying before the Frawley committee; article six that the governor committed larceny in appropriating campaign funds to his own use; article seven that he barred his political influence and article eight that he used his official position to influence the price of stocks in which he was interested. There was little hope among the counsel for the board of managers that the court would sustain any of these articles. Members of the court were frank to admit today that the court had voted yesterday to find the governor not guilty on article six.

Article seven virtually was thrown out of court when Judge Cullen refused to admit the testimony of legislators who sought to prove that the governor attempted to raise his political influence for their votes for his direct primary law. Articles five and eight were supported by little evidence.

Speedy action was expected on all the votes.

Last Session of Court

The galleries of the senate chamber were filled with spectators when the senators and judges filed solemnly in at 10.30 o'clock to sit for the last time as members of the high court of impeachment.

Judge D-Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the governor, was an early arrival. He said he had arranged everything so that his connection with the case would terminate the minute the final vote was taken. He also said he had returned to the governor a statement he prepared several weeks ago but which Herrick suppressed.

Chester C. Platt, the governor's secretary, met the newspaper men in the lobby of the senate chamber and assured them that a statement would be ready, probably for use in newspapers of tomorrow morning.

"The governor has prepared it in part," he said, "but he will not put the finishing touches on it until after the verdict is in. It will not be the statement which Judge Herrick has had."

Don't Trust Calomel

Thousands Experience Bad After Effects From This Dangerous Drug

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets. They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients, as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

JAMES J. McMANMON

WAS NOT A CANDIDATE AGAINST MR. WEINBECK ALTHOUGH HIS NAME WAS USED

James J. McManmon, of Dracut, who is a member of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, was a surprised man when he read in the report of the annual meeting of the society that he had been a candidate for treasurer of the organization. Mr. McManmon was not at the meeting and feels that the public should understand that he himself was not responsible for his candidacy to succeed Treasurer Weinbeck. His name was used in this connection without his knowledge or consent.

Dangerous Catarrh Stopped by Hyomei

Just as long as you have catarrh, your head will be stopped up, your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and sniffle, you will have droppings in the throat and that choked up feeling in the morning. The germs of catarrh have you in their power; they are continually irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat.

If you do not kill the loathsome germs of catarrh, their desperate assaults will in time rob your brain of its brilliancy and activity, and leave you not only a physical, but a mental wreck.

There is one remedy sold by druggists everywhere that is guaranteed to kill the germs and stop catarrh, or money back. It is Hyomei—no stomach dosing—you breathe it. There is none just as good or that gives such quick, sure and effective relief. A complete Hyomei outfit including inhaler and bottle of liquid costs $1.00. It is also guaranteed for bronchitis, husky voice, coughs, colds and croup. Ask Carter & Sherburne about Hyomei.

Every Man Who Buys Here a Second Time Buys as a Result of the Satisfaction His First Purchase Gave

Think that over a moment. Then remember we've been in business right here in Lowell for twenty years. That means thousands of men have been so satisfied with their first purchase here and with their first trial of our store service that they have come again and again—become regular patrons of the store. This is a big business and it has become a big business because we have pleased the man with $10 or $15 to spend as well as the man who can afford to spend $25 or $30.

MEN'S SUITS $15 and $20

You can't fool Lowell men on cloth quality. They know what good cloth is and they demand it in their suits.

That's one reason why we are so successful in filling the needs of the man with $15 or $20 (or even less) to spend for a suit.

The moment he sees the goods we offer he knows he is getting more than the accepted value for the price.

Style, fit and appearance are self-evident in a suit.

It is easy to tell whether a suit is comfortable, but none of these virtues are lasting unless the cloth is right.

The cloth is right in our suits.

If $15 or $20 seems about the right price to pay—come and see what we offer at the price. We never urge you to spend a dollar more than you intended to spend when you came—simply give you the best value for the money.

ABANDONED STEAMER

THE TEMPLEMORE, STILL SMOLDERING, BOUND FOR PROVINCE-TOWN

SANKATY HEAD, Nantucket, Oct. 17.—The abandoned steamer Templemore still smoldering and in tow of the revenue cutter Androsoggin was off here at noon today, bound evidently for Provincetown where she will probably be turned over to the underwriters.

The Androsoggin picked up the Templemore on Tuesday after the latter had drifted more than 400 miles along the Gulf stream from the Virginia capes to the Georges banks.

During the blow on Tuesday and Wednesday the cutter was driven off to the southwest 30 miles, but at noon yesterday she was making some headway north, and was about 40 miles east of Nantucket lights. The Androsoggin was making about three knots an hour today with her tow, and was expected to reach Provincetown tomorrow morning although the sea was very rough.

MARCONI IN ACCIDENT

WIRELESS INVENTOR IN ANOTHER AUTO MISHAP SIMILAR TO ONE THAT COST HIM AN EYE

BELOGNA, Italy, Oct. 17.—Guglielmo Marconi, the wireless inventor, was in another auto accident similar to the one that cost him an eye.

one that cost him an eye some time ago. Motoring with his wife to Pontecaccia the car collided with a cart when turning a corner. The chauffeur turned the car quickly and caused it to roll into a horse. The shock broke all the glass in the auto and scattered it over the occupants, none of whom, however, was injured.

BIG SALE UNDER WAY

WOOD AND MACK HERE

Frankie Mack and Bay Wood, principals in tonight's bout at the Lowe A. C. arrived in Lowell today. Both say they are in the pink of condition and ready for the fight.

Mack and his followers are confident of the outcome, as they figure Woods is no more serious than K. O. Sweneen, who fell down before Mack's aggressiveness a few weeks ago. Woods' followers count on his rushing tactics to win. Any one who has seen Wood's action can never forget his method. While he battles in strict accordance with ring rules, he is a regular man.

In the semi-final, Eddie Carr of South Boston and Tommy McFarlane of Boston, are scheduled for six rounds. In the preliminaries Walter Butler of Beachmont will meet Frank Kennedy of Lowell, and Kid Silva will tackle Nick Christou.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Lowell Boys' club, held yesterday afternoon, it was voted to buy the Mathew building in Dutton street. The building formerly used for the Lowell Boys' club is being changed over for mercantile purposes and the club was forced to seek other quarters.

In view of the fact that the club has now a membership of over 1500 boys and is constantly growing, the board of directors, and others interested in the work decided that the club ought to have a home of its own and that it should be sufficiently large to provide for the future.

Daughter of Mrs. Eaton, Says
Mother Often Spoke of Having Admiral Committed to Asylum

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—A hint at evidence not yet revealed was given by the state today at the continuation of the trial for murder of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton. This had to do with a typewritten document alleged to have disappeared from the Eaton home after the death of the defendant's husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, who died, it is charged from poison administered by his wife.

FALSE ALARM SOUNDED

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT SENT TO CORNER OF SUFFOLK AND FEN-WICK STREETS THIS AFTERNOON

The alarm which was rung in from box 325 at 1:29 this afternoon was needless and the firemen had their hurried trip to the corner of Suffolk and Fenwick streets for nothing. No signs of any fire could be seen in the district and no one seemed to know anything about a fire or the person who rang in the alarm.

Lowell has been quite free of late from false fire signals, one of the most annoying nuisances that the fire and police department have to contend with. The officers on the beat where the box was rung in are on the lookout for the perpetrator of today's alleged practical joke.

OUT FOR MAYOR
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Persistent gossip to the effect that Representative Andrew J. Peters would run for mayor of Boston against Mayor Fitzgerald was informally confirmed last night, although Mr. Peters declined to talk on the subject before leaving for Boston.

By close friends of Mr. Peters it was said that he was in highly receptive mood, and if the nomination were offered him by certain elements he would be greatly inclined to accept.

and All But One Perished

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—A disaster in the air involving the destruction of another great Zeppelin dirigible and the loss of the lives of 26 out of the 27 on board, occurred this morning near the Johannisthal aerodrome when the new dirigible "L5" was making its trial trip before its acceptance as a main unit of the aerial fleet attached to the German navy.

An admiralty board consisting of a number of officers, including Lieutenant Commander Behnisch and Senior Lieut.

Freyer of the German naval flying corps, was on board. The pilot was Capt. Glund, a veteran steersman in the employ of Count Zeppelin, and Lieut. Baron Von Bleul, commander of the Queen Augusta Grenadier guards, was making the trip as a guest and was the only survivor of the wreck. He is in a dangerous condition. Many of the bodies of the crew were so badly burned that they were not recognizable.

HIS GIRL'S NAME HIS THROAT CUT I.W.W. LEADERS

Fellow Applying for a Marriage License and Couldn't Think of it

A young man called at the city clerk's office this morning to file his application for a marriage license. He gave his name, address, age and employment, as well as the address age and employment of his future bride, but when he was asked the name of the person he intended making his life-long companion, he blushed slightly and said he did not remember.

For a few minutes he worked his mind and scratched his head, and finally with a little cry of joy, he said: "I've got it," and then looking the clerk square in the face he ejaculated a name as long as his arm, but which was not understood by the party holding the pen. The young man was asked to spell it, but he wasn't equal to the occasion and then he went out saying he would go and ask her and also that he would be back in a few minutes. However, at noon the would-be benedict had not returned to city hall.

Alfred Savard, (widowed), 115 Alken avenue, 23, hostelry; Angelina Matte, 31 Ford, 23, hostelry.

Man Found in Room With Slain Wife is Recovering

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—William C. Ellis, wealthy leather manufacturer of Cincinnati who was found with three bullet wounds and his throat cut in a room in a down town hotel where lay the body of his slain wife, is recovering and, according to the police may be boked on a charge of murder.

The police have three letters which Ellis is said to have written at the hotel Wednesday evening indicating that the killing might have been planned a considerable time in advance. They read in substance as follows:

"My Dear Sister: Take care of the kids. Eleanor does not love me any more. I cannot live without her, so I am going to take her with me. My suspicions are true. Make my act appear as if financial troubles were the cause." (Signed) Will."

"Dear Phillip: Make it appear as if my act was the result of business reversal. I want Mr. _____ appointed administrator of my estate without bonds. All my jewelry can be found on my body." (Signed) Will."

"Dear Morris: Look after the children. We will all meet in heaven."

Former Lowell Man on Trial for Inciting and Encouraging Riot

Nathaniel Herman and Carroll D. Pingree, indicted on charges of inciting and participating in the Ipswich riot of June 10 last, were before Judge Irwin and a jury in the superior criminal court at Salem yesterday.

The government's side of the case opened this morning, and by the end of the afternoon the defense will have concluded its presentation of testimony. The jury was impaneled Wednesday, and viewed the scene of the riot in the afternoon and acquainted itself with locations and all else that was needed in its general information.

WAR EXPENSIVE

Reports of Amounts of Money Used for Navy and Army

It may be illuminating to tax-payers to learn how much of their money is used to build dreadnaughts and to equip armies which might yield better results if applied to better ends. The figures are taken from Mr. Arthur W. Allen's "The Drain of Armaments" and may be found in the Statesman's Year-Book, official reports of the United States, and other reliable sources.

In the fiscal year 1911-12 the United States spent over 244 million dollars for maintaining its army and navy. This represents a charge of $2.65 per unit of its population. The cost of the naval and military force constituted nearly 27.1 per cent. of the total expenditures of the country. Each man in the army of the United States costs the government $1,314 per year. What this enormous outlay for a hypothetical war means to the tax-payer is obvious. There is no reason for surprise at the high cost of living in this country when we learn that during the year 1911-12 this country, with less than 14 per cent. as many men in its army as France spent 60 per cent. as much money on it; with less than 13 per cent. as many as Germany, it spent almost 54 per cent. as much. The army cost us last year an average of more than $1,300 for each man in it as against less than $400 paid by any nation in Europe. Where does the money come from? Do the tax-payers get what they pay for? Are the men who work for their livings willing to agree to this extravagance? We make no comment further than to say that if the mutual suspicion and distrust which prompts the present huge armaments of Europe, with their galling financial burdens, are justified by the facts, civilization is a thin veneer and we are still savages at heart. But it is easier to believe that there is a universal and unjustifiable panic, and that if the great nations would be governed by their reason instead of by their fears, show sincerity themselves and credit some degree of sincerity to others, the tension would be relieved.

Such is the expense of peace under arms. The expense of an actual war in money and in human life is frightful. In the first Balkan war Bulgaria lost 30,000 out of 255,000 men with an expenditure of 240 million dollars. Greece lost 10,000 out of 150,000 men and the expenses were 55 million dollars. Serbia sent 250,000 men to war and 20,000 were killed; she spent 124 million dollars. Montenegro furnished 30,000 soldiers of whom 8,000 were sacrificed with 3 million dollars spent. Turkey lost 100,000 men out of 450,000 and the loss in money amounted to 322 million dollars. The figures are taken from a letter of Mr. Eugene S. Lucas to the New York Times. 745 million dollars spent in order that 225,000 men might be killed.

MEN'S LEAGUE MEETING

MEN OF THE FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH MET AT THE AMERICAN HOUSE LAST EVENING

There was an important meeting of the Men's League of the First Universalist church at the American House last evening, including a reception and banquet. Following the feast, President Herbert L. Chamen introduced Dr. William Jones as toastmaster of the evening, and the latter in turn, after a few brief remarks, introduced Rev. Dr. C. E. Fisher as the first speaker. Dr. Fisher urged an increased interest in the affairs of the church on the part of the men and took occasion to praise the spirit manifested by the women. His emphasis was on good work accomplished in the past and exhorted all to added endeavor in the future.

Dr. Fisher was followed by Superintendent A. S. McLeod of the Sunday school, who referred in glowing terms to the power of the Universalist organization. He urged an increase of the attendance at the church services as an object of the work of the league. Other speakers were Harry Thompson, chairman of the church board of assessors, and Rev. Charles Conklin, superintendent of the Universalist churches of Massachusetts.

Officers were chosen for the ensuing year as follows: President, Dr. William M. Jones; vice-presidents, Harry A. Thompson and Dr. A. S. McLeod; secretary and treasurer, Arthur D. Gilbert; executive committee, Rev. Dr. Fisher, W. O. Dickinson, H. L. Chapman, Eugene Dunbar, Josiah Butler.

WALSH RALLIES

Democratic Candidate
for Governor Dis-
cusses Leading Issues

Speaking at rallies in Athol, Winchendon and Gardner, last evening, Hon. David I. Walsh, democratic candidate for governor, said:

I am more than ever convinced as the campaign progresses, that the time has arrived for holding a constitutional convention in Massachusetts. No such convention has been held in this state for 60 years. Important questions of a constitutional character are demanding immediate attention.

One of the principal reasons for holding a constitutional convention is in order that we may change our system of taxation. The burden of excessive and inequitable taxation is unquestionably leading to an earnest cry for relief in every part of the commonwealth.

No question of an immediate practical hearing is more vital to the interests of the people than this one. Our present system of taxation is antiquated. It has been in vogue for generations. It was adopted when nearly all property was tangible, when conditions were entirely different from what they are today.

Many questions of future progress must necessarily await the radical modifications of our methods of raising revenues. To increase our outlays, even for worthy enterprises, is to increase the robbery of the poor while protecting the more prosperous class of the state.

But when we look to see how our taxation system may be changed, we find ourselves up against a constitutional question. No radical reform can be made in it until the state adopts a constitutional amendment.

Several plans have been suggested to do away with the possibility of doubt, taxation and to equalize the existing burden of public contribution and distribute it more equitably than has been done in the past.

Commission after commission has been appointed by the legislature to investigate our taxation system and suggest improvements. Splendid work has been done by these commissions and excellent reports have been made, but nothing of importance could be accomplished because the changes recommended would be violations of the constitution as it stands today; therefore without a constitutional amendment costly investigations and very valuable suggestions will be practically lost to the people.

The legislature during the time of its session, with the many various problems before it, and with the different schemes and propositions suggested, has therefore not been able to make any headway. Not only do the constitutional objections to any radical change in the taxation system have to be met, but the great financial forces of the state bring their influences to bear on successive legislatures to block any changes whatever, which may seem unfriendly to large financial interests. The subject must be dealt with, therefore, by a body chosen in great part for the special work of treating this question.

A constitutional convention would give the voters an opportunity to discuss and settle this question at once. It would cut off much debate in our legislature, which to date has resulted in little being accomplished towards this much needed reform, and would bring about shorter sessions.

To end the failure of the system devised many years ago in itself a sufficient reason for immediate and vigorous action. Another sufficient reason is that we may become able to reach holdings of all kinds with a just and equal hand, now that the growth of intangible and invisible property has so far outstripped that of real and other property. The valuable results of the research and study given the subject by various important and able commissions should not be lost.

The convention should be made up of the wisest and best men that can be found. They should be elected on a non-partisan ballot, no party designation being allowed.

900 feet, its blazing canvas and twisted aluminum frame blocking the public highway.

It was impossible for some time to approach the flaming dirigible, beneath which the members of the crew had been crushed and burned.

Naval Constructors Neumann and Pletzier and Naval Chief Engineer Busch were among those on board. Lieut. Commander Hennrich was a personal friend of the emperor. He was formerly navigating officer of the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and later commander of the cruiser Panther.

Lieut. Freyer, formerly was personal adjutant of Prince Adalbert, one of the sons of the emperor. He served with the prince on board a torpedo boat after studying with him at the naval academy.

Seven Zeppelins Destroyed

The Zeppelin airships have been singularly unfortunate ever since their invention by the aged soldier-count. No fewer than seven of them have been destroyed by fire, explosion or wreck. Zeppelin's L. II. and VI. met with disaster in this way; also the Deutschland, I. and II. and now the L. I and L. 2, the first airships attached to the German navy, having gone the same way.

Many minor accidents have happened to other air vessels of the same system and a number of soldiers have been killed or injured.

Blown Away to Sea

On the occasion of the last catastrophe on Sept. 2, the German emperor is said to have wept on hearing the news. He had been in command of the naval maneuvers during the day and the dirigible, the L. I, considered the pride of the German navy, had been engaged in reconnaissance work. In the evening she was blown away to sea by a violent gale and when she struck the water broke in halves, many of the members of the crew being inside her cabin.

Startled by Explosion

A director of one of the aviation companies at the Johannisthal aerodrome was an eye witness of the disaster.

"I was working in my office about 500 yards from the end of the accident," he said, "when I was startled by an explosion of extraordinary violence. I rushed to a window and saw the new dirigible in flames and plunging to ward the earth. The outer covering of the aircraft had been already burned off and the inner balloons containing the gas had disappeared.

The naked aluminum framework with its long centerpieces, its interlaced ribs and its tapering ends and with the gondolas containing the motors beneath, fell rapidly bowforemost. When the skeleton of the immense craft struck the earth the heavy gondolas buried themselves in the ground.

"I rushed immediately to the scene but when I arrived there was nothing left to be done, except to take out the dead bodies of the victims from the mass of twisted wreckage."

Dozen Aeroplanes in Air

The dirigible before she left the balloon hall took on board her regular naval crew and several officers. She headed for Berlin, a short distance off, in a light wind. About a dozen aeroplanes were circling the aerodrome at the time.

Everything was apparently in good order on the airship when she started. Then suddenly an explosion was heard by those on the ground, evidently in one of the motors in the center gondola. A flash shot out and in an instant the whole ship was on fire and plunging downward. Every inch of the canvas covering and the balloons disappeared in a moment.

Two Distinct Explosions

A second and more violent explosion was then heard, the fire having reached the gasoline tank filled with about a ton of fuel and in another instant the wreck of the newest and most modern of Germany's dirigibles lay a flaming mass on the ground.

The fire departments of all the neighboring suburbs with detachments of balloon corps, the pioneers and other troops were soon on the spot, but there was nothing left to save.

Pioneers armed with axes hacked at the wreckage for two hours before they could extricate the last of the bodies of the victims.

Killed By First Explosion

The six inmates of the center gondola had been blown through the sides of the car by the first explosion and their bodies fell four hundred yards away from the wreck of the balloon which was traveling at 40 miles an hour when the accident happened. All but two of the others were, it is believed, killed by the explosion of the gasoline tank and probably were dead before the wreckage reached the earth.

The commander and the officers of the admiralty trial board were seated in a gondola and after the fire broke out were caged inside a network of red aluminum girders and fragments of canvas that blazed like so many torches.

Suffering Asked to be Killed

Two of the crew were still alive

when dragged from the wreckage. One of them, however, died a few minutes later. The other, Lieut. Baron Von Bleul, was found to have both of his eyes burned out and was otherwise desperately injured. He was taken to a hospital moaning "Kill me."

Beside the officers already mentioned Lieut. Trenk, who was second in command, Chief Engineer Hausmann and three engineer secretaries from the admiralty were on board. The pilot, Captain Glund, was the only citizen aboard the airship. He was the commander of the Zeppelin balloon which landed in France in April this year.

The rest of those on board were warrant officers of the German navy. The engineers of the Zeppelin company expressed their confidence when the L. 2 was completed that she would be able to cross the Atlantic.

GERMAN ARMY LOST THREE MEN TODAY IN AVIATION ACCIDENTS

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Not only the German navy but the army as well suffered from aviation accidents today as three army officers belonging to the flying corps were killed this morning in aeroplane accidents.

Good music, Associate, tonight.

You Want The Best Clothes Your Money Can Get

FIT—STYLE—QUALITY OF FABRIC—TAILORING. You can't tell much about it until you see the clothes. Even then, the most important things are those you can't see.

Expert cutting---careful shaping and fitting---good inside materials and tailoring that will give permanent shape and fit to the garment.

Your eyes don't tell you about these important details, but they are the underlying facts. They depend on the makers' skill, ability and purpose.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx

Put all these things into the clothes for you. You'll get better value in them, we believe, than in any other goods. There's a splendid selection to choose from this season, very moderately priced, considering what you get for it.

$5.00 PANTS FREE

My store was closed all day Columbus Day. In my ambition and determination to do six days' business in five days, I present values that I defy you to equal elsewhere, and along with low prices and good merchandise I will give you a pair of trousers free with Suit or Overcoat order.

I NEVER ADVERTISE ANYTHING BUT TRUTHFUL STATEMENTS. THIS SPECIAL OFFER HAS NO STRING TO IT

It simply means the ambition of an honest merchant to lick the holiday dullness, to do six days' business in five, to make up the loss of Monday the next best day to Saturday—to make men order a suit of clothes or overcoat during these few dull days after Columbus Day, and more especially to learn how quickly people will answer an advertisement.

I have just opened my 18th store; from the amount of cloth I cut up each week, I have a number of ends left, in most cases enough for a pair of pants. At this writing I have 65 of those ends and Mr. Reader, you can have your pick made any way you want, they are worth $5.00 a pair, with a suit or overcoat order. I WILL GIVE YOU A PAIR FREE.

THIS ENABLES ME TO KEEP MY STOCK CLEAN AND EVERYTHING TURNED OVER IRRESPECTIVE OF THE PRICES AT WHICH THEY WERE SOLD.

NAVAL ACADEMY

Examination for Appointment to be Held at Lowell High School

An examination for the appointment to the United States Naval Academy will be held at the Lowell High School next Wednesday, October 22, and Congressman Rogers says it is not yet too late to notify him of an intention to compete. The examination is purely preliminary and is not for the purpose of final appointment. It is proposed by Mr. Rogers to select the four highest in this examination and have them examined physically by the official medical examiner, in order to make sure that when they have ultimately passed the federal examination, next February, for medical equipment they may also be fitted to pass the physical test.

Relative to this examination Congressman Rogers has addressed the following communication to The Sun:

October 15, 1913.

Editor Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:

On Aug. 15th last, in response to my request, the Lowell Sun was good enough to publish the contents of a circular relative to the examinations to be held by me to determine whom I shall designate to take the official examinations for the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. To refresh your memory I enclose herewith another copy of that circular. You will observe that the examination occurs next Wednesday, Oct. 22, at the Lowell High School.

I gave my plan the widest publicity I know how to effect throughout the entire Fifth district by means of newspaper notices such as yours, and the posting of circulars in young men's clubs, the post offices, and the time within which I requested young men to notify me of their intention to take the examination expires today. I have had a total of but seven applications. Only one of these is from Lowell. Of course if there are only seven young men out of the entire 210,000 people in the Fifth district, and but one out of the 100,000 people in Lowell, who desire to take the examination I have not a word of complaint to utter.

But it seems hardly possible that with an opportunity like this such can be the case. In any event I am anxious to have the attention of our young men again called to this matter. Would you be willing to write a suitable story to bring about this result. Please state if you can do so that it is not too late to apply, but that young men should write or telegraph me at once here in Washington.

Sincerely yours,
John Jacob Rogers.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1913.—"When I received the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment my face was covered with pimples which defied other creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers as I do, as a business woman."

"By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it. For the transformation was simply wonderful."

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 294 South Pryor St.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal eczema, and other skin humors, dandruff, sores, burns and piles. Sold by every druggist. For free trial, write to Dept. 17-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

RESUMED TRIAL

Of $10,000 and $6,000 Accident Cases at Superior Court

The trial of the suits of Miss Jennie E. Goddard and Mrs. Melissa F. Ellis of this city vs. John E. Horne of Lawrence, was resumed in superior court this morning. As was stated in the account in yesterday's Sun, this case is one in which plaintiffs sue for alleged damages, namely $10,000 and $6,000 respectively, resulting from a collision between Mr. Horne's auto and the carriage containing Mrs. Ellis, Miss Goddard and the former's son. The accident is said to have taken place at the intersection of the Pawtucket boulevard and Fowler road, on Oct. 27 of last year.

The first witness to be examined this morning was Mr. Huntington, a civil engineer, who testified as to certain measurements made by himself at the scene of the alleged accident, and as to the general aspect of the locality as regards fences, lights, trees, houses, etc.

Dr. James Cassidy was next called to the stand and said that he attended the Ellis family. He said he had been called to the house after the accident and found Miss Goddard on the couch. She had, he said, bruises on her right shoulder and elbow—both linear; calf of her left leg was bruised and swollen. There was, moreover, an abrasion over her left eye and her nose was bruised. He also found two broken ribs and other bruises. Mrs. Ellis, he said, displayed general weakness and required considerable treatment. Dr. Cassidy was cross-examined at length concerning the injuries mentioned.

Mrs. Ellis was again on the stand for a brief period after which the case of the plaintiff was closed in the latter part of the morning session. The case of the defense was then opened.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. James McMeek in Warwick of Worcester, and Miss Winifred G. Hoy, formerly of this city and now of Worcester, was solemnized in the latter place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hills, 75 Dewey street by Rev. John C. Breaker, pastor of the Dewey Street Baptist church.

The bride was attended by Miss Eva Hills, as matron of honor, and Miss Jennie R. Shaw, Lowell, as maid. Miss Shaw was a schoolmate of the bride in the Lowell schools. Mr. Warwick had Leonard J. Hoy, brother of the bride, as best man. The ushers were Forest H. Stickney and Albert T. Shaw of Lowell.

Mr. and Mrs. Warwick left Worcester last night for a trip to Maine, and on their return will live at 33 Stone-land road, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

GANLEY—ROWEN.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. John Francis Ganley and Miss Rose Etta Rowen were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at the Immaculate Conception church by Rev. Fr. Tighe, O. M. I. The couple were attended by Miss Katherine Rowen and Mr. Chas. A. Ganley, who acted as bridesmaid and best man respectively. At the close of the ceremony a reception and dinner was held at the home of the bride's aunt, 155 Concord street. After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ganley will make their home at 155 Concord street.

YOU HAVE AN IDEA

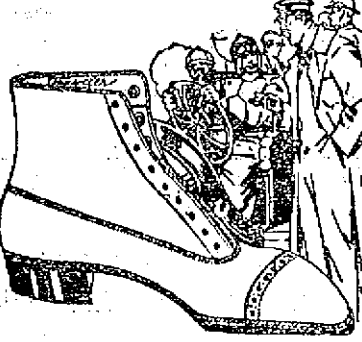

I have an idea. We all have ideas and ideals, and that is today without a doubt the main reason for the great demand of variety. Now to meet and satisfy all these different ideas and ideals in footwear we must also be able to carry them through on lines that fit the feet and yet satisfy the fastidious cry of fashion and pocketbook. You are, of course, open to conviction; therefore keep right on reading.

Have you ever seen a larger variety of perfectly modelled shoes than in the Traveler Shoe Show Windows? No, of course not. Why? Every season we get together the managers of our 28 different stores in the different cities of New England, and the ideas of proper footwear of these different men that have from 10 to 25 years shoe experience are taken up and put in the makeup of "TRAVELER SHOES." Now add to this our great facilities for a large output and controlling interest in tanneries of best leathers and you have the reasons why Travelers have that bold effront of $5.00 and $6.00 and yet do not offend the pocketbook for more than $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 or $4.00.

SOCIAL ROOMS DEDICATED AT SWEDISH METHODIST—HARVEST SUPPER AT HIGHLAND M. E.

The new basement social rooms in the Swedish Methodist church, in Moore street, were formally dedicated last night.

Rev. Frank Broman, of Boston, district superintendent, made the dedicatory address and spoke of the very excellent work accomplished by the church members in recent months. He told of the added enjoyment to be derived from the new rooms and how they should constitute the center of social activity among the members. The uses to which they should be put he dwelt upon.

Rev. Edwin Stromberg, pastor of the church, spoke briefly during the evening, after which a brief entertainment was given. George Laurin, gave organ selections, and Miss Mathilda Schonborn gave a reading. The choir, under the direction of George Laurin, gave several numbers, and there was singing by the congregation.

The supper was prepared under the direction of the Dorcas society, of which Mrs. E. Stromberg is chairman. The other members of the committee were: Mrs. Gustafson, Mrs. Laurin, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Schonborn and the members of the standing committee.

Harvest Supper

The annual harvest supper of the Highland M. E. church was held last night under the direction of the Ladies Aid society of the church, with a large crowd present, despite the adverse weather conditions.

The church vestry was attractively decorated for the occasion. On the general committee were: Mrs. J. P. Slater, chairman; Mrs. W. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Whitcomb, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Mrs. S. E. Clark, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. A. B. Cameron, Mrs. Mitchell. The supper committee included: Mrs. W. D. Large, Mrs. Fred Timmins, Mrs. H. J. Maguire, Mrs. Mooney, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Wesley M. Wilder, Mrs. George Raine, Mrs. Herbert Yeomans, Miss Carrie Philbrick, Miss Eva Large. A pleasing entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. H. J. Maguire. Piano solos by Miss Bertha Chapman were enjoyed, after which a pantomime entitled "Wanted, a Wife," was given by the "T. M." club of St. Paul's M. E. church. In the cast were: Walter A. Boynton, Mrs. Garfield W. Horne, Miss Laura Marshall, Miss Grace Morrison, Mrs. Lawrence Jordan, Mrs. Edwin Kent, Mrs. Abel E. Campbell and Mrs. Walter W. Cleworth.

Vicar Parish Supper

The first parish supper, given by the Beneficial society of St. Anne's church last night, brought out a crowd that taxed the capacity of the parish rooms almost beyond the limit. As usual, the supper served was excellent, and following it, an impromptu entertainment program was given, under the direction of the organizer, Mr. Charles E. Brown, the following people assisting: Miss Amy Williams, piano; Miss Bertha Knight, violin, with Mrs. Bernice Knight accompanying; Master Archibald Campbell, soprano, and members of the Men's Glee club. In closing, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by all.

The ladies who had charge of the supper were: Mrs. Fred A. Buttrick, Mrs. T. G. McGannon, Mrs. H. R. Rice, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. C. B. Redway, Mrs. Arthur D. Prince and Misses Cushing, Carleton and Cummings.

INNOVATION AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 17—A distinct innovation in the training of a Yale "varsity crew has been introduced this fall in preparation for the Princeton race on Oct. 25. For the past two weeks the men who make up the "varsity eight have been going down to the harbor at 5.30 in the morning and rowing about four miles. They eat oranges and crackers on the way down and get back to the campus in time for breakfast. They will continue this each morning up to the time of the race.

Selected Presiding Offi-

Edward F. Flanagan, delegate-at-large at the police convention held at Cambridge Wednesday and Thursday of this week, received one of the highest honors possible for a representative at the convention to have bestowed upon him when he was selected out of the total number of delegates as a committee to choose the presiding officer for the ensuing year. Mr. Flanagan's choice reflects the esteem with which the local police department is held as well as upon his own individual merit.

Mr. Flanagan's choice for president for the ensuing year was Captain Henry T. Ryan of Haverhill, the present incumbent of the office. Mr. Ryan was elected for the term of one year.

Mr. Flanagan was also elected to the chairmanship of the legislative committee, probably the most important of all the committees selected during the two days convention. This committee has control of the legislative policy of the Massachusetts police.

Edward J. Flanagan is a very well known member of the local police having been in the department since 1893. His beat at present is along East Merrimack street where he has been for the defense, with Judge Alken. The conference ended, the prosecutor asked Dorothy what she knew of such a paper. The defense objected; thereupon the district attorneys called up the attorneys to produce the document in question. Mr. Morse replied that he had learned of its existence only early this morning. The matter was not pressed but Mr. Barker said he hoped to admit the paper later.

Will Was Not Found
Following the admiral's death, a search was made for a will alleged to have been made by the admiral after the date borne by the will filed for probate which left his property to the widow and his stepdaughters but so far as known a second will was not found.

The continued testimony of the 16-year-old girl was a story of a house divided against itself. Her mother and stepfather quarreled frequently, she said, a particular bone of contention being the attentions paid to the witness' sister, June, by a man 20 years old.

Before the testimony was begun the court asked the witness to remove her hat and the veil. The girl crossed the room to her mother and the latter assisted her, at the same time smiling and patting her daughter's cheeks. Then the girl told of the friction in the home and of Mrs. Eaton's attempts to have her husband committed to an insane asylum Mrs. Eaton questioned the admiral's sanity because she alleged he dabbled in dangerous drugs. "The admiral, the witness said, always treated his wife well, even when he was 'somewhat intoxicated.'"

She told of the visits to the home by Daniel H. Ainsworth of Chicago, from whom her mother was divorced a few months before she married the admiral, and of trips made by the defendant to Chicago and Washington.

According to the witness, June sided with her mother in the family quarrels and had much influence over Mrs. Eaton. Mrs. Eaton, she said, at times taunted the admiral with being lunatic and he jokingly referred to their home as the "lunatic asylum." He sometimes used this address in letters on post cards addressed to his wife.

The state asked several questions intended to establish the improbability that the admiral committed suicide and drew from Dorothy the statement that he had planned to go to a "smoker" at Rockland on the Tuesday of his death.

MRS. EATON'S DAUGHTER DOROTHY
GIVES DETAILS SURROUNDING
ADMIRAL'S DEATH

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—Further details surrounding the death of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton were heard today from the lips of Dorothy Ainsworth, the 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. M. Eaton, on trial charged with the murder of her husband. When the defendant's daughter was examined from the stand yesterday after a long examination she had brought her testimony up to the moment when she said her mother awakened her and told her of the admiral's death.

It was a small audience, made up mostly of women, when the girl resumed her testimony under the questioning of District Attorney Barker. Before taking the stand Dorothy was asked to remove her hat and veil. The request was made by Judge Alken.

Dorothy crossed the room to obtain assistance of her mother. Mrs. Eaton smiled upon the young girl and stroked her face affectionately.

A moment later Dorothy was called upon to tell of visits to the Eaton home by Mrs. Eaton's divorced husband, Daniel Ainsworth of Chicago, and the visits made by Mrs. Eaton in Chicago and Washington.

Call for Paper
Then there was a conference between the court, the district attorney and William A. Morse, attorney for the defendant, after which the prosecutor tried to obtain from the witness information regarding a typewritten paper alleged to have been taken from the house after the admiral's death. The district attorney called upon the defense to produce the paper and Mr. Morse replied that he did not know of its existence until this morning. Mr. Barker said he hoped to introduce it later. Nothing to indicate the nature of the document was revealed.

The defense objected to questions which followed regarding Mrs. Eaton's opinion of her husband's sanity, but was overruled.

Not Always Sane.

"Mother did not think the admiral was 'always sane,' said the witness. Dorothy said that the admiral had always treated her mother well, even when he was 'somewhat intoxicated.' Mrs. Eaton had often spoken of having the admiral committed to an insane asylum and had brought Miss Annie Rooney, a nurse of Boston, to the Eaton home in furtherance of her purpose to have her husband committed. The witness was questioned about the admiral's alleged use of drugs, but nothing was brought out. Dorothy said that her father and mother frequently differed concerning June, the elder daughter of Mrs. Eaton by her first marriage. A particular cause of friction, she said, were the attentions paid June by a man 20 years of age.

CRIPPLED DAUGHTER OF MRS.
EATON GIVES DRAMATIC
TESTIMONY

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—A crippled child, sweet-faced and apparently unaware of the gravity of her story, told the Eaton murder jury at Plymouth county courthouse yesterday afternoon that her mother harbored an unusual jealousy toward the late Admiral Joseph G. Eaton.

This child was 16-year-old Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth, the mother of whom is Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, the wife of the late admiral, and who is charged with having murdered him. Nor did the girl stop with her state-

A large size performance for a popular priced tailor to lay out, but that is exactly what we are going to do—And we believe we are able to successfully swing it.

Here is Our Story—Read it!

We are practical tailors, not men who have learned only one single branch of the business. We worked as men and boys on the tailors' bench and took a hand in all the details, from the fine sewing to swinging a 25-pound pressing iron. Our success was made only through our ability to produce just a little better garment than the other fellow. We were always able to fulfill the wants of our customers because we knew the business from A to Z.

There is not now and there never has been in Lowell a man who would attempt such an undertaking, who is selling clothing at the prices we quote. He intend to build up the largest tailoring business in this city, and if we can get you to leave your first order we will be assured of our success, for you are going to get better values in clothing than you ever dreamed of.

You Will See

Your garments made by competent tailors in our own shop directly above the store. You will know that they are made in a clean, airy, up-to-date shop, and not carted through the streets of some large city and made up in dirty, dingy, sweat-shops, where they are liable to become saturated with disease. Come in and see our workrooms. Look our shop over, and that will convince you more than anything we can write.

ment concerning her mother's alleged jealousy. She re-enacted the death scene. She told of having been sent to bed by her mother immediately after the meal at which white arsenic is said to have been first administered to the admiral. She testified to having been forbidden by her mother to go to the admiral's room during his fatal illness, and told of the lonely visits made to the dying man by her mother.

Dorothy's testimony followed the outlining of the government's case by Assistant District Attorney Frederick G. Katzmann, who has worked hard and earnestly in securing evidence, and the testimony of Medical Examiner Gilman Osgood concerning Mrs. Eaton's mental condition and the nature and amount of poison administered to the late naval officer.

Lonely Visits to Dying Man

This outlining of the government's case developed the contention that Mrs. Eaton killed her husband while she was laboring under an abnormal mental condition. Through the medical examiner's statement it further developed that the government will endeavor to prove that quantities of white arsenic were administered to the admiral even after he had been fatally stricken by an early dose of the poison.

The testimony of both the medical examiner and Dorothy Ainsworth advanced to hear out the claim concerning Mrs. Eaton's mental condition, while Dorothy's statements concerning the lonely visits of her mother to the dying man's room will be held to indicate the occasions when the additional doses of poison were administered to Admiral Eaton.

Threw Arms Around Mother

That both sides attach great importance to the testimony of Dorothy Ainsworth was shown by an incident which took place immediately after court adjourned. The jurors had retired in charge of the deputies; Judge Eaton had left the bench and the court room was almost empty when Dorothy, who had not finished her direct testimony had left the witness stand, and seemingly awaited her opportunity to run over to her mother, and throwing her arms around her kissed her repeatedly. After a short time spent in talking and more demonstrations of affection, Mrs. Eaton and Dorothy started for the room in the rear of the court room allotted to the defense. As soon as they stepped out clear from the court room allotted to the defense, a deputy sheriff, acting apparently under orders, and was led away from her mother weeping and protesting violently. There was no further opportunity for conference as the mother was taken back to the jail.

Limped Across Court Room

Not in the history of the local court house has there been enacted a more dramatic scene than that which confronted the Eaton jurors when the crippled daughter of the woman accused of Admiral Eaton's death limped across the court room to take her place upon the witness stand.

Timidly she gazed around the well-filled room as she entered the door. The beautiful coloring of her face paled for a minute and she grasped the railing for support. Then, summoning her courage and smiling pleasantly to the officers who offered her assistance, she took her place before the bench to be sworn. Stepping to the stand she first gazed upon her accused mother and smiled a little.

She was dressed wholly in black, save for a trace of white in the maline bow which was about her neck. She had left her jacket in the witness room and wore a black skirt, black shirtwaist cut to the base of the neck, and wore a fetching low-trimmed velvet hat with a wide ribbon tied beneath her chin.

Her voice was low and indistinct when she first took the stand, and repeatedly her counsel and the judge requested that she raise her tones. Even when exhorting additional effort in complying with these requests her voice was hardly distinguishable beyond the jury box.

Her testimony was most striking. After giving her name as Dorothy Virginia Eaton, she was asked if that were her legal name and replied "No; my legal name is Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth."

Girl Smiled at Mother

Concerning her age, she said she did not know whether she was 16 or 17 years old. Then she told the various homes which she had known and the schools which she had attended, and from time to time during the early part of her occupancy of the stand smiles passed between the diminutive witness and her accused mother.

She then traced the life of her sister June through various cities, finally to Washington, where it is alleged June's baby was born. Dorothy said she did not know why June and her mother went to Washington, and that the reason for going was only implied to her.

TROUBLE IN MILL

Ironed Out in Court —
Roughly Handled

A North Chelmsford mill fracas in which four Arabians played the leading roles was straightened out this morning before Judge Enright in the local police court. Ali Mahmoud, Mohamed Ali and Hassan Charutz were charged with assault and battery upon Mohamed Kadda.

Through an interpreter the complainant and two companions told their tale of woe. The three defendants, it appeared from the testimony, set out to put the complainant in the hospital if possible. And the whole affair started from one of the three defendants deluging the complainant with a mouthful of water.

Kadda said that he resented the insult as well as the water and asked for an explanation. Instead of receiving it he got a slap in the face and the battle was on. The two companions of the spitter, however, jumped into the fray and started to beat up Kadda.

One of them had an umbrella and judging from the appearance of the complainant he used it with great success.

The defendants swore that the complainant's statements were false and that he, in reality, started the fight. The battered features of Kadda, they said, were obtained under false pretences. In other words a cousin of Kadda, while trying to pound one of the defendants, hit his kinsman in the mouth and later in the eye.

Judge Enright believed the tale of the complainant and found all of the defendants guilty. He ordered each of them to pay a fine of $7 and promised them more next time if he ever heard of their brawling again. Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., appeared for the prosecution.

Sent to State Farm

The remainder of the docket was soon disposed of. William H. Dever was ordered committed to the state farm at Bridgewater for continual drunkenness. John Cadden, John H. Hart and Michael O'Brien were all fined $6 for their second appearance for the same misdemeanor. There was only one $2 drunk this morning.

After Ald. Cummings

Four employees of the messenger's department recently presented a request to Commissioner Cummings, who is at the head of this department, for an increase in wages, but they will have to wait some time before their request is granted, for the commissioner says he will have hardly enough money to carry his department through the year.

Two of these men are employed as firemen and their request was for 25 cents a day increase, while the others did not stipulate in their demand just how much was wanted, this presumably being left to the commissioner in charge.

Mr. Cummings in conversation with the writer this forenoon stated that the total appropriation for his department this year was $18,000. Of this amount $14,234 was used up for salaries to Oct. 1, while the amount paid for other expenses is $4702.10. The total amount, including expenditures to Oct. 1 and the total amount estimated to carry the department to the end of the year, including fuel for the balance of the year and the heavy lighting bill is $17,917.98, which leaves a balance of $52.02.

Out of the balance of $52.02 repairs have to be completed in the mayor's office, and that will practically eat up every red penny appropriated for this particular department. Mr. Cummings said repairs have been asked for by superintendent of schools and the assessors' offices, but this will be put over to next year on account of lack of funds.

The employees of the public building department are now at work on repairing school houses and as soon as they have completed this job, they will be returned to city hall, where they will do considerable repairs in the mayor's office and other offices on that floor.

New Band Stand

Commissioner Lawrence Cummings and Supt. Francis A. Connor of the public buildings department, as well as Park Commissioner Henry F. Carr and Supt. J. W. Kenney of the park department, held a conference in Mr. Kenney's office at city hall last night relative to the acceptance of the plans for the new cement band stand to be erected on the South common, and for which the city council recently voted an appropriation of $2000.

Harry Prescott Graves, the architect who prepared plans, was present and gave a full explanation of his design. The parties interested decided to request the city solicitor to draw a contract for plans between the city of Lowell and Architects Stickney & Graves, and as soon as this is done, bids will be called, the same to be submitted Thursday of next week, and the contract for the work will be awarded. A section of the contract will be that the work must be finished on Dec. 1.

OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 17.—When play was resumed this morning in the third round of the American open golf championship John J. McDermott of New Jersey was leading.

Mr. McDermott, whose 146 yesterday for 36 holes was the low score of the day, had a two stroke advantage over Alex Smith, present title holder. Michael Brady of Boston was next with 149.

If either of the first three turns in as good cards as they did yesterday a new 72 hole record for the Memphis Country club course will be established today. The present low mark is 300.

The evening newspaper is the popular family paper, because it prints the news of the day when it is fresh.

working at different trades are afforded a splendid opportunity to overcome any deficiency that they have, while the girls are taught industries that will be a great help to them both in their homes and at their work. The enrollment at the girls' school is greater this year than last and at the present time the number registered is much greater than the teachers will be able to care for.

The girls' work will be carried on different, this year than in the past. Formerly a girl could furnish the material for a dress, coat or other garment and the teachers at the school, who are experienced dressmakers, would do the greater part of the cutting and fitting, but this year the girls will be obliged to do all the work and the teacher will be present and furnish any information or instruction while the work is being done. This has been made clear to all the pupils and teachers and it is believed that the scheme will prove advantageous to all.

Get a Move On

Principal Fisher requests that all men and boys who intend to register at the school do so either tonight or some school evening next week, as the course must be started at an early date. At the end of the period that is required to furnish the course each pupil who has been a regular attendant and has acquired satisfactory knowledge of the subject which he took will be awarded a certificate. The courses will vary from five to ten weeks.

The schedule of classes is as follows:

Girls' School
Monday evenings: Dress and shirt-making, cooking and millinery.
Tuesday evenings: Cooking and millinery, dress and suit making.
Thursday evenings: Cooking and

Boys' School

Wednesday and Friday evenings: Loomfixing classes.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings: Weaving, picking and carding, ring spinning, carpentry, automobile repairing, electrical work.

Tuesday and Friday evenings: Steam engineering.

Monday and Thursday evenings: Electrical theory.

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings: Plumbing, machine work.

Of the 100 women and girls who are enrolled at the girls' school 250 were present last night. This small number is probably due to the weather and the misunderstanding some of the girls had as to the nights they are to attend.

Two Additional Rooms

There is no doubt but the attendance at the girls' department this year will average in the vicinity of 500 and this number is all that can be properly cared for. The two additional rooms at the Morrill school are a great help to the teachers and they will be used each school evening.

Loomfixing Class

The loomfixing class started in last Wednesday night at the Old Moody school on East Merrimack street and the pupils were busy working on the different looms and machines. Mr. Charles Thibault, who has charge of this class is a first class loomfixer and was chosen by the loomfixers' union to head this class. The younger members will be given plain looms to work on, while those more experienced will labor on fancy looms and machines. The prospects for a good class in this line are very bright and at the present time all show plenty of interest and enthusiasm.

Loomfixing Class

The ringspinning class is in charge of Henry Poffler and he also was selected by the union. This work will be started next Tuesday evening and men and boys have already signified their intention of joining.

Electrical Class

There is a splendid opportunity for young men and those more experienced to join the electrical class when both practice and theory will be taken up. Any young man employed in electrical work has a chance to advance himself by attending these classes and benefiting by the instruction. Small rooms have been constructed in the Mann school and beginners are given practical work in wiring for bells and lights and instructed on motor work and generators.

Carpenters' Class

Young men who wish to join the carpenters' class must not know how a jack-rafter is cut, how a roof is pitched or laid out or how stairs are figured and built. This work will be in charge of Mr. Wiggin and the members of the class will be taught drawing and estimating as well as practical work. Several more may be registered in this class by applying at the Industrial school office.

Class in Plumbing

The classes in plumbing, automobile repairing and machine work are practically filled and many have been turned away because they do not qualify with the requirements of the state law. However, the work will be carried on with large classes and the instructors are all men who have had wide experience in the different trade lines.

Other Classes

But eight men or boys have applied for enrollment in the engineering for firemen class and if this number is not at least doubled the class cannot be formed.

Any man working at cabinet making or in any woodworking establishment may register at the school and he will be instructed in whatever line he is employed during the day. In order to attend the evening schools a boy or man must be employed at a trade and he must study along the same lines as he works during the day. Principal Fisher stated this morning that the school was for trade extension and to help those who are working at trades at the present time.

The equipment at the school is better and more conveniently arranged than in previous years and the pupils can be taught more thoroughly. Any information regarding the evening work can be received by a visit to the office of the school principal located in the Mann school on Broadway.

Carl G. Phil was today granted a permit for the erection of a cottage house in the rear of 1224 Gorham street. The house will contain six rooms with pantry and bath and will cost approximately $1500.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

and the superintendent says if he finds that posters are again placed on public trees, the guilty party will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

The rules, which were adopted this month are as follows:

1. No root or branch of any tree shall be cut, broken or otherwise disturbed or interfered with in any way by any individual or employee of a public or private corporation until the same shall have been examined and a permit issued from this board.

2. It shall not be lawful to attach any guy rope, cross-bar, cable or other contrivance to any tree, or to use the same in connection with any banner, transparency or any business purpose whatever, except under a permit from this board.

3. Requests for removal or trimming of trees must be made upon forms furnished by the board of park commissioners, and must state the size of the lot in front of which the work is to be done, the kind of trees to be trimmed or removed, and the kind and condition of the nearest tree upon the adjoining property.

4. Trees planted in the streets of the city of Lowell shall be only on permission of the superintendent of parks, and shall not be less than 35 feet apart; and as much farther apart as may be directed by the superintendent for the different varieties of trees.

5. No person shall put on or affix in any manner any placard, notice or bill, either written or printed, upon any tree in any street or public place without the consent of this board.

6. No person shall fasten any horse or other animal to any tree or tree guard in any street or public place.

7. Any person violating the foregoing rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding $20 for each offense.

Norway Maples

The employees of the park department are now busy clearing a certain portion of Fort Hill park of its rocks and small trees, in order to make room for 200 Norway maples, which will be planted there in the latter part of this month.

Attendance Officers

Nearly 2000 age and school certificates have been exchanged for old ones at the office of the attendance officers since the new law went into effect. The rush to this office was so great, that the attendance officers decided on some system and accordingly this week they are issuing certificates of the Lawrence hospital only. Next week the minor employees of the Tremont and Suffolk mill will be given an opportunity to exchange their old certificates.

Fire Department

Employees of the fire department have just completed changing the number plates on the alarm boxes all over the city, preparatory to the installing of the new alarm system. The same will be put in by the Gamewell Co., and it is hoped everything will be in shape some time this month.

WAS FOUND DEAD

Charles Sweeney, a well known bricklayer residing at 4 Hale street, was found dead at his home this morning, death being due to accidental asphyxiation by illuminating gas. Deceased was 57 years of age and his last employment had been at the remodeling of the old Boston & Maine depot in Central street.

Mr. Sweeney, who last night was not feeling well, retired shortly after eight o'clock. Soon after 11 o'clock his daughter heard him walking about the room, but paid little attention to him. This morning at 6:10 o'clock she went to his room and found him lying on his bed. There was a strong odor of gas in the room and the young woman immediately summoned help. Her brothers rushed up stairs and opened the windows, but after examination it was found that he was dead.

It is presumed that when Mr. Sweeney arose during the night he clothed himself and turned on the gas, and it is believed later he turned off the gas with the intention probably of sleeping a short while and then getting up again, for he did not divest himself of his clothing. The gas jet was examined this morning and found to be in good working order although it was half opened. Dr. Meigs, medical examiner, was notified of the death and after viewing the body, signed the death certificate "accidental death by gas poisoning."

Mr. Sweeney is survived by seven children: William F., Mrs. Irving Wedgewood, Charles A., Walter H., Eva M., Ralph A. and Royal N. Sweeney.

FUNERAL NOTICES

ZESEWITZ—Died, in this city, Oct. 16th, 1913, at the home of his son, Onay Zesewitz, 733 Lawrence street, Mr. Frederick A. Zesewitz, aged 77 years, 11 months and 6 days. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the Edison cemetery chapel, at 2 o'clock. Friends and relatives invited to attend. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker William H. Saunders, 1111 Broadway. The late Paul Rick J. Riley will take place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from his home, No. 222 Fairmount street. A solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church at 10 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery under the direction of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Feel Builfy! No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Constipation

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

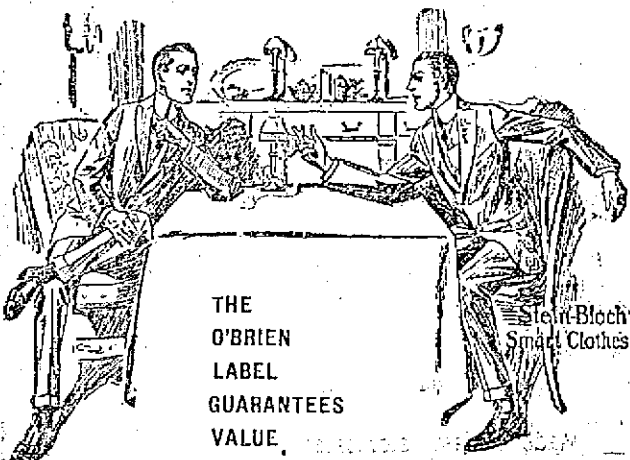

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

The Economy of Good Clothes

The man who wears a Stein-Bloch $20 Suit a year gets more out of it than is possible with two ten-dollar suits.

The difference is the satisfaction a man experiences in being smartly and correctly attired in clothes that hold their shape.

We believe in Good Clothes for the customers' sake as well as our own. Good Clothes are economical. The suit you like you'll wear twice as long as one that doesn't quite please and which cost nearly as much.

Stein-Bloch Suits sell at $20, $22.50 and up to $30. There's full value in every suit at each price. The Stein-Bloch label and our own label guarantee your complete satisfaction.

This season we feature O'Brien Special Suits at $12.50, $15 and $17.50, that we can honestly term Good Clothes. The fabrics are all wool, and the tailoring is honest and dependable. You can buy them in safety, backed by our guarantee of satisfactory service.

The weather suggests Overcoats. Fall and Winter Overcoats are ready—$15 to $35.

EXPERT WATCHMAKER

DANIEL J. DUANE, EXPERT IN JEWELRY REPAIRING, LOCATED IN SUN BUILDING

Daniel J. Duane, expert in watchmaking, and in watch and jewelry repairing, has located in Room 305 of The Sun building, which he has fitted up in a most thorough and modern manner for the carrying on of his business. From the very first day of his location in this building, the number of his patrons has been large, and his business has continued to grow rapidly. Few men, perhaps, are as well qualified to give expert service in the line of watch and jewelry repairing, and in fact in every branch of the work, as is Mr. Duane, who benefited by a wide experience in the factory of the Waltham Watch Company at Waltham. In addition to this, he has been connected with some of the best shops in Massachusetts.

Mr. Duane has a complete set of instruments of the trade of every description, some of them being so delicate of construction as to defy perception by the naked eye. These are of the latest and most modern design and best calculated to perform excellent work. His work is rapid, and certain, and he is familiar with the movement of every watch made, and guarantees entire satisfaction to everyone.

There can be no better proof of his ability in this line than the statements of those who have benefited by his services, and his patrons in every case have been warm in their praise of the young man. He may be found in room 305 in The Sun building, where he will be glad to greet his many friends and patrons, both old and new.

THEIR COUNTRY'S CALL

GREEK YOUNG MEN RETURN TO THEIR HOMELAND IN ANSWER TO CALL TO ARMS

Christos Papadopoulos, a well known Greek merchant of Market street, a member of the firm of Valles & Papadopoulos, left a few days ago for Sparta, Greece, where he is to enlist in the Greek army in the event of another war with Turkey.

The young man left with five of his compatriots, four of whom will also enlist, while the other is going direct to his home, where he will take care of his younger brothers and sisters, while his two older brothers are serving in the Greek army.

The departure of these men is the result of a recent call from the Greek government for soldiers, but which only applies to those who have not served their regular time in the Greek army. Under the rules of Greece, every young man is obliged to serve his country a certain number of years, but there were instances where there were several boys in one family, the oldest boy was not called upon, and those are the ones the government is now calling back.

Christos Papadopoulos, who is 33 years of age, was one of the lucky ones, and last June he received a summons from his country, ordering him to return to Greece. However, he was given 120 days to comply with the order and a few days ago he sailed from Providence. With him were Athanasios Spandidhis and four other countrymen. The latter, who was employed at the Barry Shoe Co. in Stackpole street, returns to his home, where he will look after his brothers and sisters.

Papadopoulos has been in this country 15 years and upon his arrival in Lowell he secured employment in a local mill. Nine years ago he went into the grocery business with Louis Valles and ever since the two energetic young men have conducted a flourishing business. Louis Valles will take care of the business while his partner is away.

A telegram was received in this city a few days ago to the effect that the steamship "Athena" sailed from Patras,

THE COUNTY RING

Rapped by Progressives at Rallies Held Last Evening

Two rallies were held last night by the city committee of the progressive party one at Highland hall and the other at Odd Fellows' hall in Centralville. Each hall was the scene of an enthusiastic crowd which waxed demonstrative over the speakers.

Charles H. McIntire, Esq., candidate for county commissioner, Philip M. Clark of Cambridge, candidate for district attorney, Cecil P. Dodge, candidate for representative in the fourteenth district and Dr. C. B. Livingston, candidate for senator were among those who spoke.

Mr. McIntire and Mr. Clark both mentioned the county "ring" and pleaded with the voters to help clean up the politics of Middlesex county. Mr. Dodge spoke briefly of his candidacy, mentioning the fact that Mr. Hubbard, the republican nominee, evidently considered that he had a monopoly on any office in the fourteenth district.

WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY
WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 17.—Large galleries followed the semi-finalists today in the competition of the woman's national golf championship over the course of the Wilmington Country Club. In one match Miss Marion Hollins of New York, the Metropolitan champion, met Miss Harriet Curtis of Boston, former national title holder and in the other Miss Muriel Dodd and Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the foremost woman golfer of Great Britain were the contestants. The first named this year won both the British and Canadian championships while the latter is a former English title holder.

Most of the experts expected Miss Dodd to win from Miss Ravenscroft. Miss Ravenscroft, however, was not without followers as she has played as good golf as any of the other survivors. Whoever wins she will have to play well to carry off the honors in tomorrow's final match.

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN

You had better stop at once or you'll lose your job. Every line of business is closing its doors to "drinking" men. It may be your turn next. By the aid of ORRINE thousands of men have been restored to lives of sobriety and industry.

We are so sure that ORRINE will benefit you that we say to you that if after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use, your money will be refunded.

When you stop "drinking" think of the money you'll save; besides, sober men are worth more to their employers and get higher wages. Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORRINE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and talk it over. Riker-Jaynes Co., 117-123 Merrimack street.

ALDRICH ON THE CURRENCY BILL

Ex-Senator Aldrich as the representative of the banking interests of the country and particularly of the money trust, has come out with all his force of eloquence and invective against the currency bill now before congress and against Mr. Bryan and President Wilson as its authors or sponsors. Although the measure is known as the Glass-Owen bill, Mr. Aldrich had framed a measure for taking the control of the currency out of the hands of the United States government and placing it more firmly than ever under the power of Wall Street, the financial oligarchy of the country. Were all the evils of the Payne-Aldrich tariff multiplied tenfold they would not be as dangerous to the business people of the country as the financial autocracy planned by Aldrich. It is to be expected that a man who fathered such a barefaced attempt to place the currency of the country in control of the Morgans and the Rockefellers, should come out against a measure whose chief aim is to protect the people against the money kings, by giving them an elastic currency with provisions to meet business emergencies such as those under which in the past they have been forced to the wall by thousands despite the fact that they were solvent if they could only use their legitimate credit.

The men who control the currency of the country control also the credit and even the business of its people. It is this power that Mr. Aldrich would place in the hands of bankers whose power and "business integrity" is seen in Wall Street. But the bankers have been unhinged and the present administration is in the saddle for the overthrow of the money trust and the restoration of equal opportunity for all business men so far as the system of banking is concerned. The government of the nation, not any system of banks, will issue the currency and see that it is neither inflated nor contracted, but adapted so far as possible to meet the requirements of all the people.

For a man who claims to know all about banking and finance some of the ex-senator's statements are peculiarly absurd. For example, one of his strongest criticisms is against the issuance of government notes which he holds to be revolutionary and at variance with all the accepted canons of economic law. Aldrich knows better. The economic law of which he speaks is that which prevails in Wall Street as applied by the money trust in swindling the people. As for government notes all the paper money of the country is but the notes of the government for the face value of the bills. It is true that there is a vast amount of counterfeit dollars that nobody wants hoarded in the treasury against silver certificates; but without this unnecessary provision, nobody will ever question the solvency of the government or its ability to redeem all the notes it is likely to issue. The notes of John D. Rockefeller would be accepted without question for very large amounts; but yet Rockefeller's wealth is not a circumstance to that of Uncle Sam. Fully 55 per cent. of the circulating medium of the United States is made up of United States promises to pay and whether the notes are redeemable in gold, silver, copper or aluminum, the fact that the government is behind them stamps them as genuine. The safeguards provided in the currency bill will overthrow the power of the money trust, will defeat the banking oligarchy, its combinations and its interlocking directorates, so that the limit of a merchant's credit will not depend upon the whim or the selfish schemes of the money power. The new currency law will correct most of the evils of the present law and will go far to solve the problem of credit. Aldrich stood for centralization of power in the hands of the money kings, the new currency law, while giving the government control, will at the same time provide a system of decentralization that will enable the farmer, the manufacturer, and the merchant to avail themselves of the credit to which they are entitled but which they cannot command under the present system.

Aldrich does it a partisan measure. Perhaps it is in the sense that it emanates from the democratic party; but it is not framed as was the republican bill to rob the people for the benefit of the few. This attack by Aldrich will have no effect. The leaders in congress understand full well that Aldrich is now as he had been while in the United States senate, the mouth-piece and the tool of the money trust. It was largely to overcome such men as Aldrich that so many of the states have favored the popular election of senators.

It is hoped the administration will push this bill with all possible haste. The honest opinion of business men is that it is decidedly the best currency bill ever framed to meet the needs of this country. Aldrich's sneer that it embodies the ideas of finance rejected when Bryan was defeated and that it is socialist and populist is sheer buncombe. The principles for which

Aldrich and his party stood have been repudiated by the people and President Wilson and the present congress bear the mandate of the people to remedy the crying evils of the republican tariff and the currency law. They have completed the former and will very soon complete the latter and in both they will have rendered an inestimable service to the country.

OUR APPROACHES

One of the new propositions made a few evenings ago at the meeting of the board of trade directors was the placing of a large electric sign with the message "Lowell, the City of Opportunity" thereon, beside the railroad tracks as an effective method of civic advertising. This has been done in Worcester and many other cities and the gentleman who advocated it felt that the scheme would be advantageous to Lowell. His proposition gives rise to a few reflections which may not be to the point, strictly speaking, but which are as important, as an unquestioning acquiescence with the proposed innovation—or vastly more so.

The value of such a sign as an advertisement would undoubtedly be very great did the prospects from the trains which pass in and out of our city bear it out. Unfortunately they do not. Instead of looking like a "city of opportunity" to the casual tourist who surveys it from a train window, Lowell looks very much like a city that has missed its opportunity of making its external aspect suit its vaunted prosperity. Would it not be somewhat paradoxical to have a fine electrical sign telling all who pass that we have a fine city when he can see for himself that externally we have a city of dilapidated property, broken fences, billboards, and everything unsightly? If the traveler were gifted with a sense of humor he would have something to reflect over and smile inwardly on for many railroad miles. Let us put no "City of Opportunity" sign up until we make Lowell look like one, unless we put it at a sufficient distance at either side for the passerby to read it without coupling it with the terrible view from the tracks that run into and out of the city.

To be fair to Lowell in this respect, it must be admitted that nearly all American cities suffer from the same condition; the railroads run through their most unlovely sections. But there is a concerted movement afoot to remedy this condition. In England and France the people are fully awake to the value of having their railroad stations and civic prospects look attractive, and to one used to their arrangements, the Lowell vista would be unbearable. We cannot hope just yet to erect palaces at the Rensselaer or have hanging gardens at the School street crossing, but we may reasonably expect a better depot and a very much improved setting for it. One who has heard of the fine industrial history of Lowell and its wonderful mills, must be keenly disappointed when he peers from a train that is obstructing traffic on Middlesex street and surveys the dazzling beauties of that classic neighborhood. It is doubtful if a "City of Opportunity" sign would do much to recompense him for his fallen ideal of industrial America. Lowell is indeed a city of opportunity and we ought to send the fact broadcast so that outsiders may know what too many of our own people seem to forget. For this purpose all forms of legitimate and consistent advertising should be availed of. The electric sign idea is legitimate and effective. It is not, however, consistent—at least at present. When the surroundings will not contradict its message we would do well to set it up. Meantime let us improve our approaches, remove the grade crossings, and give us a new depot with creditable surroundings.

MUDDY STREETS

It takes a rainy spell to show up the bad spots in the streets or sidewalks and the damp period we have been experiencing for many days has revealed some places in the downtown district that badly need attention. Of these the worst seems to be at the junction of Middlesex and Central streets, where repairs made by the railroad and the city have left the streets and sidewalks in a deplorable poor condition. For the past few days the mud has been several inches deep and over a large area, which has imposed a great deal of inconvenience on pedestrians. This place ought to be attended to before the next rainy period sets in.

It is well that the Bay State company should extend its lines wherever public necessity demands; and well also that the company shall provide decent service on all the lines now in operation. On some it is extremely poor.

Bohemians big night tonight.

Seen and Heard

An editor, who started about 20 years ago with only 55 cents, is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, good habits, strict attention to business, and the fact that an uncle died and left him $25,000.—Winnipeg Tribune.

"When visiting a certain town in Massachusetts," says a Bostonian, "I was told of an extraordinary incident wherein the main figure, an economical housewife, exhibited, under trying circumstances, a trait so characteristic of New England women."

"It seems that an elderly lady of the place had by mistake taken a quantity of poison—mercurial poison, the antidote for which, as everybody knows, comprises the white of eggs."

"When this antidote was being administered, the order for which the unfortunate lady had overheard, she managed to murmur, although almost unconscious:

"Mary! Mary! Save the yolks for the pudding!"—Harper's Magazine.

Secretary David Franklin Houston of the department of agriculture, is a member of the Alfalfa club, whose members assemble in the dining room of the Oriental hotel, Washington, at 12:30 o'clock every week day.

Mr. Houston, although reserved ordinarily, is a jolly story teller when the Alfalfa members meet. When Walter H. Page, ambassador to Great Britain, Secretary Lane and other members got together for lunch the other day, Mr. Houston told them a negro story.

"It was at the old Southern hotel in St. Louis," said Mr. Houston. "The colored waiter told a new guest that his landlord served anything. 'No differ, once what you ask for, you kin git it,' said the negro."

"Well," said the guest, "bring me a piece of elephant steak."

"The negro looked puzzled a minute and passed out to the kitchen, but soon he returned and reported: 'Boss, we don't serve dem except whole. We ain't got no pieces.'"—New York American.

I shall not readily forget, says J. Henry Des, the well known Crystal palace conductor, in the October Strand, many of the experiences which we encountered when I took the Bessies of the Barn on the "Vive l'Angleterre" a few years back. It is very curious how literally the title of a band is sometimes taken by members of the public. In France, where everything is done to the ladies may be expected to tickle the fancy of Frenchmen, it was really good fun to see the pleasant grin on the faces of those present, and to hear them shout "Vive l'Angleterre, Vive les Bessies!" When one saw the change on so many countenances upon the appearance of the band on the platform, one realized that many of those present had come expecting to see and hear an organization of women!

Even in England, the idea that the "Bessies" were girls was quite prevalent. On one occasion a man in a state of indecision, was standing out side the hall where they were giving a concert, when the band suddenly struck up. Some of the chords which reached him were so inspiring that he at once put his hand in his pocket and made for the entrance.

"By gum," says he, "if a bunch of girls can play like they must be worth looking at. Here goes for a bob's worth."

It is told, also, of a certain American that, on being invited to go to a concert given by the "Black Dike" band, he said:

"Well, I guess that's going some! Here a dollar to hear a crowd of niggers."

He went, however, after explanation and didn't he shout when "Dike" struck up "Dixie!"

The following squib, and it's a bit worth while, is from the Congressional Record.

Mr. Tillman. Mr. President, I ask the secretary to read the paper I send to the desk.

Pinklets Will Really Correct Constipation

Pinklets are a most valuable laxative in the treatment of obstinate constipation. They correct this unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single gripe. Unlike harsh, strong purgatives, they do not upset the stomach nor irritate and overstimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To simply regulate the bowels or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Get a bottle today and start trying them. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle.

old spinning wheel; and respectfully dedicated to that devoted friend of protected machinery and high taxes, the senator from Rhode Island."

It is so appropriate to reproduce it at this time, when we have enacted another tariff law, that I ask for its republication.

With free wool, "Mary" will have to forego the 55 per cent. and let her women friends wear stockings on both legs instead of only one—something they have not been able to do in more than 20 years. I read it year ago, and clipped it for my scrap book. I have recently had it looked up in the Record, and find it appeared Jan. 21, 1895.

Our Mary had a little lamb, And her heart was most intent To make its wool beyond its worth Bring 55 per cent.

But a pauper girl across the pen Had one small lamb also, Whose wool for less than half that sum She'd willingly let go.

Another girl who had no sheep, No stockings—wool, no wax, but money enough just to buy A pair without the tax.

Went to the pauper girl to get Some wool to shield her feet, And make her stockings, not of dax But of wool complete.

When Mary saw the girl's design She straight began to swear That she'd make her buy both wool and tax Or let one leg go bare.

So she cried out: "Protect Reform! Let pauper sheep wool free! It will keep both her legs warm What will encourage her?"

So it was done, and people said Where'er that poor girl went, One leg was warmed with wool and With 55 per cent.

Now praise to Mary and her lamb, Who did not let a penny intent To clothe one-half a girl in wool And one-half in per cent.

All honor, too, to Mary's friend, And all protective gets, That clothe the rich in wool And wrap the poor in tax.

The correspondent of the Chicago Herald of that date, in sending the account of it to his paper, commented as follows:

The reading of this piece of doggerel was received with shouts of laughter, even republican senators leaning back in their seats and giving unrestrained way to their mirth. As for the people in the galleries, they screamed and yelled frantically, and when Senator Vance sat down they kept up their uproarious applause until the North Carolina orator gravely inclined his head in acknowledgment.

SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT HIM Pick out the folks you like the least and watch 'em for a while. They never waste a kindy word, they never waste a snarl; They criticize their fellow men at every chance they get.

They never found a human just to suit their fancy yet. From them I guess you'd learn some things, if they were pointed out. Some things that every one of us should know a lot about.

When some one "knocks" a brother, pass around the loving cup. Say something good about him, if you have to make it up.

It's safe to say that every man God made holds trace of good. That he would fain exhibit to his fellows if he could.

The kindly deeds in many a soul are hibernating there. Awaiting the encouragement of other souls that dare.

To show the best that's in them, and to start the whole world moving in a hopeful, helpful groove; Say something sweet to paralyze the "knocks" on the side.

Speak kindly of his victim if you know the man or not.

The eyes that peer and peer to find the worst a brother does; The tongue that speaks in bitterness, that frays and fumes and scolds; The hands that bruise the fallen, though their strength was made for aid.

The weaklings who have stumbled at the parting of the ways— All these should be forgiven, for "they know not what they do." Their hindrance makes a greater work for wiser ones like you.

So when they scourge a wretched one who's drained his bitter cup, Say something good about him, if you have to make it up. —Tit-Bits.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—President Wilson indicated yesterday to those who discussed the Mexican situation with him that he was irrevocably determined to deal no longer with the Huerta regime, but that further steps toward bringing peace to Mexico were being considered.

No move is expected, however, until after Oct. 26, the date set for the Mexican election.

Just what the Washington government will do is yet a matter of speculation among the high officials, but the trend of events, they say, is unmistakably toward conducting negotiations in some form or other with the constitutionalists.

The policy of the United States has been to make a complete record of having attempted to handle the problem by peaceful means. Up to the present parleys have been carried on with the Huerta authorities, who have rejected the good offices of the United States.

Strong pressure now is being brought to bear upon the president and Secretary Bryan to give the constitutionalists an opportunity to compose the situation through the support of this country.

Reports that the president was preparing to recognize the belligerence of the constitutionalists are based chiefly upon the friendly disposition toward them that has arisen among administration officials since Huerta's proclamation of dictatorship. The suggestion has been carried to President Wilson by those upon whose judgment he and Secretary Bryan have the past been so much dependent, and while their attitude is one of waiting until Oct. 26 arrives, it appeared yesterday that a move indicating support for the constitutionalists was not at all improbable.

DIED SUDDENLY

P. J. Riley, Well Known Merchant, Passed Away Last Night

The many friends of Patrick J. Riley, a well known business man of this city, will be grieved to learn of his sudden death which occurred last night at his home, 292 Fairmount street.

Deceased had lived in Lowell nearly a lifetime. He was born in Ireland, where he attended the national schools and at the age of 10 years he immigrated to this country with his family. He secured employment at the Massachusetts cotton mill, where he labored for two years. Later he entered the employ of the Lowell Mfg. Co. and in 1881 he went into the paper business, which he conducted very successfully up to the time of his death. For several years he conducted a paper shop at 70 Gorham street and later removed to Summer street, where he occupied a large building.

Mr. Riley was a man of happy disposition and during his long business career he made a host of friends who will deeply feel his sudden departure. He is survived by five children and three brothers, Peter of Manchester; Hugh and Michael of Lowell.

LAWRENCE VISITORS

ENTERTAINED BY CATHOLIC YOUNG MEN'S LYCEUM—TOURNAMENT OF GAMES

Members of the Catholic Young Men's Association of Lawrence together with their lady friends came to this city last evening as guests of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, who observed "Lawrence Night" at their rooms. Amusement and entertainment of every description was provided and an interesting tournament of games held, in which Lowell was victorious. A delightful evening was spent by all. The trip to Lowell was to have been made by special electric, but at a late moment there was some obstacle in the way of this arrangement, so that the delegation from the down-river city came here by train. They were met at the Middlesex street depot by the Lyceum members, who turned out in a large body with St. Patrick's life and drum corps. Lawrence also had a large life and drum corps and the two organizations attracted widespread attention as they made things lively on the march from the depot to the rooms in Suffolk street.

The evening's program consisted of a tournament of various games, including pool, billiards and cards, and general dancing. The tournament was won by Lowell as follows: Whist, Lowell 3, Lawrence 3; forty-fives, Lowell 6, Lawrence 2; pitch, Lowell 2, Lawrence 3; checkers, Lowell 1, Lawrence 0; billiards, Lowell 1, Lawrence 0; pool, Lawrence 2, Lowell 1; total, Lowell 10, Lawrence 8.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone and the Lawrence delegation went home with a high opinion of the Lyceum's hospitality. The committee in charge was as follows: Chas. Smith, chairman; John P. Murphy, John McDermott, John J. Givivan and Timothy Rohan.

INTERESTING ADDRESS

FIELD SECRETARY OF MASSACHUSETTS SAVINGS INSURANCE LEAGUE GIVES TALK

The members of the Men's Fraternity of the First Congregational church held their regular meeting last night, and the affair was largely attended. A feature of the evening was an interesting talk by Harry W. Kimball, field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Bank life insurance. In part he said:

Massachusetts Savings bank life insurance is a unique cooperative movement. Its purpose is to furnish insurance protection to residents of Massachusetts at the lowest possible cost. Savings bank life insurance is now five years old and the experience of these years has proved that under this plan the very best insurance can be furnished at the lowest possible cost. Since insurance today is one of the necessities of life, and there are few wage earners' homes in which insurance policies are not found, this movement is of supreme interest to every wage earner in the commonwealth. The movement offers unique and distinct benefits to all policy-holders—low cost of premiums, large dividends returned yearly. Now how have these results been accomplished through cooperation?

"There are four parties which have cooperated in this movement: The state, the savings banks, the employers and the people.

"The cooperation of the state is secured by an appropriation of $10,000 yearly, which secures expert supervision and provides for certain necessary expenses of the insurance departments of the savings banks.

The movement is also watched over by special trustees appointed by the governor, who have charge of the general insurance guaranty fund, which is a special safeguard for all policies issued by the insurance departments of the banks.

"The savings banks cooperate by establishing insurance departments or by becoming public agencies. There are four savings banks now which have insurance departments—Whitman Savings bank, Whitman; People's Savings bank, Brockton; Berkshire county Savings bank, Pittsfield; City Savings bank of Pittsfield—and 14 others which have become public agencies.

The savings banks of Massachusetts are public welfare institutions established solely to aid the people to safely and profitably save money, and the opening of an insurance department is simply an extension of the natural function of the savings bank; it enables the banks to serve the people in a larger and better way.

"The law provides that agencies may be established in mills, shops and factories, and under this provision more than 200 agencies have been established in the leading industries of Massachusetts.

TO LECTURE IN U. S.

PROMINENT GERMAN SCHOLARS TO SPEAK AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY IN YEAR FUTURE

Prof. Rudolf Tombo, Jr., director of the Deutsches Haus of Columbia university, has just returned from Germany after making arrangements for a series of lectures to be given in America by Ludwig Fulda and Dr. Otto Ernst. The lecturers will come as guests of the Germanist society. Dr. Fulda will arrive this month and will speak in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, New Haven, Rochester, Buffalo, Ann Arbor, Chicago, Madison, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Swarthmore. Dr. Otto Ernst will not come until the autumn of 1914.

While in Hamburg Professor Tombo also arranged for the series of lectures which are now being conducted by the Kaiser Wilhelm professor, Dr. Karl Rathgen on "German Colonial Policy" at Columbia university. Dr. Tombo himself at the earnest request of Senator von Melle, the minister of education at Hamburg, gave a lecture on American city universities. He will probably conduct a series of lectures on the same subject next June.

PIRATE FIGHTER TALKS

TELLS OF SIX YEARS IN CHINESE CUSTOMS SERVICE—HAS LIVED IN SOUTHERN CHINA 17 YEARS

A man arrived in this country recently who spent six years looking for pirates and smugglers in the far east. He is J. J. Rule, an American, who is assistant manager for the Standard Oil company in Canton, China, and under the imperial government he held the rank of mandarin of the fifth class. This was awarded him as a result of a fight on the West river some years ago, when he helped fight and capture a lot of pirates who were about to seize a river steamer, says the New York Times.

vice. He speaks Chinese fluently. He says he would feel as safe in the interior of China, even during a revolution, as anywhere else in the world, because a foreigner who speaks the language and knows Chinese customs is secure when traveling in the country away from the seaboard.

"I left Canton the latter part of May," said Mr. Rule yesterday. "That was, of course, before the latest troubles came up. Business at that time was about normal, considering the state of affairs that then existed."

"Pirates on the Pearl river? Well, they call them pirates, but they are hardly pirates of the old school, such as used to prowl about the coast of China. You see, a gang of them gets some inside information that a certain steamer is carrying treasure, and it gets on the beat as passengers at some port; and then, after overpowering the crew and beaching the craft, the pirates take to the shore and scatter all over the province. It is next to impossible to run them down collectively."

"I had to come into contact with some of these fellows when I was in the Chinese customs service. I was on duty up the West river for five years, and then for a year and a half I was on the frontier back of Macao. That is where most of the smuggling is done, and we had to keep a sharp lookout for opium coming in and also for junk going out loaded with contraband grain. We had a mixed guard of Indians and Chinamen at first and they used to say that one nationality was employed to keep the other away. But since the dispute with Portugal over the boundary of Macao I understand they have come to employ only Chinese."

"Things happened in those days, but the hottest time we had with the pirates was at Samshul, when I was on duty up the West river. A lot of cut-throats had gone on board a steamer at Wheloo, ostensibly as passengers bound for Hongkong. We had word that they intended to take possession of her, so the Chinese harbor master and I with a small force of men, went on board to arrest them. As we reached the steamer the pirates opened fire, and there was quite a little shooting within a few minutes. We killed two of them and wounded one, but the harbor master was wounded. However, we captured 14 men. The harbor

Soap Dries Your Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dandruff. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanser." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

Captain Inch Says That All Stories to the Contrary are Wicked Lies—Says Members of Crew Did Their Duty

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Capt. Francis Inch of the burned Voltorno received about 50 reporters in the smoking room of the Kronland as the North German Lloyd liner slowly made her way up the bay yesterday evening with 90 survivors. The rush of news gatherers did not faze the little captain a particle. He bowed all around, smiled quizzically and said:

"Here I am, gentlemen, fire away." Capt. Inch is under the average height. He is slightly built. Twenty-two years at sea out of his 35 years of life have made him look a bit older than he is. "I want to say first off," said the captain, "that the Carmania of the Cunard line behaved splendidly. Apparently there has been some criticism of Capt. Barr and the tactics he used. These criticisms were not justified. Capt. Barr did everything that could be expected of him. He had a big ship, hard to handle in such a sea, but he came close to us once or twice and he made every effort to lower boats when he first came. He succeeded in getting one boat into the sea, but it had to quit after a hard fight."

Again, I want to emphasize that there was not the vestige of a panic. Any man with common sense must realize that 500 immigrants gassed to the sea, to storms and fire, were frightened. Stories are wicked lies. "The women cried a good deal. After some of the explosions they screamed. The men were nervous and prowled about the after decks but at no time did they make wild rushes for the boats nor did they knock down women or injure children. Those stories are lies, wicked lies."

"What caused the fire I do not know. I doubt if it will ever be known. I was asleep in my quarters at 6:50 a. m. last Thursday, when Chief Officer Miller, poor fellow, I fear he is dead, came running to my cabin and said: 'Captain, there's a fire in hold 1. It seems to be pretty bad.' 'I jumped at once, threw on part of my clothes. Stepping outside I gave orders to stop the ship down. I had the Voltorno turned before the wind so as to keep the fire from backing aft. Says Men Did Their Duty. 'I directed that all hands assemble at their fire stations. They did so. My men, bless 'em, did their duty. They were under discipline at all times. Later on when I ordered some of them to jump into the sea to show the way to women afraid to jump, these men obeyed me, although they knew they might never be saved. 'By the time I had gotten outside my officers had directed the passengers to go on the after deck and to put on life preservers and life belts that had been distributed. The preservers and belts were in good condition. There was no trouble on our ship from rotten belts, let me tell you. 'At 6:50 a. m. Mr. Miller said to me: 'Captain, she's afloat forward. I then went to the forward deck and saw that the flames were jumping as high as the foremast light, 40 feet at least. It was a solid wall of flame. The life rafts were catching fire, and so were the wooden deck fittings. As I stood there one man jumped from the fore-castle. He was all scorched, poor chap. But he got better, and will live. This was Oliver, the quartermaster. Ship Like a Furnace. "I thought the ship was doomed then. She was a furnace forward and it didn't look as if she could live half an hour. It was then that I gave orders to provision the boats and lower them. The passengers were very quiet. They obeyed orders like sheep. The cabin passengers were on the boat deck and the steerage passengers were on the lower deck aft. The first boats swung on the starboard side. Chief Officer Miller went into the first boat with 20 cabin passengers and 10 members of the crew, the 10 who belonged to the boat's crew and who belonged there. That boat wasn't smashed. The trouble was that in lowering it, it caught in the tackle and was turned over under the tackle. Everybody in it were spilled out. But the boat righted itself and I saw Mr. Miller and five or six others climb back into it. I am afraid the rest were drowned.

Boats Lost in Storm. "The second boat that was put off was Number 6, in charge of Fourth Officer Langsdorf, an Austrian. This boat contained 40 steerage passengers and a crew of about 10. It got away safely. It seems now, though, that both this boat and the boat containing the first officer and a few more were later lost in the storm."

The third boat was in charge of Boatswain Soderstrom. It was No. 7. The boat struck the sea all right but the wash carried it under the quarter and the ship literally sat down in it. It was crunched into a mass of splinters. About 50 steerage passengers and members of the crew were all lost except the boatswain himself who managed to cling to the tackle by a spring from the stern sheath. He climbed back on the ship and later worked at my side when we were fighting these devilish flames."

"I stopped lowering boats then because all of the trained men were gone and because it seemed hopeless to try to fight such a sea. Series of Explosions. "Then came a series of explosions. The third explosion was terrific. It overtook the saloon, the walls fell in. I had asked the Marconi man, Pennington, to call for help. He informed me that he had got a reply from the Carmania which wanted to know our position. While the boats were being put out I took the ship's position to the Marconi house. "The third explosion happened about this time. It wrecked the wheel and compass, ruined the midships hospital and smashed the rooms amidships altogether. There were no passengers killed or hurt by the explosion, but the steam steering gear was crippled and Chief Engineer Denvar had to rig up hand gear, assisted by four men. "I at once organized my fire fighting crew and was assisted by the chief engineer. He got the steam extinguishers to work in the hold. One hose was already connected and we got two men down into the hold carrying hose.

Heard From Carmania. "We played the water first on the deck fittings, and put the fire out there. Sailors Gunderson and Easton did fine work and helped us beat the fire on deck. The Marconi man told me at that moment that he had heard again from the Carmania, and that she was coming up to us at 12 knots an hour. The fire by then was so hot down No. 1 hatch that it burned off the brass nozzles of the hose. We kept playing water into the fore-castle, trying to keep the smoke down. We had beaten the flames below deck. I determined to make a trip into the fore-castle. I got underneath in the fore-castle, crawling through smoke and wreckage, and was nearly overcome by the terrific heat.

Charred Body in Alleyway. "I saw one charred body lying in the alleyway at the fore-castle door. Inside the fore-castle I saw two men lying together. One man was prone upon the table. The watch below had been at breakfast. The first explosion and rush of flame had caught these poor fellows and burned them to death where they sat, or while they were trying to struggle toward the open. But they did not have a chance on earth."

"I got back on deck, and said to the chief engineer: 'Chief, I believe we'll win out after all.' He shook his head. 'There ain't a chance, captain,' he said. 'This ship's gone.' I didn't think so. I made up my mind then to fight as long as we had an ounce of steam to work the pumps."

"I realized, too, that the passengers were hungry, and I figured out that a little food would go a long way toward reconciling them and keeping them quiet. I ordered the cooks to give them whatever was available. Bunkers Were Blazing. "The pumps were working well. The fire was working down into the hold, but I kept hoping that we could douse it out. But the second engineer, Malcolmson, came along and reported to the chief and myself that the bunkers formed and made it impossible to get close to the burning coal. The chief ordered the coal taken out and the men worked like slaves in relays carrying it out bag by bag and putting it in the stokehold plate. We closed the water-tight door. But the wooden deck kept catching fire, and I told the chief engineer to cut through the wood sheath of the deck and through the steel deck under it. We ran these lines down and did the best we could, but we didn't make much progress, I'm afraid."

Uniforms Wet Through. "The deck by that time was well

ablaze and the smoke and flames were bad. I rigged up screens on the after-deck to keep smoke and heat from passengers as much as possible, so that they wouldn't be alarmed by seeing the fire. Then I got some men to relieve us while I changed my clothes. I changed clothes three times in 24 hours. My uniforms were wet through and blackened. I wouldn't give up the fight."

"About 11 o'clock the third officer reported that the Carmania was in sight. Pretty soon, standing at the No. 1 hatch, I saw her steaming up in a mass of foam. She was making great speed and it was a wonderful sight. It plucked up our passengers wonderfully. 'The Carmania did its best, the same as the others,' he said. 'There is none but praise for everyone. I didn't expect a boat could live in those seas when the Carmania and the other first few ships came up.'"

The Carmania did drop a boat. Inch declared, but it couldn't get near, for the Voltorno drifted faster than the crew could row. Later the Carmania sent forth six rafts, but they drifted across the Voltorno's bow and disappeared. More than that the Carmania could not do, said Inch.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone

If you are bothered with backache or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon. It is a positive fact that Croxone promptly overcomes such diseases. It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder. More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate, long standing cases. You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results, the very first time.

all citizens of the United States whether they reside at home or abroad; every person residing in the United States, whether he is a citizen or not, and every person residing abroad if he has a sufficiently large net income liable to the tax derived from property owned or from any business, trade or profession carried on in the United States.

The exemption of income allowed to each individual (upon which he is not required to pay) is $3,000 at least. If he is a married man, and his wife is living with him, he has a further exemption of $1,000, making $4,000 in all. Likewise, a married woman, who is living with her husband, is entitled to an exemption of $3,000. It is to be noted, however, that only one deduction of $4,000 is to be made from the aggregate income of both husband and wife when living together, and in no case may both husband and wife deduct the additional $1,000.

What is called in the statute the "normal rate of taxation" is a tax of 1 per cent. This is the rate on all incomes not in excess of $20,000; and the amount of this normal tax is fixed by taking 1 per cent of the net income minus the specific exemptions allowed to the taxpayer. In addition to this normal tax there is a further or additional tax of 1 per cent upon amounts from $20,000 to $50,000; an addition of 2 per cent on incomes of $50,000 to $75,000; an addition of 3 per cent on incomes from $75,000 to $100,000; an addition of 4 per cent on incomes from $100,000 to $250,000; an addition of 5 per cent on incomes from $250,000 to $500,000; an addition of 6 per cent on all incomes above $500,000. These additional taxes are levied only on net incomes in excess of $20,000, and they are graded according to the rates given above.

The law includes a device for collecting the normal tax (but none of the additional rates) "at the source," that is, from the person or corporation indebted, upon one account or another, to the taxpayer.

The persons, firms and corporations so required to make returns and pay the normal tax for those to whom they are indebted, are thus described in the law: "All persons, firms, co-partnerships, companies, corporations, joint-stock companies or associations and insurance companies, in whatever capacity acting, including lessors or mortgagors of real or personal property, trustees acting in any trust capacity, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators, employers, and all officers and employees of the United States having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable annual gains, profits and income of another person, exceeding $300 for any taxable year, other than dividends on capital stock, or from the net earnings of corporations and joint-stock companies or associations subject to this tax." These are to make returns, pay the normal tax and charge it up against the individual who would otherwise be liable for it. They are personally liable to the government for the amount of the tax.

A person liable for the normal tax only, and no more, either on his own account or on behalf of another, need not make any return of the income derived from dividends or from the net earnings of corporations; and there is no other source of income no return at all need be made. Any person for whom a return has been made for payment, "at the source," need not make a return in his own behalf unless he has some other taxable income. The return of income by any taxable person shall include "gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wages or compensation for personal services of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, businesses, trade, commerce, or sales or dealings in property, whether real or personal; also income growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in real or personal property and from interest, rents, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any lawful business carried on for gain or profit"—except as hereafter noted. Income derived from corporations, in the form of dividends, need not be returned if the person is subject to the normal tax only; but these must be returned for the purpose of assessing any additional tax. Property acquired by gift, bequest, devise or descent is not to be returned as income; but any income derived from such property is to be returned. Partners are required to make return of the share of partnership profits to which they would be entitled if such profits were divided, whether they are, in fact, divided or not.

NURSE GRAHAM ADVISES COMFORT POWDER FOR ANY SKIN SORENESS

Ida M. Graham, trained nurse, Grand Rapids, Mich., says: "I never used any powder I liked as well in every way as Comfort Powder for healing all skin soreness. I am never without it and one family where I nursed used to buy it by the half dozen boxes at a time. After once using it in a family they never will use any other powder." Comfort Powder is a skin healing wonder. Be sure you get the genuine with signature of E. S. Sykes on box.

not; this for both normal and additional taxes. Proceeds of life insurance policies whether paid upon the death of the insured or paid to the insured upon the maturity of the policy, are free from tax and need not be included in the return. Interest upon the obligations of a state or any of its subdivisions, and interest upon the obligations of the United States or any of its possessions, should be included. Persons receiving fees for professional services should include all actual receipts together with all unpaid accounts which are considered collectible. If such an account afterward turns out to be bad, the amount may be deducted from the income for the year in which this fact is ascertained. Interest accrued during the year, if good and collectible at the end of the year, should be returned as income, whether it has actually been collected or not.

The deductions to be allowed in addition to those already mentioned are these: (1) Necessary expenses actually paid in carrying on any business, not including personal living or family expenses. (2) All interest paid within the year by a taxable person on indebtedness. (3) All national, state county, school and municipal taxes paid within one year, not including those assessed against local benefits. (4) Losses actually sustained during the year incurred in trade, or arising from fires, storms or shipwreck, and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. (5) Debts due to the taxpayer actually ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the year. (6) A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property arising out of its use during the year. (7) The amount received as dividends upon the stock of a corporation, which is taxable upon its net income at one per cent, is to be deducted for the purpose of ascertaining the normal tax, but must be reported for the purpose of ascertaining the additional tax. (8) The income, the tax upon which has been paid or withheld for payment at the source is to be deducted from gross income for purposes of the normal tax. (9) Interest upon the obligations of a state or any of its subdivisions and upon the obligations of the United States or their possessions.

Incomes are to be computed for the calendar year, except that those for the first year will be levied only from March 1, 1913, to the close of the year. The first return must be filed by March 1, 1914.

OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY

VICTORIA LODGE HELD CONCERT AND DANCE LAST NIGHT—LARGE CLASS INITIATED

Grafton hall was the scene of great activity last evening, the occasion being the 15th anniversary of Victoria lodge, I. O. O. F. N. U., the observance being in the form of a concert and dance. The affair was largely attended and a pleasant evening was spent, a feature of the gathering being the initiation of a class of 40 members, which was conducted by Chief-of-Staff Mrs. Jennie Scoble.

Among those who took part in the entertainment program were Master Arthur Hiley, Miss Greta Pickering and Miss Alice Scoble. Remarks were made by Past Provincial Grand Master George Emsley of Lowell, who instituted the lodge 15 years ago; Geo. Haskell, of Waltham, grand master of the Massachusetts district and many others. At the conclusion of the speeches refreshments were served and dancing was started in the upper hall. Among the officials present were: Past Provincial Grand Master George Emsley, of Lowell; Grand Master of the District George Haskell; Past Provincial Grand Master James A. Smith, of Lowell; Provincial Deputy Grand Lady Mrs. Hattie Stark, of Beverly, and Provincial Corresponding Secretary of the District Mrs. Jennie Scoble, of Lowell.

As guests of the evening, were present Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Matthews, of Lowell; Dr. and Mrs. Sweetser, of Lowell; Past Provincial Grand Lady, Mrs.

James W. Gregg, and the district deputy of Lowell lodge, Mrs. Mary Thompson of Lawrence.

The chairman of the evening was Mrs. Rachel E. Gregg, and the committee on arrangements was as follows: Miss Edith Toy, chairman; Miss Jessie Muir, secretary; Mrs. Jennie Scoble, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Siddell, Mrs. Alice Worth, Mrs. Mildred Fowler, Miss Nellie Fowler, Miss Sarah Muir, Miss Beatrice Axon, Mrs. Agnes Sandford, Miss Alice Nell, Miss Alice Davidson, Miss Elizabeth Howard, Miss Mary Davis, Miss Ethel Hills, Mrs. Ada Fletcher, Mrs. Blanche Roper and Miss Fannie Crowther.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Court Warrick, 51, Foresters of America was held last night in Odd Fellows building with Chief Ranger William A. Kelley on the bench. One new member was initiated into the order and two applications were received. James Farrell was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee. A smoke talk will be held after the next meeting.

Court City of Lowell, F. of A. Plans are nearly completed for the celebration of the anniversary of Court City of Lowell, F. of A. and at the next meeting final arrangements will be made. A meeting was held last night, and after considerable routine business was transacted there was speaking by the following members of the court: Messrs. McIntire, Monahan, Sullivan and McKenna.

Garfield Relief Corps, Post 120 A sewing circle meeting was held by the women of the James A. Garfield Women's Relief corps, in Post 120 hall in Merrimack street yesterday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Lestina Parker and Mrs. Storm and Mrs. Coburn were matrons. An inspection of the corps will be held at the next meeting.

Lowell Court, 108, M. C. O. F. At the meeting of Lowell court, 108, M. C. O. F. held last night in Harrington hall five propositions for membership were received and two members were initiated. Remarks on the good of the order were made by several of the members and a social hour was enjoyed.

TANGO IN COURT

Cleveland Judge Sees Nothing Objectionable to the Dance

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—The Tango dance has been vindicated in Cleveland and hereafter, by court recognition, it will be perfectly regular and permissible.

Following the completion of evidence in the case of Asa Anderson, a dancing teacher, against City Dance Hall Inspector Myers, Judge Willis Vickers of common pleas court yesterday ruled that the Tango as taught by Anderson is perfectly moral and legally unobjectionable in his jurisdiction.

The Anderson-Myers case came to court when Myers forbade Anderson to teach the Tango, which had been barred throughout the city. Anderson sued for an injunction restraining Myers from interference. Judge Vickers granted no injunction, but ordered Myers not to interfere with Anderson.

The most important evidence proffered in the case came when Anderson and a girl partner danced the Tango before Judge Vickers in a room below the court.

In giving his opinion yesterday Judge Vickers said: "Very beautiful thing may be vulgarized, but because some dancing is vulgar we need not bar all dancing."

during the months of December, January and February, but in the spring the percentage again drops.

The milk inspector has now four cases on hand, but the same have been hanging fire for some time, and he does not know when he will dispose of them. Two of these are where the dealers purchased their milk from certain producers, and instead of going to the producers' stable for their milk, they hired the producers to deliver it to cross roads, making it more convenient for the dealers. However, in order to get the milk delivered the producers pay so much on each can, and in this manner the producer is considered as a hired man for the dealer. In the event that adulterated milk is found in the possession of the producer while on his way to deliver the milk, he is not held liable, but on the other hand the dealer is responsible while in not a few cases the producer has been known to water his milk before delivering it.

Another case where the dealer is held responsible for the producer's actions is when the dealer's cans are filled at the producer's place of business. The producer may water the milk and if the same is found in the dealer's cans on the producer's premises it is immaterial whether the dealer has been near the place or not, he is held liable, and the producer gets away with it.

The cases which Inspector Master has now on hand are similar to those two mentioned above, and it is not a puzzle for him to prosecute the guilty party. He feels that the dealers are not guilty of watering the milk, but he cannot get at the producer, for the latter is protected by the law.

City Election Dope

The filing of nomination papers for the city primaries, which will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 18, will close at 5 p. m. Nov. 8, or four days after the state election. The requirements for the filing of nomination papers are that a petition with statement of the position desired, whether mayor or commissioner, containing 25 bona fide signatures, be filed with the city clerk. Any petition not containing the required number of names will be rejected worthless, and thrown into the waste basket. Application forms are now in the possession of the city clerk and may be secured any time upon application.

Registration for preliminary election will be held on Nov. 5, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 11. There will be one day more for registration for city election and that will be Dec. 15, for registration must cease on that date on account of the law which states that registration must not be made later than 29 days before election.

Martin H. Glynn of Albany, the acting governor, became governor. Robert P. Wagner of New York and majority leader of the senate, became lieutenant-governor.

No official notice of removal was given Sulzer. A record of the decision of the court was filed with the secretary of state thus complying with all the legal requirements to remove the governor.

On the question of the removal of the governor, Presiding Judge Cullen and Senator Wendt of Buffalo were excused from voting at their own request. Every other judge of the court of appeals voted in the affirmative.

IMPEACHMENT COURT RECONVENED TODAY TO LEGALLY REMOVE SULZER FROM OFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—A pale, thin man sat in the executive mansion today awaiting impatiently a vote of the high court of impeachment which would strip from him the robes of his office of governor and make him William Sulzer, private citizen. It was common knowledge that before nightfall this fate for him would be announced.

That he should be removed from office was decided by an informal vote in the high court of impeachment yesterday but the vote that would remove him legally was not taken then and the court reconvened this morning to perform that solemn action.

A vote on whether he should be disqualified from ever holding office again in the state also was to be cast. It was informally voted yesterday, however, that no such penalty should be meted out to him, so this vote, too, was largely a matter of form.

Four articles under which the governor was impeached remained to be voted on but the result really mattered little except for the purpose of record.

The four articles that remained were five, six, seven and eight.

Article five charged that the governor dissuaded Frederick Colwell from testifying before the Frawley committee; article six that the governor committed larceny in appropriating campaign funds to his own use; article seven that he bartered his political influence and article eight that he used his official position to influence the price of stocks in which he was interested. There was little hope among the counsel for the board of managers that the court would sustain any of these articles. Members of the court were frank to admit today that the court had voted yesterday to find the governor not guilty on article six.

Article seven virtually was thrown out of court when Judge Cullen refused to admit the testimony of legislators who sought to prove that the governor attempted to raise his political influence for their votes for his direct primary law. Articles five and eight were supported by little evidence.

Speedy action was expected on all the votes.

Last Session of Court

The galleries of the senate chamber were filled with spectators when the senators and judges filed solemnly in at 10.30 o'clock to sit for the last time as members of the high court of impeachment.

Judge D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the governor, was an early arrival. He said he had arranged everything so that his connection with the case would terminate the minute the final vote was taken. He also said he had returned to the governor a statement he prepared several weeks ago but which Herrick suppressed.

Chester C. Platt, the governor's secretary, met the newspaper men in the lobby of the senate chamber and assured them that a statement would be ready, probably for use in newspapers of tomorrow morning.

The governor has prepared it to put the finishing touches on it until after the verdict is in. It will not be the statement which Judge Herrick has had.

Don't Trust Calomel

Thousands Experience Bad After Effects From This Dangerous Drug

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable matters mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' patients.

There is no necessity when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

JAMES J. McMANNON

WAS NOT A CANDIDATE AGAINST MR. WEINBECK ALTHOUGH HIS NAME WAS USED

James J. McMannon, of Dracut, who is a member of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, was a surprised man when he read in the report of the annual meeting of the society that he had been a candidate for treasurer of the organization. Mr. McMannon was not at the meeting and feels that the public should understand that he himself was not responsible for his candidacy to succeed Treasurer Weinbeck. His name was used in this connection without his knowledge or consent.

Dangerous Catarrh Stopped by Hyomei

Just as long as you have catarrh, your head will be stopped up, your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and snuffle, you will have droppings in the throat and that choked-up feeling in the morning. The germs of catarrh have you in their power; they are continually irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat.

If you do not kill the loathsome germs of catarrh, their desperate assaults will in time rob your brain of its brilliancy and activity, and leave you not only a physical, but a mental wreck.

There is one remedy sold by druggists everywhere that is guaranteed to kill the germs and stop catarrh, or money back. It is Hyomei—no stomach dosing—you breathe it. There is none just as good or that gives such complete, sure and effective relief. A complete Hyomei outfit including inhaler and bottle of liquid costs $1.00. It is also guaranteed for bronchitis, husky voice, coughs, colds and croup. Ask Carter & Sherburne about Hyomei.

Every Man Who Buys Here a Second Time Buys as a Result of the Satisfaction His First Purchase Gave

Think that over a moment. Then remember we've been in business right here in Lowell for twenty years. That means thousands of men have been so satisfied with their first purchase here and with their first trial of our store service that they have come again and again—become regular patrons of the store. This is a big business and it has become a big business because we have pleased the man with $10 or $15 to spend as well as the man who can afford to spend $25 or $30.

MEN'S SUITS $15 and $20

You can't fool Lowell men on cloth quality. They know what good cloth is and they demand it in their suits.

That's one reason why we are so successful in filling the needs of the man with $15 or $20 (or even less) to spend for a suit.

The moment he sees the goods we offer he knows he is getting more than the accepted value for the price.

Style, fit and appearance are self-evident in a suit.

It is easy to tell whether a suit is comfortable, but none of these virtues are lasting unless the cloth is right.

The cloth is right in our suits.

If $15 or $20 seems about the right price to pay—come and see what we offer at the price. We never urge you to spend a dollar more than you intended to spend when you came—simply give you the best value for the money.

ABANDONED STEAMER

THE TEMPLEMORE, STILL SMOLDERING, HOUND FOR PROVINCE-TOWN

SANKATY HEAD, Nantucket, Oct. 17.—The abandoned steamer Templemore still smoldering and in tow of the revenue cutter Androsoggin was off here at noon today, bound evidently for Provincetown where she will probably be turned over to the underwriters.

The Androsoggin picked up the Templemore on Tuesday after the latter had drifted more than 400 miles along the Gulf stream from the Virginia capes to the Georges banks.

During the blow on Tuesday and Wednesday the cutter was driven out to the southwest 30 miles, but at noon yesterday she was making some headway north, and was about 10 miles east of Nantucket Lightship. The Androsoggin was making about three knots an hour today with her tow, and was expected to reach Provincetown tomorrow morning although the sea was very rough.

3 KILLED BY GAS

Mother and Two Children Asphyxiated in Chelsea Today

CHELSEA, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Margaret Walker and her two children, nine years and six months old respectively, were killed today in their tenement by gas.

The medical examiner stated that the children were probably overcome some hours before the mother was and that the gas overpowered the woman as she was trying to revive her little ones.

The lecture is an opportunity to learn from an authorized source some of the teachings of Christian Science. It will be given in Colonial hall, Palmer street, on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 12, at 3 o'clock.—Adv.

Why not have the best. If you are to spend your time and money to enjoy a dance, why not hear the best orchestra in America? I mean the R. J. McElroy orchestra of Boston, led by that peerless player and soloist, L. J. McElroy, with eight players, every one a star. There is not a dull moment the whole evening from the first note to the strains of "Sweet Home." Be on hand with your friends. Dancing starts at 8 p. m. This orchestra will play at Associate hall, Monday, Oct. 20.—Adv.

Dr. Wilfrid I. Burke, the prominent local osteopath, has removed from his old quarters, 509, Wyman's exchange, to room 311, third floor of the Sun building, where he is conducting his extensive practice. His office and reception room are beautifully appointed and modern in every respect. The doctor objects to anything in the nature of advertising but the Sun takes the liberty of stating that he can be reached in a few seconds by taking the elevator from the main corridor of the Sun building.

The following tribute to the late Fenwick Umpleby, at one time a professor at the Lowell Textile school, is from the Fall River Herald.

The unexpected death of Fenwick Umpleby, principal of the Bradford Purcell Textile school, removes an enthusiastic schoolmaster from his place at the head of one of the most important educational institutions in the city. Mr. Umpleby came here well equipped by training and experience to take up the direction of the school, so well begun, and he soon impressed the influence of his personality upon his work. Under his oversight the school has been enlarged and developed in all its branches and his death at the very opening of a new school year will be a serious loss. He had won the esteem of his associates and his passing is a loss for them and the community a cause of deep regret that he could not have lived to see the fruition of plans for the future growth and welfare of the school which he had already shaped and towards the realization of which he was consistently working.

Mr. John A. O'Shea, the prominent Boston organist, will give a recital on the new organ at St. Michael's church on Sunday evening, Oct. 26, according to an announcement made by Mr. Jas. A. Murphy, director of St. Michael's choir. Mr. O'Shea will be assisted by the church choir, directed by Miss Ella M. Reilly, accompanist. Mr. O'Shea is the organist at the St. Cecilia church, Back Bay, Boston, and is one of the best known and most accomplished and brilliant organists in New England. A large congregation is expected to be present at the recital, for which a special program has been arranged. The great new organ has been the talk of the city since its inauguration a short time ago, and is fully worthy of the many words of praise of its construction which have been pronounced by those who have heard its tones.

The following people attended the whist party conducted under the auspices of Court Sacre-Coeur, C. C. E. in Lawrence, last night: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard, Mrs. Moise Ricard, Miss Lillian Cognac, Mr. Eugene Ricard and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mercet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's club of St. Paul's church was held recently with a large attendance. The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. J. B. Field. Rev. Dr. King, pastor of the church, gave an interesting talk on the meaning of the apostles' creed. A supper was served by a committee selected for the purpose. The meeting was a grand success, great interest being evinced by the members in the work of the club. The public is cordially invited to

FOR CATHOLIC CONGRESS

Great Gathering of Prelates in Boston Next Sunday for Missionary Extension Work

Thousands of New England people it is expected will flock into Boston next Sunday morning to attend the opening session of the second missionary congress of the Catholic Church Extension society, which will open with a brilliant solemn pontifical mass in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, at which His Excellency, Archbishop John Bon-zarp, papal delegate to the United States, will pontificate and at which service His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell will deliver the sermon.

Ten archbishops, seventy bishops and six retired abbots will participate in the brilliant ceremony, marching in procession from the rectory of the cathedral, along Union Park street, thence on to Washington street, and into the main entrance of the cathedral. In addition to the prelates who will wear the magnificent white capes and mitres, there will be many monsignori, priests and distinguished laity, the latter including a delegation of about 125 members of the Knights of Columbus who will wear their "baldric" and sword in addition to the regular costume for such an occasion. All the plans point to one of the most notable spectacles that has ever been witnessed in conjunction with a Catholic ceremony that has ever been witnessed in the United States.

The railroads of New England have planned to bring a large number to Boston on Saturday night and Sunday morning for the opening of the congress and excursion rates will apply from points south of New York. From Providence, Pawtucket, Newport and other Rhode Island sections, Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven and other cities of the Nutmeg states as well as from Taunton, Fall River, New Bedford and all other points large delegations are looked for.

Those conversant with the plans believe that the wonderful scenes witnessed three years ago in Montreal will be duplicated when the eucharistic congress opened in the Dominion's capital. The railroads were then taxed to their utmost to bring the enormous number of people into the city to view the procession of bishops and this on a more or less scale will be witnessed in Boston next Sunday morning. The procession of bishops will not start from the rectory of the cathedral until 9:30 o'clock, and the solemn pontifical mass will not start until a half-hour later, so that the thousands of people can reach the city previous to this event, taking the early trains on Sunday morning.

Those people, too, will have the opportunity of hearing some of the most celebrated preachers of the hierarchy of the church on Sunday evening. In every Catholic church of the city some bishop will preach next Sunday night, such distinguished prelates as Archbishop Pitaval of Santa Fe being at St. James church on Harrison avenue, and Archbishop Quigley of Chicago being at St. Cecilia's church in the Back Bay, two churches very close to the South station, while Archbishop McNeill of Toronto will be at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross to preside at the pontifical vespers, and Bishop Fallon will preach.

All of these incidents are highly incentive for attracting one of the largest crowds of Catholic people to Boston on next Sunday that has ever assembled here and the clergy and laity in charge of the preliminary plans of the missionary congress are making every preparation to care for these people and do what they can to allow them to see all there is to be seen on the coming notable occasion.

Never before in the United States has such an event been produced as will be witnessed in the Hub next Sunday morning. Even the plenary council at Baltimore some years ago will not compare with the coming occasion, and in fact, the picture to be seen in Boston next week will rival in many ways the one enacted in Montreal three years ago which attracted world wide attention.

Following the services in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross on Sunday morning the bishops will return in procession to the rectory, traversing the same route, and later on all the prelates will be entertained at luncheon in the hall of the cathedral school. The sessions of the congress will open in Symphony and horticultural halls on Monday and will continue until Thursday, while on Wednesday night there will be mass meetings in different cities and towns of the diocese with the speakers of note.

If you're looking for cheap clothes don't come to the live store, for they're not to be found here.

By cheap clothes, we mean the shoddy catch as catch can garments you'll see advertised under "circus" headlines and they are the bane of the good clothing merchant's life.

Kuppenheimer Clothes are the accepted standard in Men's "ready for service" apparel. You will find the new Fall and Winter Styles here and here alone in all their purchase compelling glory.

We need not list the models, the fabrics, the shades or the sizes, it's enough to tell you that we have just exactly what you want and as you alone are the judge, there can be no question as to the perfection of the fit you'll secure.

HEARING ON APPLICATION OF MRS. BLAKE FOR ALIMONY PENDING SUIT FOR SEPARATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The hearing on the application of Mrs. Katherine K. Blake for $1500 a month alimony and $5000 counsel fees pending settlement of her suit for separation from her husband, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, was postponed today until Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Counsel for Mrs. Blake denied that the matter would be settled out of court and were equally emphatic in saying that Mrs. Blake intended to press her million dollar suit against Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay for alleged alienation of Dr. Blake's affections.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING

ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 17.—Professor M. G. Leland, a druggist of this city, yesterday, while they were hunting in the Capitan mountains.

BODY FOUND AT SEA

PANET RIVER, Mass., Oct. 17.—The body of a seaman, believed to be one of the victims of the barge Oakland, was hauled from the surf today by life savers.

More wreckage from the barge J. B. Thomas, which is supposed to have sunk off Wellfleet Wednesday night, came ashore today, but there was no trace of the bodies of the four men who are thought to have been lost.

The outside beach of Cape Cod is covered with all sorts of wreckage from the storm.
